CUTTING, G.O.P. BOLTER, TO SEE GOV. ROOSEVELT

Personal Deal Seen With Independents Who Supported Him.

WARM SPRINGS BID QUICKLY ACCEPTED

President-Elect Again Points to Reforestation as Aid to Farm Recovery.

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—An indication that Franklin D. Roosevelt would deal personally with Republican independents who supported him came today with word from the President-elect that he had invited Senator Cutting, of New Mexico, to visit him at Warm Springs.

In a press conference held as he was leaving a meeting of the Georgia Forestry Association, where he had made a talk, Mr. Roosevelt said that he had invited all of those who would follow the Southern route on their way to Washington to come by Warm Springs.

His conferences that preceded his attendance at the meeting of the forestry association brought two principal groups to his hilltop cottage. They were headed by Representative Vinson, of Georgia, chairman of the House naval committee, and Representative Hill, of Alabama, author of the Muscle Shoals measure which has been passed by the House and is awaiting action by the Senate agriculture committee. Among his other visitors were Clark Howell, publisher of the Atlanta Constitution, and W. T. Anderson, publisher of the Macon Telegraph.

Question of Land Use.

In his speech before the Forestry Association meeting, the President-elect told of the advantages of practicing tree cultivation and converting submarginal farm lands into forests.

"It is a question of land use," he said, "a question of putting every acre in every State in the Union into the use to which it is most fitted. Every agency, Federal, State and local can cooperate in the work.

"We will come to a time when we will put overproduction in some lines and underproduction in others behind us.

"Then we will have a more stable population with the same kind of advantages in the country that we have in the city."

Association With Pinchot.

Mr. Roosevelt said that he had come to talk to them because they were persons who were interested in the same thing he was.

He added that his first interest in the problem of putting land to the

Zinovieff, Expelled Soviet Leader, Ill

Numerous Reports of His Death Are Denied by Moscow.

Moscow, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Gregory S. Zinovieff, once one of the powers in Soviet councils who was expelled from the Communist party for all time about a month ago on charges of conspiring against Joseph Stalin, was seriously ill today.

It was reported that a heart attack followed this expulsion and subsequently he was treated at Kremlin Hospital. There were apparently authoritative reports early today that he had died. This was denied later by the foreign office. The present whereabouts of M. Zinovieff was not disclosed.

Berlin, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Numerous reports of the death of Gregory S. Zinovieff, former head of the Third Internationale, who has been expelled twice from the inner councils of Soviet Russia, were received in Berlin today, but later were officially denied from Moscow.

Filipino Who Killed 6 In Seattle Called Sane

Seattle, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Dr. D. A. Nicholson, Seattle alienist, reported today to Prosecutor Robert M. Borgunder, that Julian Marcelino, 30, Filipino, ran amuck Thanksgiving Day [illegible] shows "no insanity at this time."

Dr. Nicholson added he believed Marcelino was sane when he killed his first victim, Tito Guatlo, a fellow Filipino. He said the killer also gave motives for killing two other victims, anger at a Negro because two Negroes had robbed him the night before, and anger at a grocer because the grocer called him "monkey face."

U. S. Asked to Bar Einstein as Radical

Women's Group Request Action Because of Red Affiliations.

Declaring that Prof. Albert Einstein, exponent of the theory of relativity, is actively affiliated with at least three internationally organized Communistic or anarchistic movements, the Woman Patriot Corporation, of Washington, yesterday demanded that the State Department deny the German scientist a passport to enter the United States this winter.

Recent dispatches from Germany reported Prof. Einstein's plan to take up his residence permanently in the United States.

In a four-page letter signed by Mrs. Randolph Frothingham, president, the Woman Patriot Corporation, cited sections of the immigration laws which it held made Prof. Einstein's exclusion from the United States mandatory.

The communication was addressed to A. Dana Hodgdon, chief of the Visa Division of the State Department. Along with the letter went a sixteen-page analysis of Prof. Einstein's record in alleged Communistic activities and an elaborately documented legal brief setting forth the statutory grounds for his exclusion or expulsion. Specifically, the letter requested that the State Department immediately instruct all American

500 ARE ARRESTED IN NUMBERS RACKET

Six Places Raided by Police; Some of Those Seized Are Women.

The first drive against the "numbers" racket by the new police administration last night resulted in the arrest of 500 persons.

Through a well-planned maneuver, policemen from the Second and Tenth Precincts entered six places said to be operated by the Golden Dollar, the Red, White and Blue, and the Paramount Corporations, taking into custody all the persons, most of them colored and some of them women, found in those places.

For several hours last night police in the two precincts were busy rounding up and questioning their wholesale catch.

Working under the direction of the Crime Prevention Bureau, six squads of policemen were organized for the raids. The squads were headed by Capt. Joe W. Pierson, Lieut. George Louton, Lieut. Frank Varney, Lieut. W. C. Balderson, Sergt. R. A. Carroll, Sergt. A. T. Bullock, and C. D. Schamp. A total of 31 patrolmen were mobilized into the squads.

Promptly at 10 o'clock, the squad descended on the six places, located at 1031 Park road, Tenth and U streets, 1326 U street, 1321 U street, 2213 Eighth street and 1728 Fourteenth street.

Police said all the operatives of the establishments would be charged with violation of the gaming laws, and the others would be held as witnesses.

D. C. Man Dies Suddenly In Auto at Baltimore

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Nov 29.—Ralph U. Drotchie, 40, 222 Farragut street northwest, fell dead today as he started to get out of his parked car at Fayette and Pine streets. He had just parked the machine, and slumped over as he reached for the door. The man was pronounced dead at the Franklin Square Hospital.

Police found a card in his pocket which gave his name and address.

U. S. AID AGAIN ASKED TO HANDLE MARCHES

All Entrances to City Will Be Guarded as Groups Arrive Sunday.

The Federal Government was again importuned by District officials yesterday to share in the responsibility of handling the nearing "hunger march" columns when they arrive in the Capital Sunday afternoon.

The first inkling of police procedure in dealing with the hunger march came yesterday afternoon with announcement by Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, that police will be stationed at all entrances to the city Sunday afternoon.

Any attempt of the marchers to file into the city in parade formation will be immediately frustrated, he said, in the absence of a permit for a formal procession. A strict surveillance of the actions of the hunger marchers will begin with their entrance and it is believed that searches may be made of their trucks and automobiles.

The Western contingent, it was learned, is expected to come in through Rockville and strike Wisconsin avenue on the way into the city. The Northern division is expected to come in by Bladensburg pike route and the Southern section over the highway bridge.

District Commissioners Luther H. Reichelderfer and Herbert B. Crosby, with their municipal legal adviser, William W. Bride, conferred for two hours with Assistant Attorney General Nugent Dodds.

Beyond the terse comment of Commissioner Crosby emerging from Dodds' office, "We don't know any more than when we came," no statement was forthcoming from the District heads.

Later, behind closed doors, the Commissioners, Mr. Bride and the six assistant corporation counsel, held a long session with regard to the possibilities of the hunger marchers' visit here.

Pair Charged With Killing 5 Babies, Buried on Farm

Accused Woman Believed Writer of Note Which Leads to Discovery of Bodies; Corpses Placed in Apple Boxes.

Augusville, Manitoba, Nov. 29 (U. P.).—Fred Stavishyn and Mrs. Nichola Yacab faced charges tonight of murdering five babies and burying the bodies on Mrs. Yacab's farm.

Royal Canadian mounted police arrested the couple. They had received an anonymous letter directing suspicion toward them. "Mounties" said they believed Stavishyn was the father of the infants and that all five had been strangled to death shortly after birth.

Police believed, they said, that Stavishyn and Mrs. Yacab quarreled and that she wrote the letter to them.

Search of the farm resulted in finding the bodies.

Mrs. Yacab, whose husband has been in the United States for several years, immediately was placed under arrest after the discovery. Because she linked the name of Stavishyn with her story, he also was arrested and charged with murder. Stavishyn has been a widower for fourteen years.

Police believe that the anonymous letter, received by Justice of the Peace C. H. Staples, came from Mrs. Yacab. It was said she had quarreled with Stavishyn after the two had carried on an illicit love affair since the absence of Mrs. Yacab's husband.

When Mrs. Yacab agreed to show police where the bodies of the infants had been buried, police began digging operations on the premises. By late afternoon the five bodies had been unearthed. All were buried in apple boxes, no deeper than 2 feet below the surface. The last was found within 40 yards of the shack in which the woman lived.

All showed evidences of being strangled.

MAN AND WIFE HELD, LINKED TO 75 BURGLARIES

Pair Taken in New York as Woman Is Trailed From Capital.

FINE GARB AND LOST HAT LEAD TO ARREST

$20,000 Robberies Believed Solved by Police Work in 3 Cities.

The solution of the wave of 75 housebreakings in fashionable apartments in the Northwest area from which $20,000 in loot was taken in the past four months, was believed near last night with the arrest of Kenneth M. Hundred, 27, and his attractively dressed wife, Frances. They were seized as they greeted each other in the Pennsylvania Station, New York.

As detectives closed in on the pair Hundred attempted to draw a gun, police said, but he was overpowered by detectives who had been trailing his wife for the last three days, in the belief that she would eventually lead them to their quarry, her husband.

The story of their detection is one of a woman's flair for expensive clothes; of a man's hat lost while being pursued by a detective, and of dogged perseverance by detectives, which eventually led them to New York, where they found twelve cases of clothing, a large quantity of jewelry and a miniature arsenal.

Carried Valises to Hotel.

A few weeks ago when the number of apartment housebreakings were at their height, a flimsy clew came to Chief of Detectives Frank S. W. Burke. It was that a young woman, having a modest income, was dressing very lavishly and was wearing expensive jewelry.

Detective Sergts. Tom Bragg, Tom Sullivan and Arthur Pihelly went to work. They learned that there was a young couple in an apartment hotel on upper Fourteenth street, who sent out from fifteen to twenty men's suits each week to be cleaned.

The man was seen to come in and out of the hotel at frequent intervals, carrying valises. Some of these were stored in their room and others were sent out. Those sent out were traced and are now ready to be impounded.

Loses Hat in Escaping.

About this time, the police, alarmed by the increasing number of burglaries, increased their vigilance, and the man, who had posed to hotel

Honduran Rebels Drive on Capital

Heavy Fighting Begins as Demand for Surrender of City Is Rejected.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Gen. Fonseca, head of the rebel army operating around Tegucigalpa, sent an ultimatum to President Carias today demanding surrender of the city within fifteen hours under threat of attack. The president refused to surrender and challenged the rebels to take the city by force if possible.

It was unofficially reported that heavy fighting started with the main rebel army near Sauce, 18 miles from Tegucigalpa. The Red Cross hurriedly left the city toward the battlefront and the bringing in of wounded began. It was reported later that the rebel army moved southward, leaving positions at Yagauacire and El Tisatio, in the neighborhood of Toncontin airfield.

Loyal Gens. Juan Z. Perez and Rufino Solis left for the battlefront, hoping a crushing defeat of rebels would relieve pressure on the city.

BINGHAM RAPS DEMOCRATS ON JOB TEST PLAN

Examination of Workers Transferred to Civil Service Scored.

PROPOSAL AFFECTS MORE THAN 10,000

McClintic, Sponsor, Says Many in Congress Have Pledged Support.

Commenting on the statement issued yesterday by Representative McClintic (Democrat), Oklahoma, asserting that Federal employes who have been transferred to the Civil Service roles by executive order must take an examination to qualify for their positions, Senator Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, last night declared "Nothing could exceed the rapacity of the new majority party."

"It is well known," he said, "that many employes in the Treasury Department came in under the Wilson regime. It never occurred to the Republicans to question the legality of their appointments. It remained for the Democrats, hungry for spoils, to propose a resolution which would require more than 10,000 employes to qualify under Civil Service examination for their jobs.

Raps Action in House.

"His statement (Representative McClintic's), 'They aren't as much involved by the change of administration as they otherwise would be,' is the most amazing exhibition of the doctrine that to the victor belong the spoils' seen since the administration of Andrew Jackson," Senator Bingham said.

"It is interesting to note that Mr. McClintic is chairman of the Democratic patronage committee of the House. It is also interesting to recall that when the Democrats took

$40,000 in Jewelry Stolen From Truck

Driver Kidnaped and Later Freed; Vehicle Is Found Abandoned in Alley.

Kansas City, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Police tonight attributed the reported theft of $40,000 in jewelry to experienced robbers who followed Sereno P. Davis, New York jewelry salesman, to Kansas City.

Logan Beaver, driver of a motor truck in which a trunk containing the jewelry was being taken to a Kansas City hotel, reported two men seized the trunk, then forced him into a motor car from which he was released unharmed near Tonganoxie, Kans.

The abandoned truck was found in an alley. Rudolph Kraxner reported seeing two men take a small trunk from the vehicle and place it in a sedan. Davis had brought the jewelry here from Oklahoma City.

Large Virginia Home Is Destroyed by Flames

The sixteen-room home of John Smallwood, located on the Lee highway near Merrifield, Va., about 4 miles north of Falls Church was destroyed by fire last night. The house had been newly furnished.

Smallwood and his wife were in Richmond at the time and their two sons were alone in the home when the fire broke out. The blaze was discovered by Wallace Covington, who lives about a half mile away. He called the volunteer fire departments from Falls Church and Fairfax, which were unable to save the house but kept the flames from spreading. The building was valued at approximately $10,000.

His Report Asks Addition of 50,000 Men.

PAY INCREASE ALSO BACKED

Repercussion Abroad Is Seen; Collins Raps View.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, in his annual report to the Secretary of War urged the strengthening of American garrisons in the Pacific and the increase of the Army by approximately 50,000 men as soon as Congress considers the Treasury fiscally fit. The recommendation is expected to create repurcussions that may stretch from Geneva to Tokyo. Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson had not yet read the report, but he is expected to be very much interested in it particularly as Gen. MacArthur emphasizes in his report the "untrustiworthiness of treaties as complete safeguards of international peace."

The League of Nations at present has the Lytton report under consideration and next week the report is to be submitted to the League Assembly for action.

In the present inflamed condition of Japanese public opinion, prompt reaction may follow the suggestion of Gen. MacArthur and the several references he has made in his report to the Far Eastern situation. The general traces the history of the Far Eastern situation and refers to the role played in it by the Thirty-first Infantry which has just completed five months' service there.

Refers to Posts Abroad.

He then states:

"In no case have we been able to assign to them (garrisons of important foreign possessions) the numbers that repeated studies show to be demanded by prudence."

In his review of the outlying military strength of the United States, the Chief of Staff refers to all the posts abroad where American soldiers are now on duty and gave his opinion of the sufficiency of the forces there.

In referring to the Philippines he pointed out the military complement of the islands with 633 officers and 11,111 men and then added:

"Outpost of American civilization in the western Pacific. Strength given includes 65 officers, 6,472 enlisted men in the Philippine Scouts. Important to United States as advanced defense base in event of any trouble in the Far East."

Hawaii is thus analyzed:

"Seven hundred and fifty-seven officers and 13,466 men for the principal naval base in the Pacific. No great fleet either ours or foreign could operate across that ocean without possessing these islands. Thus they constitute our great defensive outpost in that ocean."

The general recommends "some force is necessary for insuring ob-

FRATERNAL CHARITY FRAUD CHARGE MADE

Splitting of Huge Profits by Leaders of Eagles Is Alleged at Trial.

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Assistant United States Attorney Louis Mead Treadwell told a Federal courtroom today in the trial of officials of the Fraternal Order of Eagles and two others on lottery charges that he would prove that $1,750,000 had been raised in the name of charity "and not one penny of it went to charity."

On trial are Conrad H. Mann, of Kansas City, head of the Eagles order; Frank E. Hering, editor of the Eagles magazine, and Bernard C. McGuire and Raymond Walsh, described as promoters of an alleged lottery on behalf of the fraternal order.

The jury was sworn in today and the first witness was called—Eugene J. Balsinger, of Kansas City, auditor for the Eagles. He did not testify, however, as Judge Frank Coleman, before whom the case is being tried, adjourned court until 11 a. m. tomorrow.

"We are going to prove to you the amount of personal profit in this scheme," Prosecutor Treadwell said, "but I want to warn you that this is not the principal issue."

He maintained that Mann and McGuire had split $500,000 of the $1,750,000 between them. He said that 4,600,000 tickets were sold for 180 prizes, but he told the jury that the Fraternal Order of Eagles was in no way involved in the charges.

"In fact," he said, "the evidence will show that the personal profit made by defendants was at the expense of the Eagles."

The prosecutor said Hering had a contract with Mann by which he was to receive one-third of all profits of the Eagles bazaar department, which had charge of all money-raising activities of local Eagle aeries. Mann, Mr. Treadwell said, was director of this department and received 40 per cent of the profits.

McGuire, Mr. Treadwell continued, signed a contract with Mann in December, 1930, by which the local aeries of the Eagles were to conduct dances or frolics, ostensibly for char-

ENGLAND WILL PAY, LONDON PAPER SAYS

Approval of Appeal to U. S. Is Virtually Completed at Cabinet Session.

London, Wednesday, Nov 30 (U.P.). The Morning Post said today it had learned authoritatively that Great Britain has decided to pay its war debts installment to the United States on December 15.

Final details of the note which will inform the United States of this decision will be arranged at a cabinet meeting this morning, the Post said.

The Daily Herald said last night that the Bank of England, acting on urgent instructions from the British treasury, has arranged for the shipment of 30,000,000 pounds sterling in gold to New York for the purpose, if necessary, of meeting the December installment.

London, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Consideration of Britain's new war debt appeal to the United States was understood to have been virtually completed at a two-hour session of the cabinet tonight and it was expected the note would be dispatched tomorrow to Washington. It will be made public there, probably Thursday or Friday.

The final form was not adopted at tonight's session and further discussion will be held tomorrow.

The cabinet meeting followed a one-hour conference between Premier MacDonald and King George at Buckingham Palace.

While finishing touches were being put to the appeal for suspension of the December payment of $95,550,000 and for review of the whole Anglo-American debt funding agreement, the pound sterling dropped today to a new all-time low—$3.14¾. It closed at $3.15½.

While Britain will press its case for revision in the strongest possible terms, there was a growing belief here that the December payment will be made promptly if the American Congress does not yield. In no responsible government quarters has there been a hint of default as Britain's way out of the war debts problem.

Contents of the new note will not be published until time agreed upon

Italian Quiz Begun in Three Deaths in Florida Jail Fire

Removal of Justice of Peace, Accused of Incompetency and Drunkenness, Announced by Gov. Carlton; Special Constable Also Held.

Cedar Key, Fla., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Removal of Justice of the Peace T. W. Brewer by Gov. Doyle Carlton was announced today as an Italian consular agent began an investigation of the deaths of three Tarpon Springs fishermen whose charred bodies were found in the ruins of the little wooden jail here.

The consular agent began his probe at the order of the Italian consul general at New Orleans. He was assisted by leaders of the Greek sponge fishing colony at Tarpon Springs.

Brewer and Thomas Booth, special constable, were placed in jail at Bronson following a secret coroner's inquest. They were unable to furnish bond of $10,000 each. No specific charges were posted against them pending resumption of the coroner's inquest at Bronson tomorrow.

Acting on a request by J. C. Adkins, State's attorney, the governor suspended Brewer for "misfeasance, malfeasance, incompetency and drunkenness."

Adkins said there was evidence gasoline had been sprayed on the outside of the little jail where Stathis Johnnou, 27; Theodore Smarkos, 24, and George Georgiou, 38, all Italian citizens, had been incarcerated on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

The bodies, Amos Angelis, a sponge fisherman, told John Fassol, leader of the Tarpon Springs Creek community, were piled on one another, "and the skull of one was crushed."

Dr. J. W. Turner, who also is a State senator, corroborated part of this. He said he examined the bodies and found one skull crushed, and declared there was evidence of injury to the skull of another. He added

HOME BANK'S DELAY EXPLAINED BY FORT

Says Much Good Already Done; Loans Held Up by Legal Obstacles.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Despite unforeseen legal obstacles encountered in establishing a system of home-loan banks throughout the country, Chairman Franklin Fort, of the Home Loan Bank Board, predicted yesterday that the new Federal mortgage system would be able to extend credits in considerable volume within the next 60 days.

He denied that sharp differences of opinion within the board had delayed loans, and undertook to answer those who have criticized the board for its failure to call upon the Treasury for any part of the $125,000,000 capital fund made available under the law.

He pointed out that in many cases State laws prohibit institutions eligible for membership in the system to subscribe to its capital stock, but where this difficulty was not encountered the organization campaign has advanced according to the plan set down by the board last August.

No Funds Yet Advance

Thus far the board has approved but one application for credit to a member institution, and no funds have been advanced on this account, Mr. Fort said. Some of the twelve regional banks, however, have sizable capital funds of their own and will be in a position to make advances as soon as the board at Washington approves the membership applications of the prospective borrowing institutions.

No direct loans to individuals have yet been made through the regional banks. Many applications for such loans have been received by each of the twelve banks. Although members of the board have not been called upon to pass upon any of these applications, information in the hands of board is to the effect that many, if not most of these distress appeals, reveal no basis whatever for sound credits. Some of the applications are for third, arth or even fifth mortgages on property, Mr. Fort explained, and some seek loans up to 60 or 90 per cent of the original appraised value.

Benefits Are Cited.

"But the fact that the board has not been making actual advances does not mean that the new system has not afforded real relief in many cases," Chairman Fort continued. "We have knowledge of many advances made by prospective members merely on the assurance that the new system was set up and going. It afforded these eligible institutions an added resource should an emergency arise in their own particular situation. Of course, there is no way to measure the actual amount of such loans, but we know they have been considerable."

In reviewing the many legal complexities encountered in establishing the new national chain of mortgage discount banks, Mr. Fort pointed out that the boards of directors of the twelve regional institutions had been selected by October 15, although the members of the Federal Board here, which supervised the regional organizations, was not sworn into office until August 9. He recalled also that although the Federal Reserve law had been approved in December, 1913, it did not actually function as a discount agency until November 16, 1914.

Emergency Action Barred.

"And in the case of the Federal Reserve System," he added, "the law created the original membership by legal mandate. In our case, no institution was compelled to become a member. In spite of all this, however, we have completed the organization work and now are ready to begin consideration of actual advances to members."

The board is unanimous in the policy that loans shall be made only on the most secure collateral, Mr. Fort explained. Such a policy is necessarily a bit slower in execution, but it is the only one which will maintain the marketability of the loan system's debentures, he added. The board hopes to sell its debentures to the public at a low rate of interest, but any hasty policy which might bring the security behind these debentures into question would immediately undermine the greatest asset and resource of the system—public confidence in its issues. Despite the tremendous pressure being exerted on the board for distress loans, the members are agreed that no emergency operation shall be sanctioned which might jeopardize the long-time effectiveness of the new system as a permanent mortgage discount agency.

THEIR SHELTER PLEA DENIED

marchers' vehicles was among the topics discussed by the Commissioners with their legal aids, it was learned.

The Capitol Police Board, which has charge of enforcing police regulations on the Capitol grounds, today will meet in special session to consider possibilities of the hunger marchers seeking to demonstrate there. Maj. Brown will sit in at the meeting, it was announced, presumably to devise a plan of cooperation between the two authorities.

Comprising the Capitol board are David Lynn, architect of the Capitol; Kenneth Romney, sergeant at arms of the House, and David Barry, sergeant at arms of the Senate. Final authority over the Capitol grounds is vested in the Vice President and Speaker of the House. Decisions of today's meeting will probably be sent to the Vice President and Speaker for their approval or disapproval.

A trio of hunger march leaders yesterday appeared at the District Building and during a conference with the Commissioners, demanded that food and housing be provided for the marchers while they are here to petition Congress for relief.

The attitude previously expressed by the Commissioners that no help would be extended the hunger marchers, was reiterated after the group had put forward their request.

"The position of the authorities seems to be that of attempting to bring about violence," said William Reynolds, national chairman of the Unemployed Councils of America," one of the trio. Herbert C. Benjamin, national secretary, and Amelia Shelton, 19-year-old Washington girl, were the other members of the group.

Reynolds said that the mission of the hunger marchers was a peaceful one and that they were entitled to food and shelter while here.

Petition to Hoover.

Food and housing for the marchers while here was announced last night at the headquarters of the unemployment council as having been pledged by local friends of the movement. Other supplies have been promised from New York and Baltimore, it was added.

President Hoover was asked in a letter yesterday from the Women's International League, to pledge "that Federal troops will never again be used against peaceful and unarmed citizens * * * no matter what the provocation * * *."

Cleveland, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Several hundred self-styled "hunger marchers" en route to Washington moved eastward across Ohio today and found a succession of "no welcome" signs.

The largest cavalcade, hastily ordered to depart from Toledo, was hustled through Sandusky under a police escort and headed for an equally cool reception in Cleveland.

Another group anticipating a meal at Springfield left without anything to eat. Mayor Lewis L. Miller offered to feed them if they would turn back to their homes, but they refused and departed unfed for Columbus, where hours later they were welcomed and fed by the local unemployed council.

The column from Toledo was ordered from that city by Mayor O. Addison Thacher after some members complained they were given beans and sour potatoes at the Municipal Welfare House. Officials insisted the food was of good quality and forced the group to leave several hours ahead of schedule, while police stood by with tear-gas bombs and night sticks.

At Sandusky, a group was met at the city limits by police and escorted through the city without being allowed to stop.

The "not wanted sign" also was hung out for the marchers at Steubenville. Mayor W. H. McMaster issued a warning for the marchers to stay away, that there was neither food, lodging nor gasoline for them there. The mayor said they would not be permitted to stop in the city.

Group Reaches New Haven.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—New England's self-styled "hunger marchers," en route to Washington, reached here from Boston today after having picked up recruits in Providence, Hartford and other cities.

Carl Reeve, of Boston, captain of the column, said 150 marchers would continue their trek tomorrow. The arrivals were greeted here by a mass meeting sponsored by the New Haven Unemployed Council.

The marchers were quartered in a lodge hall tonight. They expected to reach New York tomorrow night.

St. Louis, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Crowded into five trucks and twelve automobiles about 125 "marchers" and 25 "bonus army" veterans left St. Louis today for Washington, prepared to demonstrate for unemployment relief and immediate bonus payment.

Forces Are Divided.

The forces divided in East St. Louis, the "bonus marchers" taking to freight trains and the "marchers" heading for Vincennes, Ind., where they said they had been promised food and lodging overnight.

The start of the march was delayed here for half an hour while Henry Smith, Kansas City, Mo., leader of the veterans group, demanded from officers of the unemployed councils of St. Louis, a Communistic organization, that transportation be provided for his men to East St. Louis, Ill.

Leaders of the march declined to give out names of St. Louis members of the march, saying that members of their families were on the relief rolls here "and their families would be cut off if it were known they were on the march."

Ohio Mayor Denies Pleas.

Steubenville, Ohio, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Leaders of self-styled "hunger marchers" advancing on Washington received an emphatic "no" from Mayor James McMaster today as they asked for aid here and were ejected bodily when they insisted he change his verdict.

"I told them there were too many unemployed and hungry persons in Steubenville for us to feed 500 'marchers' and to donate gasoline as the men asked," McMaster said tonight.

"When they insisted I cleared the room with one rush."

The mayor is 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 250 pounds.

Group Moves on New York.

Yonkers, N. Y., Nov. 29 (U.P.).—Coming in two motor caravans, 150 "hunger marchers" arrived in Yonkers tonight from points in up-State New York and Maine, Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

Miss Louise Morrison, of Schnectady, N. Y., one of the marchers, addressed a meeting of about 400 Yonkers citizens who gathered in Larkin Square. There were seven trucks and two automobiles in two caravans.

Sandwiches and coffee were provided by the unemployed council of Yonkers and the merged caravan left for New York City later in the evening.

Stage Fright Hits Al Smith As Benefit Concert Soloist

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—With knees shaking and voice trembling, "Al" Smith made his debut tonight as a concert singer.

Before a thousand men and women at a benefit "community sing," the political warrior staked his vocal fame on a husky rendition of his famous campaign song, "The Sidewalks of New York."

The song was an old one to him. He had heard it in dozens of States from California to New England when he was running for President in 1928. But he had never sung a public solo before.

The affair had all the aspects of an opera premiere. Men were there in evening dress, women in jewels and decollette gowns. The excitement of a "first night" was in the air.

For an hour they waited and sang "Old Black Joe," "Dixie" and things like that.

Then came Smith. He walked onto the stage with the embarrassment of a schoolgirl about to recite a piece.

Spotlights beat down on him. Perspiration rolled off his florid face. He grinned at the orchestra leader. The orchestra leader grinned back. He grinned at the audience and received in return enough applause to satisfy any opera diva.

Then he made a little speech and told how he had been canvassing the streets of New York on foot today for funds for the unemployed. He seemed to have regained his self-assurance, but he lost it again when he remembered that song he had promised to sing.

The orchestra went into the theme song. Smith stood grinning. No one sang—not even the soloist. Halfway through the orchestral rendition he turned to the leader and said:

"Say, am I supposed to begin?"

So they started over again. Then came the big moment. Smith threw back his head, bent his knees and began.

"Eastside, Westside,
"All around the town—"
"Barber shop tenor," whispered a woman in the first row.
"The girls sang 'Ring-a-Rosie
"London Bridge Is Falling Down'—"
"No, I think he's a barytone-bass," another woman whispered back.
"Boys and girls together.
"Me and Mamie O'Rourke——"

Smith seemed to be getting into his stride. He was losing his stage-fright. He was swinging his arms. His gasps for air were less frequent.

"Tripped the light fantastic
"On the Sidewalks of New York."

With a final roar, the song was ended.

Western Farm Marchers Continue Journey Here

Omaha, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Twenty-eight Nebraska, Idaho and Oregon farm marchers today resumed their journey to Washington in two covered trucks after an overnight stop here.

Anton Rosenberg, of Newman Grove, Nebr., caravan captain, announced his group planned to join the North and South Dakota and Montana delegations at Denison, Iowa, today. The group was en route to a national relief conference at Washington December 7-10.

Business Men's Group Opposes Hunger March

Two resolutions, one in vigorous opposition to the hunger march and the other in approval of the appointment of Inspector E. W. Brown as superintendent of police were adopted last night by the Georgia Avenue Business Men's Association. The association, in a letter to be sent to the inaugural committee, asked that inaugural ceremonies be enlarged.

At the suggestion of Louis Rothschild, manager of the Better Business Bureau, the association voted to form a vigilantes committee to check false advertising and sharp business practices in its neighborhood.

HOUSE REPEAL VOTE OPPOSITION WANES

Foes Now Feel It Is Better to Dispose of Issue as Soon as Possible.

(Associated Press.)

Opposition to a House vote on prohibition repeal Monday apparently reached a new peak yesterday and then quickly diminished as both Democratic and Republican members began conceding that the quicker the question is disposed of the better.

Encouraged by reports that more than 100 Republicans would vote for his flat repeal and State convention proposal, Speaker Garner said late yesterday it was his intention to carry out his plan for action almost as soon as Congress convenes.

In addition, a large group of Southern Democrats, who had registered opposition to the proposal, told the Vice President elect they had decided the issue should come to a vote Monday to clear the way for consideration of other pressing legislation.

Division of Opinion.

A division of opinion over the form the resolution should take appeared for a time to imperil possible action Monday. Some members favored submitting the proposition to Legislatures for ratification and others declared for provisions to outlaw the saloon and guarantee Federal protection to dry States.

These views are to be considered by the Judiciary committee Friday. Chairman Sumners will ask its authority to submit the proposal to the House. Sumners conferred with the Speaker yesterday and agreed to take charge of the resolution if directed by his committee, although he favors ratification by the Legislatures.

Duty, Declares Garner.

Referring to the planks in the Democratic and Republican national platforms calling for immediate consideration by Congress of the prohibition question and for submission of the proposed new amendment to State conventions, Garner asked:

"In view of the declarations by the parties and the results of the recent election, how could I do otherwise than to ask for outright repeal at once and ratification by conventions? It is our duty to keep good faith."

Earlier the speaker said he would canvass the situation to determine by Saturday whether a majority of the House wanted to vote Monday, but later he declared:

"I am convinced that a majority wants a vote. My intention is to carry out my original plans."

INCREASE IN PACIFIC FORCES URGED IN McARTHUR REPORT

servation of international treaties" in China, where there are at the present time 45 officers and only 719 men.

The situation in China at the time of the Shanghai incident was grave and fraught with ominous possibilities, the report states. "The tense situation in the Far East * * * supported by a general appreciation of the potentalities in the Sino-Japanese difficulty for a widespread disaster, gave rise to a feeling of apprehension among portions of our population and was reflected in expressions of anxious concern as to the adequacy of our defensive structure."

Exhaustive comparisons were established between the pay of Army officers and other professions, like teaching, and then the recommendation is made that the pay laws be revised in order "to bring the schedule into line with the cost of maintaining a reasonable and appropriate living standard."

Arouses Much Comment.

The suggestion that additional strength should be added to the Army provoked considerable comment in congressional circles.

Representative Ross Collins (Democrat), of Mississippi, chairman of the appropriations subcommittee, which recommended the retirement of 2,000 officers, declared that such a recommendatoin had been made by the Army officers represented on the Interdepartmental Pay Board which had discussed the reduction. In his report yesterday, Gen. MacArthur took to task the "small section of the press" which supported the military cut. He declared:

"This latter element invariably misstated the general staff's motives in combating the project, constantly assuming that the department was actuated solely by a desire to protect individual officers from a diminution of income."

Statement by Collins.

Representative Collins, in this connection, last night issued a statement saying:

"It has been recognized for the past 8 or 10 years that the Army was top heavy with Army officers. Not only top heavy, but many of them are overage and others not physically able to stand the hardships of war. Younger officers in the Army have realized that there is no chance for promotion for a long number of years until these overage and physically unfit officers are eliminated.

"Secretary Good recognized the situation when he was Secretary of War and stated to members of Congress that the officer strength should be reduced by 4,000, so as to give the ones left something to do and so as generally to increase the efficiency of the Army.

"A couple of years ago an Interdepartmental Pay Board was created, composed of high-ranking officers of the military services, and this board, headed by Gen. Simonds, recommended that enforced separation be resorted to in order to eliminate a large number of overage and physically unfit officers, and thus give younger officers a chance for orderly promotion.

Promotion Proposed.

Gen. MacArthur, himself, recognized that a terrible situation existed in the Army as a result of these overage officers, for he suggested a promotion bill which proposed to designate the proper officers as "starred" officers and the overage officers as "unstarred" officers. His proposal makes the "starred" officers the promotion list officers, and when one of them is promoted all of the "unstarred" officers above him in his grade are promoted simultaneously when he is promoted. In other words, Gen. MacArthur, in his promotion bill, would carry along the unstarred officers as mere dead weight, rather than retire them. If the services of these retired were needed, they immediately could be recalled into active service if they were physically and mentally fit for service. They would be paid three-fourths of their active base pay plus longevity pay, and would be just as much officers of the Army after retirement as before.

"It seems to me the proper policy to be pursued by the Government in this matter is to approach it in a straightforward, businesslike way, and eliminate the unfit even though it may be an unpleasant thing to do. The Congress should wish to improve the national military defense rather than hurt it. The Congress should wish to increase the efficiency of the entire officer personnel of the Army and the proposal to eliminate 2,000 unfit and average officers was in the interest of efficiency and national defense, and Gen. MacArthur's proposal to continue them on the pay roll as dead weight militates against military preparedness by injuring and seriously harming the young officers who must of necessity fight the Nation's battles in time of war.

Proper Balance Urged.

"Modern warfare requires a proper balance between personnel and effective military machines, which we call materiel. The current War Department appropriation act provides for a large personnel, but the personnel is unimplemented, with the result that just about as little military preparedness as is possible is provided for.

"Gen. MacArthur seems to be imbued with the European continental idea that only man power is essential to provide military defense. This policy may have been the true one 100 years ago, but today modern warfare requires the use of tanks, planes, mechanical implements of all kinds, chemicals, and machine guns. Forward thinking military men have been forced to the view that personnel must partially give way in military budgets so that effective military weapons can be provided. Every such effective military weapon increases the general efficiency of the military establishment.

"I am terribly disappointed in Gen. MacArthur's statement in his annual report. I had great hopes that the general would build our Army along modern lines and not permit his handiwork to be a mere slavish imitation of European continental fashions. Frankly, I am disappointed in what seems to be his attitude of marching with the band."

Backers of Larger Fleet Plan to Push Their Drive

(Associated Press.)

Despite drives for economy and the fact that a treaty Navy bill did not pass the House last session, proponents of a fleet as big as international agreements allow are going ahead with their campaign.

Representative Britten, of Illinois, ranking Republican on the naval committee, is promoting votes for the cause.

He said he would lay his plan before Representative Vinson (Democrat), Georgia, chairman of the committee, as soon as he returns.

The ranking Democrat on the committee, McClintic, of Oklahoma, opposed Britten's idea.

"I think he has just about as much chance of wasting the people's money on warships as he has of flying to the moon," McClintic said.

Britten, however, recalled that the Hale bill, giving blanket authorization for a treaty fleet, passed the Senate last session and now is pending before the House committee. He suggested that it be amended to authorize an 8-inch gun cruiser, an airplane carrier and a 6-inch gun cruiser with a flying deck.

"With the old world owing us countless millions, we ought to be in a position to protect ourselves," Britten said. "We have a lot of gold and we should protect that as well as our territory."

New Message Service Is Planned by Postal

An advance date gift and message service for those who desire to remember the anniversaries of relatives and friends and are fearful of not doing so is being offered by the Postal Telegraph Co. beginning December 1.

The new service will be operated under the direction of Mrs. Richard V. Oulahan, director of the telegraph company's personal service bureau. Mrs. Oulahan explains the new service as follows:

"This new service is designed to be a sort of perpetual string around the fingers of the forgetful. Those who have difficulty in remembering the birthdays of their wives or husbands or other anniversaries and important dates are advised to make use of this plan, writing out their message or ordering their gift while they think of it. Arrangement may be made for delivery of messages on desired dates, months or even years in advance. Our personal service bureau will remember the dates and will see that delivery is made on the dates requested."

Postal Receipts Drop Is Reported

U. S. Department Claims New Rate Has Helped Revenue, However.

(Associated Press.)

In its first announcement of postal receipts since rates were increased last July 6, the Postoffice Department said yesterday that 50 selected cities had shown a reduction in revenue "of but 1.20 per cent."

Using a mathematical formula, the department estimated the higher rates, including 3 cents on first-class mail, had produced in the 50 cities $12,133,195 of revenue in excess of the amount that could have been expected under the old rates.

Chairman Mead yesterday called the House postoffice committee to meet Monday to consider his bill to reduce first-class postage from 3 to 2 cents.

"The increased postage not only failed to produce the $150,000,000 estimated by the Treasury and Postoffice Departments but resulted in an actual decrease in volume," he said.

SIMONE ACCUSES 2 IN TEA HOUSE CASE

Turns State's Evidence and Says Men Went to Place With Robbery Intent.

Turning State's evidence because, he said, he had been promised that murder charges against him would be nolle prossed, Thomas Simone, Philadelphia tobacconist, yesterday took the stand against two Baltimore men charged with murder in connection with the Old Colonial Tea House shooting last fall.

Simone told a La Plata Circuit Court jury he went to the house with James Zalenski and John Wallace and three other men on November 23, 1931, to rob the place. In the resulting gun battle, Grover Amick, of Washington, was killed and five other persons were wounded.

"What was wour reason for going to the tea room that night?" Simone was asked by Frank Hall, special prosecuting attorney.

Promised Immunity.

"We was going to hold the place up—get the money," Simone replied.

Testimony that Simone was promised immunity for testifying was brought out by Defense Attorney J. Wilson Ryon on cross-examination.

Aside from Simone's statements, the State's case seems to rest largely on two ominous guns which have been identified as the property of Wallace. One of them, a .45 automatic pistol, was found in the house when the firing had stopped. The other, a sawed-off shotgun cut down for use as a pistol, was discovered a few blocks from the house about a month later.

Girls Tell of Gun.

Two girls, inmates of the house who said they had been brought there by Wallace, swore that the automatic was his, and one of them said she had seen the shotgun in his possession. Herman Velenti, of Baltimore, who said his wife once operated a disorderly house which Wallace managed, also identified the guns as belonging to the accused man.

Simone, who is 30 years old, said he had known both Wallace and Zalenski before the shooting. The night before he left Philadelphia with Joe Hoffman, Joe Reno and a man known only as "Indian Nuts," he said. The four men, all of Philadelphia, met Wallace and Zalenski at a shore resort near Baltimore.

"We all got talking together," he said, "and Hoffman asked 'Is everything ready?' and he said 'Yes,' so they started talking and different things. One guy got together with another fellow and he said 'O. K., let's hurry up if we're going to do this thing. Let's get out of here.'"

Traveled in Two Cars.

The six men then left the place and went to Bladensburg in two cars. Arrived there, Wallace and Zalenski stayed outside the tea house to disable cars belonging to patrons, while the other four approached the house, Simone said. Hoffman and Reno met the manager of the place at the door and kept him under guard while Simone watched the men in the kitchen and Indian Nuts herded the rest of them into the same room.

While the patrons were lined up in the kitchen, Simons said he saw one of them draw a gun and fire at the bandits. The first bullet struck him in one leg and he was shot in the other, he said, by one of the men of his own party. He dived through a doorway and saw no more of the battle, he said.

The State will not attempt to show that either Wallace or Zalenski fired the shot that killed Amick, it appeared from Mr. Hall's opening address to the jury. It is trying to show that the murder was committed in the course of a felony planned by the two defendants, which amounts to murder under the Maryland law. The defense, on the other hand, will attempt to prove an alibi for Wallace, according to Ryon's address to the jury.

The case was continued late yesterday afternoon until today, the jury being locked up overnight in care of two bailiffs.

The State is represented by Alan Bowie, State's attorney of Prince Georges; Mr. Hall, appointed by the court as special prosecutor, and Edward J. Edelen, State's attorney of Charles County. Appearing for the accused men are J. Wilson Ryon and Albert R. Hassall, of Prince Georges; State Senator Walter Mitchell and John Mudd, of Charles, and Paul Mules, of Baltimore.

Dr. John T. Maloney, of Cheverly, Md., was the first witness called yesterday by the State. He performed an autopsy on Amick and testified the man was killed by a bullet which entered his back and pierced his liver. Dr. Maloney was followed by Mrs. Anna Osborne, of 6119 Georgia avenue northwest, who told of sitting in a car outside the house during the holdup. Mrs. Osborne, who was formerly Anna Lecklider, has married George Osborne since the shooting.

Constables on Stand.

Constables Andrew Gasch and Charles W. Wilson told of going to the house after the shooting and of finding the weapons produced against Wallace. John Bonaccorsey, 10, who lives near the house, described how he found the shotgun during the Christmas holidays.

Mae Dix, an inmate of the tea house at the time of the shooting, said under oath that Wallace had brought her and Jean Gordon to the house.

She was followed by Josephine Shubert, alias Jean Gordon, a hesitant, demure girl of 19, who said she had been in many such houses, mostly in Baltimore. The Gordon girl verified the testimony of the Dix woman that she had seen Wallace with the automatic.

Selection of the jury took about an hour and a half, 55 names being called before the panel was complete. The jury as finally completed consisted of Francis V. Wheatley, foreman; Frank E. Cooksey, Thomas R. Norris, John P. Marshall, J. Thomas Bowling, William R. Nally, Leon Bailey, Jefferson D. Robertson, Wallace S. Bowers, Austin Simms, Ernest W. Wedding and Gustave Owen.

JOHNSON ASKS NEW DEAL WITHIN G. O. P.

Fiery Californian Returns to Capital; Derides Threat of Disciplining Bolters.

Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, who left the Republican fold to campaign for Gov. Roosevelt, came back yesterday to the Capital asserting his own Republicanism and demanding a "new deal" within the party.

The fiery Californian joined Senator Norris, of Nebraska, another of the Republican independent group who supported Roosevelt, in promising support for the new administration but declining any part in the Democratic machine of the new Congress.

"A new deal in Government is coming," Johnson asserted to newspapermen. "While I am the last person in the world to indulge in advice there has got to be a new deal in the Republican party. Unless there is a new deal in the Republican party the last election has its ominous warning. The great mass of our people believe this Government has been administered for others and for a special few. The Republican party has got to recognize these people."

Again Scores Hoover.

Again, the Californian struck out at President Hoover, recalling his own statement a year ago that the "rank and file" of the party would be grateful if the President had not stood for renomination.

Still somewhat stunned by the general election results, the Republican regular organization which stood by the President is slowly making its plans for a wholesale reorganization but there is no inkling that the old guard leaders, several of whom were defeated, are flirting with the independents of the party.

Also, there is no disposition on the part of the regulars generally to split entirely with the independents of the party or to seek to punish them for deserting the national ticket.

"There Is a Job to Do."

In this connection, Johnson who himself is up for reelection in 1934 remarked yesterday:

"It is all poppycock to talk of reading someone out of the party. It is the other way around. In California Gov. Roosevelt polled as many Republican votes as Mr. Hoover. If some of the gentlemen on the other side don't stop their clamoring we will read them out of the Republican party."

He also went directly to the situation in California, declaring the Republican organization there was "owned" by Harry Chandler, of Los Angeles. He said Chandler "is no more a Republican than the man in the moon."

"I decline to admit that he represents the Republican party. There is a job to do."

Chest to Continue Drive Until Dec. 10

Federal Solicitation Will Be Renewed, U. S. Unit Decides.

Continuation of the Community Chest campaign in the Government departments until December 10 was decided yesterday by the executive committee of the Governmental Unit at a meeting in the office of Gov. Thomas E. Campbell, president of the Civil Service Commission.

Gov. Campbell called attention to the large per centage of quota contributed by the lower salary brackets as compared with the gifts of some of those in the higher brackets. "I think it is because these people are closer to those actually in need," he said.

An urgent appeal to District employes to raise the quota of $112,869 for the Chest was made yesterday in letters sent section chiefs by District Auditor Daniel J. Donovan, divisional chairman.

MORTON DOWNEY GIVES "INSIDE TIP" ON NEW DODGE "6"

MORTON DOWNEY

New York, N. Y.—Morton Downey, star singer of the Columbia Broadcasting System, whose dulcet tenor songs hold millions of radio listeners enthralled, was given an advance showing here today of the new Dodge Six.

"I have an inside tip for America!" he exclaimed. "Wait for the new Dodge. Talk about a car! Wait till you see this one. It's as modern as television. With such looks, such performance, and such features, it will certainly occupy the spotlight next year."

The Dodge organization withholds official announcement of a new car, but it is reliably reported that there will be shortly presented to the public a Dodge Six whose quality and low price set a revolutionary standard for value in the field of motor cars.—Adv.

LAW VIOLATION LAID TO ECONOMY LEAGUE

Patman Declares Antibonus Group Failed to File Its Account With Clerk.

(Associated Press.)

The already raging congressional battle over proposed cuts in Federal benefits to veterans flared even higher yesterday, with an assertion from Representative Patman (Democrat), Texas, that the National Economy League had violated the law by not reporting its receipts and expenses to the clerk of the House.

As Patman, a leading bonus payment proponent, issued his statement saying there had been a violation of the corrupt practices act, the league through its new office here prepared to present its arguments soon to the joint congressional committee on veterans' legislation.

Patman said an "investigation will disclose that international bankers and other large bankers, including the Mellon and Morgan group, are contributing" to the league. The object of the league, he asserted in a statement, "is to promote the interest of a few large income-tax payers."

League Proceeds Silently.

At league offices no immediate reply was made. But work continued in the effort to reduce veterans' expenditures by more than $450,000,000 annually.

After the joint congressional committee meets and organizes—possibly tomorrow—it will conduct open hearings. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, will be one of the first witnesses. The American Legion, opposing reductions, and the Economy League, supporting them, have asked permission to present their views.

Economy League officials said yesterday that they want immediate reductions as follows: Spanish-American War pensions, $109,000,000; disability compensation to World War veterans, $125,000,000; retired pay of World War emergency officers, $7,000,000; administrative costs, $30,000,000; hospitalization, $39,000,000; military and naval insurance, $25,000,000.

Drive on Pensions.

They also want to eliminate altogether the $104,277,554 paid annually to World War veterans as allowances for disabilities not incurred in actual service and avoid spending $12,877,000 for new hospitals and domiciliary facilities, as was done last year.

They are organizing branches in each State and will carry them to each congressional district to support the economy efforts. Tabulations of each Representative's vote on every economy proposal will be kept before the voters by the league.

The league will oppose, too, cash payment of the bonus; pensions for widows and orphans of World War veterans and the extension of any more benefits to former soldiers whose ailments do not clearly originate from service.

The American Legion is supporting all these proposals, and will push the bonus as soon as the other things are out of the way.

ity. The tickets for these affairs were used for the distribution of the lottery prizes.

Books of thirty-two tickets to be sold at 50 cents a ticket were given to Eagle members, the jury was told. As a premium for disposing of the book, the member received merchandise and ten free tickets.

"Local lodges got $500 each," the prosecutor said, "and Mann and McGuire split $500,000 between them. Hering participated in the money received by Mann.

"The role issue before you, however," Mr. Treadwell told the jury, "is whether these defendants caused lottery tickets to be transported in interstate commerce."

$500,000 IN BONDS STOLEN FROM BANK

Clerk's Cage of Depository in New York Is Looted in Noon Rush Hour.

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Half a million dollars in Liberty bonds were stolen today from a paying teller's cage in the Continental Bank, in the heart of New York's financial district.

The teller, Robert Drummond, said the bonds, five of $100,000 each, disappeared from a shelf in his cage between 12:30 and 2 p. m.

The loss was covered by insurance.

After bank officials absolved Drummond of any suspicion of any sort, detectives advanced the belief the bonds were filched from the cage possibly by a cane with gum on the end.

Examination of the ledge of the shelf disclosed traces of a sticky substance.

Drummond said he had left his cage several times in the interval between arrival of the bonds and their disappearance.

During this time, Drummond said, two men came up to his cage, asking the procedure of cashing a check drawn upon a California bank. Other tellers also recalled the visit of the two men and they were taken, along with Drummond, to police headquarters to search through photographs in the rogue's gallery.

Police said the theft doubtless was committed by some one who knew of the transfer of the bonds to the Continental Bank from the C. F. Childs Co., of 1 Wall street.

The missing bonds were half of a million dollar transfer. Drummond said he had laid the five upon the shelf to await the remaining batch. When these arrived at 2 p. m., the teller discovered the loss.

The serial numbers of the bonds, of the 3½ per cent issue due in 1945, were 899, 900, 2238, 3688 and 5037.

D. C. Legion Heads Oppose Debt Cuts

Stand Taken Also Against Hunger Marches on Washington.

The executive committee of the District Department of the American Legion last night adopted a resolution introduced by Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, U. S. A., retired, which placed the department in opposition to any cancellation of foreign debts and recommended that a special committee be formed to prepare statistics and figures on cancellation for distribution among the Legion posts throughout the country.

In another resolution the committee requested the national organization to ask all veterans and legionnaires to refrain from participation in any hunger march on Washington. In speaking for its adoption, Fred G. Frazer, former department commander, said that many Community Chest contributions were lower this year because of money given to the bonus army during its stay here last summer.

Persident Hoover was requested to take steps to change a situation alleged to exist in the Office of Public Buildings and Parks, where, it was said, disabled veterans were being furloughed for longer periods than other employes, in a further resolution adopted by the committee.

BRITAIN TO PAY DECEMBER 15 INSTALLMENT, PAPER STATES

by the two governments. It will be made public simultaneously in both capitals.

Considered Very Important.

The document was expected to be one of the most important, so far as Britain is concerned, since the World War era, dealing not only with the immediate situation, but the whole range of intergovernmental obligations.

The whole discussion was proceeding in a more moderate tone in London than last week. The Evening News summed up the general feeling: "If the United States insists, then the cabinet thinks we ought to pay." There was a somewhat more cheerful feeling in London financial circles, one contributing factor having been a dinner at the House of Lords last night, where the doors were closed and locked and even waiters forbidden to enter, after coffee was served. Some of the nation's leading financial, economic and industrial authorities discussed the monetary and debt situation at the meeting for two hours.

Herriot to Refuse Debate.

Paris, Nov. 29 (U.P.).—Premier Edouard Herriot decided today to risk the overthrow of his government rather than permit the Chamber of Deputies to debate the United States war debt payment question Thursday.

Disregarding a growing agitation in the Parliament for a showdown on the debt question, the premier requested that Deputy Louis Marin's resolution, envisaging virtual repudiation of the debt payment, come before the chamber Thursday.

The government will then demand immediate adjournment of debate. The demand automatically raises the question of confidence. If the chamber refuses to adjourn the discussion, the Herriot government will fall.

Deputy Marin's resolution opposes the granting of 'ariff concessions in exchange for a debt reduction, declaring that "our industry and agriculture can not pay the cost of such bargaining."

Stand Is Reaffirmed.

"The chamber," it concludes, "reaffirms today, as on many similar occasions, that France can not burden its taxpayers with charges on debt agreements if Germany is freed from the same thing, either provisionally or definitely.

"The chamber declares, in any case, that France will not pay more than she receives in reparations; that her rights to reparations moreover are entirely reserved, and no compensation can be envisaged in any other domain, such as security or tariffs; that negotiations regarding such questions must be independent of interallied debts."

The resolution recalls the reservation the chamber attached to the Mellon-Berenger agreements, and declares that President Hoover has repeatedly linked debts with reparations.

Cites Hoover Moratorium.

"The Hoover moratorium," the resolution adds, "deprived us of our important share in reparations, which were characterized as sacred by President Wilson's fourteen points."

Herriot promised today that he will appear before the chamber's foreign affairs and finance commissions tomorrow and answer questions on debts. He warned that he would be unable to furnish full explanation while negotiations are pending, but promised not to make any agreement with the United States without first informing the chamber.

Deputy Marin's resolution was discussed heatedly in the chamber today, with government speakers opposing it on the grounds that it would be awkward for Parliament to adopt a definite attitude before the cabinet has had an opportunity to reach a decision.

(Associated Press.)

While administration officials remained uncommunicative waiting the next war debt postponement moves from abroad, Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, pointed up congressional opposition yesterday with a forcible assertion against any "tinkering" with the debts.

Leader last year of the campaign waged against President Hoover's one-year moratorium, and die-hard anti-cancellationist, Johnson asserted:

"There is just one thing to the whole debt problem. That is whether the European nations shall pay our Government what they owe us or shall the American taxpayers pay what the European nations owe us.

"It is utterly nonsense to say that France and Italy can't pay. It might strain Great Britain some but that is no reason why we should put this burden on the backs of the taxpayers."

While these words were being uttered Secretary Mills was saying for the administration that "we are as completely in the dark now as we were yesterday. The next move must come from abroad."

Mr. Lea lived at 2112 Massachusetts avenue. He was former president of the Washington Canoe Club and was an organizer and charter member of the University Club.

THE DEMOCRATS

As Washington Knows Them.

By VYLLA POE WILSON.

Washington is preparing to welcome back old friends or to say hail to those who have been living among us since the Wilson days, with the incoming current which sweeps the Democrats into the position of leading citizens of the National Capital.

No matter whether he accept a Cabinet portfolio or not, Newton D. Baker the war-time Secretary of War, will be among us frequently to attend the councils of the party. No doubt Mrs. Baker will again spend many winters in Washington. Washington remembers Mrs. Baker as a young and very energetic woman who liked to dance, although her husband seldom followed the example of Washington official whirl of that day in treading a measure or two between official duties. She worked hard and she worked late when the war came and she entertained constantly, but always simply.

Mrs. Baker is best known here for her beautiful soprano voice and her love of music. When our men mobilized in the National Capital, waiting to be sent overseas, she never failed to respond to the pleas of the war relief and recreational agencies and sing for them.

Mrs. Robert Lansing, wife of a Democratic Secretary of State and daughter of a Republican one, John W. Foster, is regarded as not only a leader in the Democratic colony in Washington, but a resident of the city and leader in all good works. It was Mrs. Lansing and Mrs. John W. Davis who gave so much encouragement to the local Y. W. C. A., when it had not the fine building or hosts of distinguished women to support it that it now has as one of the most prosperous organizations in the country. Mrs. Lansing and Mrs. John W. Davis, when Mr. Davis was Assistant Secretary of State, were inseparable companions in their social activities and their good works.

They both had much the same taste in dressing. Even then those who did not know them turned to look after the fine, well-groomed American women who always took such an interest in what was going on. Both Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Lansing were very much interested in the National Archeological Society, of which Mr. Lansing was at one time president. The meetings of this society in the handsome home of the Lansings and that of Mr. and Mrs. Davis make bright spots of dignified and brilliant entertaining in Washington. Mrs. Lansing still maintains her leadership in Washington, having a particular niche of her own in social life and the social service and welfare work. She with a group of other Washington women, who knew the first Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and worked with her to have the alley evil eliminated the Capital City, have carried on this work and have made great progress in it.

When Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tumulty first lived in Washington, having come from Jersey with Woodrow Wilson, they were strangers. But none with many attractive children or as genial as are these New Jerseyites themselves could remain strangers. Now Washington looks on Joe Tumulty as one of the leading citizens and he will welcome his old-time cohorts in the Democratic ranks back in the character of a boat Washingtonian, so to speak.

Representative and Mrs. Edward T. Rainey, who hail from Illinois, also are regarded as Washingtonians. Great interest is taken in the candidacy for Speakership of the House of Mr. Rainey by Washington people. They feel that a "local" man has made good and that the wife of the Speaker is just one of ourselves. Mrs. Rainey has identified herself with many movements of the local women, especially the college and university women. She is particularly prominent in campaigns for the betterment of social hygiene conditions. She is tall, slender, active and smiling, and she has been just like that for more than a quarter of a century. No woman has changed less than Mrs. Rainey through the vicissitudes of a life in the congressional circles of the National Capital. She probably could wear exactly the same sized clothes as she did 25 years ago, if they were in style.

Mrs. Atlee Pomerene, wife of the former Senator from Ohio, is another Democratic woman who has never allowed herself to become unidentified with Washington. She has been here frequently and has as many friends among the Republicans as the Democrats, as of course have all the world-wise women of both parties. Tall and stately "Nollie" Ansberry, wife of the former Representative from Ohio, Judge Ansberry, and manager of the Cox campaign, is another Democratic hostess who will come back. In the old days "Nollie" Ansberry was a great friend of the Clarks and still she numbers among her very near intimates "Little Borah" as the wife of Senator William E. Borah (Republican), of Idaho, is affectionately spoken of by her friends.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, who was one of the first women to hold an executive position in the Government, appointed to an industrial commission by Woodrow Wilson, Judge and Mrs. Charles C. McChord, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davies are among those who live in Washington as a connecting link between the Democrats of the old regime and the new. Judge and Mrs. Charles C. McChord were among those who were the leaders in the organization of the administration dancing class, which used to meet at the New Willard Hotel every Friday night during the dancing craze that swept the country. Many an important discussion took place at this class, as the dancers rested between dances or the men would step out in the lobby for a cigarette or cigar. This class continued even after the Democratic administration ended. For a number of years it met at the home of the late Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh.

Another matron of the Wilson regime who is important and popular and maintains a home in Washington is Mrs. George Barnett, widow of the war-time commandant of the United States Marine Corps. Mrs. Barnett threw open her house at the Marine Barracks to the host of women who made Red Cross dressings and packed Christmas bags for the boys overseas. In those days the band hall reechoed with laughter and gayety during the dances given for the officers and men and for the Marine Band concerts, at which Mrs. Barnett acted as hostess.

Capt. and Mrs. Leigh C. Palmer are others who figured prominently in the Wilson Democratic administration and whom Washington claims as its own. The tall, good-looking Mrs. Howard Tucker, daughter of Mrs. Palmer, was just a rosy-cheeked plump little girl in Democratic days, who spent many hours sewing on Christmas bags for the men of the United States Navy, as her stepfather was then chief of the Bureau of Navigation of the United States Navy, an important post in a World War, with naval convoys so necessary to ships bearing troops for service overseas.

The home of the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Josephus Daniels on Wyoming avenue was always a very lively Democratic center. The four Daniels boys made it so. While there were no daughters in the family, there were numberless cousins and other girl relatives, always part of a house party. The guests at the Daniels at-homes would climb up the attic stairs to dance in the improvised ballroom. No official home of that day would have been complete without a place to dance. Across the street the Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Franklin K. Lane lived. "Nancy" Lane was a small girl when the Democrats came into office, but, of course, she grew up in eight years, and she was one of the proud little flower girls at the wedding of Miss Eleanor Wilson and William Gibbs McAdoo in the White House.

No mention of war-time Democrats would be proper without including Senator and Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois. In those days Senator Lewis' whiskers really were "pink" and his clothes were worthy of a Beau Brummel. He had the same fire and personal magnetism on the floor of the Senate as he has now. Mrs. Lewis gave real service in the World War and was a great asset at the entertainments for the men of the service or for benefits to raise money for comforts for them because of her powers as a fortune teller. No entertainment was complete without Mrs. Lewis in a fortune teller's booth. The coming events which cast their shadows before which overtook the Democrats were forecast by this attractive wife of the senator from Illinois.

Justice James McReynolds as Attorney General was a great beau in Washington in those days. One of the favorite rumors was of his engagement to this or that fair belle or matron. Another bachelor of Democratic circles of other days was Mr. Raymond T. Baker, the director of the Mint, but since a benedict twice and now the husband of "Delphine Dodge," of motor-boat fame and daughter of the well-known automobile manufacturer.

It would never do to forget Henry T. Breckenridge, Assistant Secretary of War in Wilson's official family and now counsel for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, and whose wife is a banner bearer in the ranks of Democratic women leaders.

An apartment now rises above old Calumet Place, leased from the family of the Black Eagle of the Civil War, Gen. John A. Logan, by William Jennings Bryan, as Secretary of State. On the lawns of the home, grape juice was served to amused diplomats. Bryan entertained for Billy Sunday there at real Sunday teas, sit down affairs with cold meat, potato salad, lots of jellies and layer cake. He fared forth to market from there, too, and bought his radishes, big white ones, which the members of the Diplomatic Corps sought feverishly to serve to the Secretary of State at state dinners. He is gone, but Bryan school of Democracy, of course, will be represented in the new order of things.

There were the Burlesons, Postmaster General and Mrs. Burleson and their daughters, Lucy and Sidney, who made their way in social Washington and went to college at the same time. Mrs. Burleson belonged to the paying-calls cult of that day. She spent much of each day leaving her bits of pasteboard about or actually paying calls. She was determined to do her work in the world well and took all her official duties most seriously. A spirited little woman, smartly dressed, she was always present at social affairs and meetings where she felt it was incumbent upon her to attend. She wrote much of Washington life and its history.

Tree Planting Conducted At Hamilton Playground

The last of the trees which have been planted during the Bicentennial year was placed in the earth at Hamilton Playground yesterday with ceremonies presided over by Dr. J. P. Turner, president of the Sixteenth Street Citizens Association.

Miss Sibyl Baker and Richard S. Tennyson, District playground officials, accepted the tree. The mechanics of the actual planting were attended to by Claude W. Owen, president of the West School Parent-Teacher Association.

OPINION WILL FORCE TAX CUT, BYRD SAYS

Former Governor Declares in Radio Speech Parties Must Keep Pledges.

(Associated Press.)

Asserting that "public opinion in this crisis" will compel the reduction of Federal and State taxation, Former Gov. Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, said in a radio address last night that additional relief must come from the localities.

Political parties will be held responsible for their campaign pledges, he said, adding, however, that "the personal and party responsibility as applicable to national and State affairs is lacking in many local governments."

Referring on several occasions to the operation of the Virginia State government under his successor, Gov. Pollard, Mr. Byrd offered a five-fold program of tax relief by rigid economy in the localities.

Future Laws Predicted.

He prophesied:

(1) A mandatory law in every State compelling all units of government to install, under State supervision, a system of budgeting and accounting and State audits.

(2) A State law applicable to the State and every subdivision, providing that "if revenue estimates are not realized, then all appropriations as enacted are to be reduced accordingly."

(3) Segregation of local and State sources of taxation "so that only one tax is imposed on any one class of property."

(4) Consolidation of local units of government, "both by combining overlapping units and consolidating units too small for efficient administration."

(5) "The transfer of such activities to the State as will least interfere with local government and where the greatest economy can be effected."

Road Tax Provisions.

Mr. Byrd referred specifically to North Carolina and Virginia systems under which all roads are constructed and maintained by the State with funds from gasoline and motor license taxes.

Prefacing his remarks with the assertion that from 1913 to 1932 the tax burden increased from 8 to 33 per cent, the former Virginia Governor said that 18,000,000 persons, or one-sixth of the population, "are dependent upon tax pay rolls for their support.

He said that in this same period the total of public debts increased from $5,000,000,000 to more than $32,000,000,000, only one-half of which "is chargeable to the World War."

H. L. HUNGERFORD EXPIRES SUDDENLY

Southern Railway Executive Was Going to Hearing of I. C. C.

Homer Leslie Hungerford, 65, assistant general superintendent of the Southern Railway, of Greenville, S. C., died yesterday when he collapsed on the street at Pennsylvania avenue and Seventeenth street. He was on his way to the Interstate Commerce Commission in connection with business there.

Mr. Hungerford was walking with Charles Clark, counsel for the Southern Railway, of 4540 Klingle road, when he complained of feeling ill. Mr. Clark put him in a taxicab and took him to Emergency Hospital. He died en route.

He had been connected with the Southern for more than 40 years. He arrived in Washington yesterday morning to attend the commission's hearing.

Besides his widow, he is survived by two sons, Clark Hungerford, division superintendent of the Southern Railway, at Macon, Ga., and Phillips Eungerford, traffic representative of the railway, at Jacksonville, Fla.

Funeral services will be held at Greenville.

Senator Thomas Better After Typhoid Relapse

Gooding, Idaho, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Senator John Thomas, who suffered a setback Saturday in his recovery from an attack of typhoid fever, said today he was "feeling much better."

He probably will not be able to leave for Washington for about two weeks.

McLaughlin, House Veteran, Expires on Visit in Virginia

Marion, Va., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—James C. McLaughlin, member of Congress from Michigan for 26 years, died here today while on a pleasure trip.

The representative was accompanied by his secretary, Miss Anna Jensen, and Miss Elsie Gould, secretary to Representative J. C. Ketchum, of the Fourth Michigan District.

They said McLaughlin had been ill since leaving St. Louis. McLaughlin represented the Ninth Michigan District. His body was found in the bathroom of a hotel here. He was apparently a victim of heart failure. The party arrived here about 6 o'clock last night.

The body was in the care of a Marion undertaker awaiting advices from Washington.

(Associated Press.)

Arrangements for the funeral were being made yesterday between members of the Michigan delegation in Congress and the sergeant at arms, Kenneth Romney.

McLaughlin was a member of the powerful House ways and means committee. He was defeated for reelection by Harry W. Musselwhite, Democrat.

McLaughlin was born in Beardstown, Ill., on January 26, 1858, and moved to Muskegon, Mich., when 6 years old. He was graduated from the Muskegon High School, and subsequently took the literary and law course at the University of Michigan. He practiced law at Muskegon until the day he went to Congress as representative of the Ninth Michigan District.

McLaughlin was a brother of Prof. Andrew McLaughlin, noted educator and writer and head of the history department of the University of Chicago.

Speaker Garner named the following committee to represent the House at the funeral: The entire Michigan delegation; Representative Rainey, the Democratic leader; Chairman Collier, of the ways and means committee; Representative Hawley, of Oregon, ranking Republican on the ways and means committee, and Representative Temple (Republican), Pennsylvania.

Cultists, 3.4 cents.
All others, 4.2 cents.

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—After five years of research, the committee on the costs of medical care today recommended a plan whereby organized groups of physicians, dentists, nurses and pharmacists would provide community medical care on a group payment basis.

The committee termed the suggestion a "basic change in the system of providing medical care for the people of the United States."

Under such a plan, the report said, "all needed medical care of the kind customarily purchased individually could be provided, excluding capital charges, for from $20 to $40 per capita per annum, which equals 40 to 80 cents per week."

The committee recommends that the costs of this community health service be placed on a "group payment basis, through the use of insurance, through the use of taxation, or through the use of both of these methods."

Keystone of Projects.

The report was presented to the national conference on the costs of medical care by Dr. C. E. A. Winslow, vice chairman of the committee and professor of public health at Yale University.

On the committee were 24 doctors of medicine, eleven persons engaged in other forms of medical and public health work, and thirteen economists or representatives of the public.

Thirty-five of the 48 committee members signed the report. Two minority and two individual reports were also presented.

In the majority report the "Community Medical Center" was termed the keystone of the plan.

"These centers," the report said, "would provide complete medical services for weekly or monthly fees, with, when necessary, some supplementary support from tax funds.

"Professional procedures would be under the control of the physicians, dentists and other practitioners, and financial responsibility would rest with a board representing the public."

Such a system, the majority of the committee reported, "would be fairer to practitioners than the present system, because it would provide them with higher average incomes and would give the largest rewards to those with the greatest experience and ability."

The committee found that only 1.4 per cent of the money spent by the public for medical care goes to the prevention of illness, while 78.5 per cent goes for the care of illness, 17.4 per cent for dental care and 2.7 per cent for eye care.

Per Capita Expense.

In terms of dollars, the report said the per capita expense in the United States for medicines is $5.49, and for public health work, $1.

In presenting its plan, the committee said there is need for some system "whereby the unequal and sometimes crushing burden of medical expenses can be distributed."

A summary of the five recommendations in the majority report follows:

"That medical care be furnished largely by organized groups of physicians, dentists, nurses, phamacists and other associated personnel, centered around a hospital, and rendering home, office and hospital care.

"That all basic public health services be extended until they are available to the entire population, according to its needs.

"That the cost of medical care be placed on the group payment basis through the use of insurance, taxation, or both methods, without precluding the continuation of the individual fee basis for those who prefer it.

"That a specific organization be formed in every community or State for the study, evaluation and coordination of medical service.

"That the professional education of physicians, dentists, pharmacists and nurses be reoriented to accord more closely with present needs, and that educational facilities be provided to train three new types of workers in the field of health, namely nursing attendants, nurse-midwives, and trained hospital and clinical administrators."

Minority Report Signed.

The principal minority report, signed by nine members recommended:

"That Government competition in the practice of medicine be discontinued and that its activities be restricted entirely to certain types of service.

"That Government care of the indigent be expanded, with the ultimate object of relieving the medical profession of this burden.

"That coordination of medical service be considered an important function for local communities.

"That united attempts be made to restore the general practitioner to the central place in medical practice.

"That the corporate (i. e., organized) practice of medicine be vigorously and persistently opposed as wasteful, inimical to high quality, or productive of unfair exploitation of the medical profession.

"That careful trial be given methods which can rightly be fitted into our present institutions and agencies without interfering with the fundamentals of medical practice.

"That State or county medical societies develop plans for medical care."

Wage Row Closes Butte Stores.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—All of Butte's larger stores were closed today, members of the Clerks' Union refusing to continue at work until a new wage agreement is signed. Proprietors are understood to be determined on a month-to-month agreement, while the union is holding out for a year's contract.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

"By Mac or O' you're sure to know
True Irishmen, they say;
But if they lack the O' or Mac
No Irishmen are they.

AND so George McNamara, native of Ireland, qualifies under these lines.

The last six years Mr. McNamara, guard at the Shrine in the Library of Congress, wherein are contained the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution, has seen the great and near-great and Mr. and Mrs. Average Everybody approach the Shrine during that length of time. He has heard the more or less confidential asides let drop by visitors as they approached or left the marble enclosure.

Riley.

"I remember the time when Alexandre Kerensky came to the Shrine," said Mr. McNamara. I said to myself, 'I've seen that man before somewhere.' I had become accustomed to seeing his picture in the papers till I almost felt I knew him.

"Then there was Ramsay MacDonald. I had expected to see a man not quite so polished as I saw him to be. He was quite voluble and expressed regret at the faded condition of the Declaration, which now is under an amber film sandwiched between glass."

Truly, the world is small. Mr. McNamara was surprised when several men with whom he served in Alaska while telegrapher in the Army, visited the Shrine.

Mr. McNamara is an admirer of Rudyard Kipling, but he sees little to compare between the famous author's present work and his "Barrackroom Ballads," "Recessional," and others.

"I served in India while in the British service," said Mr. McNamara. I know much of the background described by Kipling.

"Before assignment to guard the shrine I read as much history and gathered as many facts in mind as I could. I knew I'd be asked all kinds of questions and wanted to be prepared for them."

"The evil that men do lives after them," once remarked Mr. Shakespeare. And thereby hangs the story, or in this case the rope, from which dangled the condemned Guy Fairley, hanged for the murder of a prohibition agent.

Section of a hangman's rope, perhaps 18 inches long, attached to a board upon the top of which is the inscription, "At Collins, Miss., on January 15, 1932, I hanged Guy Fairley for the murder of Prohibition Agent H. L. Everett," is the mute "hangover" from justice which took her toll and which greets one in the office of J. Leland Acuff, chief coordination and special agency unit, Prohibition Bureau.

At the bottom of the board is a further inscription, "Special agents, 1274 M, New Orleans, La."

Few cases in recent criminal annals have stirred the Magnolia State more than the shooting to death of Everett.

Truly the "wages of sin" has not had any appreciable pay cut.

PULASKI SQUARE'S starlings had just circled around the first time for their evening chatter. Descending sunrays were streaking in glowing hues their final grandeur through the scuds in the Western skies. Lights in the street standards were blinking as though dazzled with their own sudden brilliance.

All reminded us we had only a short time to get the Federal Diary to the composing room, so today's thoughts are not well rounded, even with the lateness of the hour, unless we mention a few more names with incidents these peering eyes have seen:

We wonder if Frances Rollins, Radio Commission, has a personal maid. If not, how does she don that black velvet evening gown contrasting so well with her red hair and which she was seen wearing while enjoying an early morning "supper"—at 2 a. m. to be exact—at a Pennsylvania avenue restaurant. There are exactly 20 big glass buttons down (or up) the back. Yes, sir; and yes ma'am, we peered around a pillar and counted them! . . . And who was with Frances but Evelyn Brooks, tire Bureau of Prisons Brooks, dontchano, in a gorgeous wine-colored gown surrounded by a new haircut. Evelyn hopes to get Down East in Maine for the Christmas holidays, and if she flashes that combination on the natives we'll have the answer as to why all those Maine potatoes have so many eyes.

For some time we have been intending to get really acquainted with Karl Greene, Alien Property, and the fires of our ambition were further fanned at the National Press Club last Saturday night. We danced with Mrs. Greene, however, and she asked us who the young lady in the red dress was and with whom Karl was whirling. Well, that's just what we'd like to know.

At the same party we did recognize one very charming young lady, also in a red dress. Seems red is the prevailing mode this season. She was Miss Dorothy Cook (to you); to us, Dot, so there, of Reconstruction Finance. Wonder how many of Dot's associates know she was selected as Ambassadress to the Court of the National Radio Queen at the New York radio show a year ago last September? . . . Dot flew up to New York and she wasn't airsick either, much! For further details see "Hack" Wilson, of the National Broadcasting Co. and Loew's Theater Circuit! We happen to know that a considerable romance evolved as a result of this affair, and "Hack" himself is authority for the statement that "Dot might have easily become Mrs. H. Warden Wilson"—darn those hard-hearted blondes, anyway!

Pardon us for a few words while we hark back to Thanksgiving Day again and the difficulties of Lillian Paulson (hope that's the way Lillian spells her name, but anyway it sounds like that), National Park Service. Lillian shares a charming K street apartment with two other young ladies. The girls wanted to prepare their own Thanksgiving dinner, so Dad sent a turkey. The expressman arrived while the girls were at work. He wouldn't leave the turk, but he did leave a message that it would be waiting for them at the express office. When Lillian got to the express office she found that the express company had decided to send it out again. So back and forth the young lady chased after the Thanksgiving bird. We got to the point where the much-traveled bird—and Lillian—had once more passed en route. But then we had to catch a street car, though we got a final assurance that the "twain did meet" somewhere around the roaster for the feast.

To Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beers, congratulations. Miss Marian M. Popvitch, Personnel Division clerk, Prohibition Bureau, and Mr. Beers, formerly of the same division, were married here recently.

"I have read your introductory column this morning and believe its friendly, informal, chatty style will make it popular with Federal Government employes," writes M. Hiley, personnel officer, the Panama Canal. "I believe that a great many of the employes themselves are unaware of the rather cloistered routine in which they live and work, resulting in their knowing less of what goes on personally and officially in other departments than their own, than is known by people on the other side of the nation. Accordingly, your column should fill an instructive as well as an entertaining place in our daily reading. * * *"

Have you sent in your contributory paragraphs to The Federal Diary?

Harry G. Nichols (his friends call him "Nick") says this about bowling: "I don't know why they don't bowl the large pins around here. Most of the alleys are set up for duck pins." Incidentally, Mr. Nichols is an enthusiastic member of the Commerce Building Interbureau Bowling League. In regular hours, however, he is draftsman in the Airways Division.

RECENT election of the Bridge League, Food and Drugs and Chemicals and Soils, Department of Agriculture, brought this result: Dr. F. C Blanck, chairman; Dr. C. C. McDonnell, vice chairman; Dan Dahle and Walter S. Frisbie, executive officers, and Mrs. Larry Strasburger, secretary-treasurer. The league, 56 members, plays duplicate games with the Howell movement alternate Mondays. Roosevelt Hotel, with Sections A and B. Last Monday's winning results: Section B, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Strasburger; Section A, C. Young and R. S. McKinney. Since Section B had the better score, it was awarded the cup. Mrs. Eugene Nolan directed the tournament.

Don't know how it happens, but,——. On the way to see my friend, Franklin G. Wisner, Radio Commission, noticed the Bureau of Plant Quarantine, Agriculture Department, is housed in the Lemon Building.

Some folks seem never old enough to learn. In the opinion of Isaac Gregg, Information Bureau chief, Postoffice Department. That "old Spanish custom," the "Spanish Swindle," rears its head still after these years, and more names are added to the sucker list. The newest edition finds a young girl as a new pawn in the game, operated from Latin-American countries 50 years.

The middle of this month American delegates to the International Radiotelegraph Conference, Madrid, Spain, will start back to Washington. The big question at the conference is extension of broadcast bands. Besides Judge E. O. Sykes, vice chairman Radio Commission; Harold A. Lafount, W. D. L. Starbuck and Thad H. Brown, members of the United States delegation from various departments, are Dr. Irvin Stewart, State Department; Dr. Charles B. Joliffe, chief engineer Radio Commission; Lieut. Comdr. Edward M. Webster, United States Coast Guard; Maj. William F. Friedman and Lieut. Comdr. Joseph R. Reman, Navy; Dr. John Howard Dellinger, Bureau of Standards; H. J. Walls, Aeronautics Branch, Department of Commerce; Gerald C. Gross, Radio Commission; Richard Southgate, State Department, and R. Allen Haden, State Department. Miss Fina M. Howell, because of her linguistic talent, also is accompanying the conferees.

Telegraphic Dispatches

North Brookfield, Mass., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Three men held a janitor and a bank official prisoners today while they robbed the North Brookfield Savings Bank of $1,200. Within a few hours of the crime two Hartford, Conn., men were arrested at Stafford Springs, Conn., and Capt. Charles T. Beaupre, of the State police, said they would be returned to North Brookfield and charged with robbery while armed.

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The official canvass of the mayoralty vote made public today by the board of elections disclosed that 232,501 persons wrote in the correct name of Joseph V. McKee for mayor in the election November 8.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The New York State Democratic committee, which directed the victorious campaign in the State, spent $136,561.88, according to a report filed today with the secretary of State. The Republican State committee's report listed expenditures of $286,534.11.

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Gen. J. B. Sterling, former president of the First National Bank here, was arrested today by United States Marshal J. C. Tyler on an indictment handed down at Vicksburg charging violation of the Federal banking laws. The First National Bank closed on January 20, 1931. Gen. Sterling was released soon after his arrest on a $2,500 bond.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—A city electrician was killed and two other workmen injured, one seriously, by an explosion today which wrecked the new First Methodist Church building under construction in Cloverdale, exclusive residential section.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Ambassador Walter E. Edge will sail for France tomorrow night on the United States liner Manhattan. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Edge and their three youngest children.

Norborne, Mo., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Two men were burned to death, a third was injured and several carloads of cattle burned in the wreck of a Wabash freight train 2 miles east of here today. An oil tank car and several refrigerator cars of fruit and vegetables were destroyed, in addition to the cattle cars. Railroad officials attributed the wreck to spreading rails.

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Two men, both carrying revolvers, today herded nine men into a large washroom on the fourth floor of the plant of the Jewish Morning Journal, at 77 Bowery, gathered up the $2,300 pay roll of the composing room force and escaped.

R. F. C. IS ATTACKED AT LABOR GATHERING

Pennsylvanian Tells A. F. L. Politics Rule Relief Loans; Insurance Discussed.

Cincinnati, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The Reconstruction Finance Corporation was charged before the convention of the American Federation of Labor today with having discriminated in favor of doubtful States in distributing relief funds before the recent election.

Breaking into discussion of means for providing relief funds for the winter, Thomas Kennedy, of Hazleton, Pa., proposed that Congress be asked to order that all States be treated equally in receiving the funds, but his suggestion was not made formally, and no action was taken. Kennedy, secretary of the United Mine Workers of America, is one of that group's delegates to the convention.

After presenting an exhaustive report on relief needs, the committee on resolutions submitted the executive council's proposed compulsory unemployment insurance plan and urged its adoption by the convention, but adjournment for the day postponed final action at least until tomorrow.

Referring to the finance corporation as administered by "its Democratic chairman," Atlee Pomerene, of Cleveland, Kennedy declared favoritism had been shown.

Pennsylvania, he asserted, is entitled to $45,000,000 of Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds, but has received only $11,000,000 and has been told to raise more money for relief within its borders before seeking further Federal aid.

On the contrary, he said, Illinois, which raised less than Pennsylvania, was given $20,000,000 by the corporation because, Kennedy asserted, it was doubtful how it would go in the recent presidential election.

December Request Is Less Than $5,000,000 as Counties Act.

(Associated Press.)

Acting quickly on the plea of Illinois for assistance in caring for its destitute during December, the Reconstruction Corporation yesterday voted a loan of slightly less than $5,000,000 to the State.

The action was taken after Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago and a group of Illinois officials had appeared before the board. Illinois already has received a total of $20,303,150 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The December request was about $1,000,000 less than was asked and received in November. Cermak said this was because several counties are now able to take care of their own situation.

groups avowedly affiliated with international Communism. His story to the United States is sought as an opening wedge for Russian Communists who seek to enter the country in the guise of "teachers," Mrs. Forthingham's letter continued. She declared that if Prof. Einstein is admitted as a scientific teacher, the way will be opened for a lecture tour by Leon Trotzky, exiled leader of Soviet Russia, who also has expressed a desire recently to visit the United States.

The annex quoted long extracts of Prof. Einstein's utterances on political questions during his previous scientific mission to the United States in 1930.

In conclusion, this document charged that Einstein "is affiliated with more anarchistic and Communist groups than Joseph Stalin himself."

The legal brief denied that any special exception could be made in the mandatory provisions of the immigration laws in recognition of Prof. Einstein's scientific achievements.

First Hundred Dollar Mark Is Passed by Post Toy Fund

Number of Presents for Needy Children Also Are Received.

Smiles wreathed the face of Santa Claus Lady and others connected with The Washington Post Toy and Doll Fund yesterday, when with a grand rush of speed, the fund passed the first hundred-dollar mark and was well on its way toward the second hundred dollars as the paper went to press.

The closing report was that the fund stands at $111.20, with the late mail not yet checked by The Post auditor, and, therefore, it can not be reported this morning. Hopes are high at the fund headquarters in the library of The Washington Post that before the end of the week more than $200 will be in the fund, ready for their mission to save any child in Washington from finding empty stockings on Christmas morning and knowing that Santa Claus had passed by their desolate homes this year.

From John H. Cowles, a leading Masonic official, came the largest gift yesterday, that of $10. Thanks, commander, and may other good craftsmen match you before Christmas Eve.

A number of toys arrived at the fund headquarters also. Among them were toy dogs, and, strange to say, two dolls coming from different little girls, which are twins in appearance. The Santa Claus Lady promptly nicknamed them "The Twins." They watched from a favored spot on her desk with a benign smile or rather smiles the other toy gifts of the day arrive.

Two little girls from Fort Collins, Colo., nieces of the Santa Claus Lady, sent in a bright dime from their pet dog "Tuffy," with which to match Ding-How of Hydegree, mascot of The Junior Post and editor of its Pets Corner. These little girls are Betty and Laura Vincent. They read about The Post Toy and Doll Fund in The Washington Post and wante to give their mite in the good cause. To date,

Betty and Laura hold the honor of being the most distant contributors. This condition may change, however, because each year it has been found that gifts come from other cities and States where The Washington Post circulates the year around.

Ding-How of Hydegree turned in his story about the way his dime, which started this year's Post Toy and Doll Fund, was matched last night. Just as he claimed, it was a good story. It has a lesson in it, too.

The matcher was Hop-Toy, a saucy Pekingese, owned by Mrs. George Barnett, widow of the World War commandant of the United States Marine Corps. Hop-Toy is a reporter of Ding's Pets Corner, although the editor frequently complains that he only "covers" weddings because of the ice cream and cake he gets at such festivities.

"We know all about Christmas funds at our house," declared Hop-Toy. "Don't you remember how Gen. Barnett helped to fill 30,000 Christmas bags at the Theodorus Bailey Myers Mason War Service House, Christmas, 1917, for the men in the armed forces of the United States overseas?"

Did you, who are reading this story today, have a father, a brother, a son, a sweetheart, a relative or a friend in the World War, who did not come back? If so, send in a little gift, matching Hop-Toy's, in memory of a great World War leader, in honor of the ones you wish to be remembered in this way. They would like it, those lost ones of yours.

guests as a pilot for a passenger air line, disappeared.

Nothing was heard of the man until last Saturday, when a Baltimore detective, becoming suspecious of the actions of a man, went to approach him. The man fled, but in the chase he lost his hat. The hat bore the initials "K. M. H." and it had been purchased in Washington.

As the man fled, he commandeered a taxicab, and at the point of a pistol, forced the driver to carry him beyond the reach of detectives.

Then Baltimore detectives came to the Capital. Initials found in the hat corresponded to those of Kenneth M. Hundred, who had been under suspicion for the burglaries.

Wife Trailed to New York.

But Hundred failed to appear at the Fourteenth street hotel. So, in order to trace him, they "planted" detectives to shadow his wife. They observed she inquired about train schedules to New York.

Yesterday the modishly dressed young woman, carrying a Pekingese puppy, took a train to New York. So did Sergt. Tom Bragg. He was carrying a blackjack and a gun. He sat in the same car with her. Then at Baltime another detective boarded the train.

Meanwhile, the detectives in Washington learned at which hotel Hundred was stopping in New York.

They wired ahead to arrest Hundred; but Hundred was then being followed to the Pennsylvania Station. As his well-dressed wife embraced him, New York detectives approached him. He went to draw a .25 caliber pistol from his pocket.

Overpowered in Station.

Before Hundred could draw the pistol he was overpowered, and arrested with his wife. He was charged with carrying a revolver. Then the detectives searched his hotel room in New York. They found twelve suitcases of miscellaneous and expensive clothing, a number of diamond rings and six watches.

Local detectives know where 15 to 20 suitcases are cached. Today they will be seized. Warrants will be sent to New York charging housebreaking and burglary. Similar warrants will be sent from Baltimore, where Hundred is wanted for alleged housebreakings.

Speedy Cops

Two Policemen in Long Chase After Suspect and Get Man.

Policemen E. L. Dalstrom and A. L. Embrey believe they have disproved all intimations and loose statements about policemen being fat, heavy on their feet, and short on endurance. As proof they can cite their accomplishment in actually running a 21-year-old colored man to a state of exhaustion.

Policeman Dalstrom, while on the lookout yesterday for a man suspected in two housebreakings spied his man in an alley at Eighteenth and Vernon streets northwest. The man ran. Dalstrom pursued him. The man jumped into a taxicab. Dalstrom commandeered a car and followed him. The chase soon had all the elements of a follow-the-leader game.

The pursued man would jump out of his cab and dash into an apartment house. Dalstrom would pursue him. Sometimes they would merely run through the corridor to the alley, then around to the street, where they would again get into their cars. Once the man ducked into a vacant apartment, probably for a rest, but Dalstrom soon had him on the run again.

Finally Embrey joined in the chase, and the policemen outlasted their man. At least, so they say. But when the man finally dropped in exhaustion at Sixteenth and S streets, the policemen just dropped, too, and waited for help.

The man described himself as Leroy Dorsey, 1740 Eighth street. Police said about $100 worth of stolen jewelry was found in his pockets, while stolen clothing was found in the taxicab and strewn along the route of the chase.

Mothers find relief from the burden of colds

With new VICKS PLAN for better CONTROL-OF-COLDS

When Colds THREATEN

To PREVENT many colds.. VICKS Nose & Throat DROPS

IF a Cold DEVELOPS

VICKS VapoRub To END it sooner

THE PROOF..in Results!..

In clinical tests among thousands last winter in schools, colleges and homes—Vicks Colds-Control Plan cut the number and duration of colds in half!—saved almost two-thirds of the time lost from school due to colds!—reduced the costs of colds more than half!...The satisfaction of hundreds of thousands of enthusiastic users confirms these tests.

Vicks Colds-Control Plan was introduced last winter, along with the new aid in preventing colds—Vicks Nose & Throat Drops. This new formula is the ideal companion to Vicks VapoRub, standby of mothers for two generations in treating colds—externally.

Together with certain simple rules of health, these preparations form Vicks Plan for better Control of Colds. How you can follow it in your home is fully explained in each Vicks package.

BRIEFLY, HOW VICKS PLAN WORKS

When colds threaten—At that first feeling of stuffiness or nasal irritation—Nature's usual signal that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose Drops at once! They soothe irritation and aid Nature's functions in throwing off the infection that threatens. They prevent development of many colds.

If a cold has developed, Vicks VapoRub—(now available in Stainless form, if you prefer)—is the proved, dependable treatment. Just rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, its double action—continuing through the night—brings quicker, surer relief. Use of the Nose Drops during the day adds to comfort—helps shorten the cold.

BOND COLLECTIONS PEND IN ARLINGTON

Report on County Financial Condition Delays Ball and Duncan Action.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Until the report of the financial condition of Arlington County is received no attempt will be made to collect on the bonds of former County Treasurer E. Wade Ball and former County Clerk William H. Duncan, both of whom await trial on charges of misuse of county funds. Ball was acquitted on charges of misuse of State funds, while Duncan was convicted on a similar charge.

The report, Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas stated last night, is being compiled by State Auditor of Public Accounts T. Coleman Andrews. When completed it will be filed with County Manager Roy S. Braden.

While Douglas said he thought it would be advantageous to the county to have the criminal charges against the two former county officials out of the way before action is taken to collect on the bonds it will not be necessary, he stated.

The report being prepared by Andrews will cover the financial condition of the county up to June 30, 1932, and Douglas says that with these figures available the county will be better prepared to proceed in an effort to collect a substantial amount of the alleged shortage of more than $600,000.

Ball's last bond was for $300,000 and Duncan's $8,000. Douglas says the question as to just how much each of the term bonds can be made to cover alleged shortages during the periods they were in force will have to be determined when the case reaches the courts.

charge of the House they discharged efficient telephone operators who had proved their ability, in order to appoint new operators who had no ability, thereby disrupting the service at the Capitol.

"Not in 50 years," the senator concluded, "has there been seen such desperate hunger for political office."

The move for new examinations was revealed yesterday by Representative McClintic.

He said he had conferred with several members of Congress and obtained "a promise from about every man I've talked with" to vote for a resolution which would require around 10,000 employes now in the civil service to take examinations to qualify for the jobs they are holding.

These employes, McClintic said, originally were given jobs outside the civil service, but were transferred to it by executive order.

"That means," McClintic said, "that they get the graduated pay increases and other benefits without qualifying for them. And they aren't as much involved by a change of administration as they otherwise would be."

The Oklahoma House delegation, McClintic said, will be asked to support the resolution. He added that Senator Thomas (Democrat), of Oklahoma, already had promised to vote for it.

CUTTING, G. O. P. BOLTER, TO SEE ROOSEVELT ON WAY TO CAPITAL

best use had grown out of his chairmanship of the conservation committee of the New York State Legislature and through an association that he had then with Gifford Pinchot, the present Governor of Pennsylvania, who, at that time, had been in the United States Forest Service.

Mr. Roosevelt said that Pinchot in an appearance before the committee had displayed two pictures, taken of the same valley in northern China at different periods. The one, he said, showed the valley with tree-clad hills, prosperous, and the other a few years later displayed it denuded of trees and with depopulation beginning to set in.

Survey First Essential.

A land survey was described by the President-elect as one of the first essentials toward putting lands to their best use. He said that New York State already had plotted about one-sixth of the State to determine what lands should be put into forestry uses, and that the State was already beginning to buy up submarginal lands to convert them into growing areas.

Of the 18,000,000 acres of farm lands in New York State, he said there remained 4,000,000 acres that ought to be planted in trees.

Mr. Roosevelt said a State could well afford through a bond issue to obtain the money to put these lands out of agricultural cultivation, and pointed to savings he said would result from the fact that the State would not have to maintain roads and schools in the areas.

Savings in Maintenance.

With the movement of families off the thinly populated, marginal lands, Mr. Roosevelt said, there would be a natural movement toward the abandonment of one-room school houses and a greater spread of consolidated schools that would result in a saving in the maintenance of these institutions.

There also would be savings in the maintenance of long lines for lights and telephones, he said.

Mr. Roosevelt estimated that it would cost the State in the neighborhood of six million dollars to convert the poor farm lands into forest areas and that savings of from two to three million dollars a year would result.

Longer Growing Season.

In Northern States, he said it would be upward of twenty years before the forest areas would reach a productive growth, but he said that in Southern States where there is a longer growing season, this would be attained in a shorter period.

SENATOR BRONSON CUTTING.

He related a story of a German town whose ruler had given his forest to the town. Mr. Roosevelt said the town now paid all its expenses out of the profits from the forest and had no taxes.

"We must work things out like other countries have," he said. "We probably will find that we can treat tree crops in just about the same manner as cotton or corn or peaches and probably without the same fluctuating prices.

"We are finding new uses for pine. I hope that some day some one will find a new use for black jack oak because I've got a lot of it."

Cutting Accepts Invitation.

Santa Fe, N. Mex., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—United States Senator Bronson Cutting, Progressive Republican, tonight announced he had accepted an invitation from Franklin D. Roosevelt to visit the President-elect at Warm Springs, Ga.

Senator Cutting will leave tonight for Washington to attend the opening of Congress, December 5, and said he would stop off at Warm Springs en route to the National Capital.

The New Mexico senator was one of the Republican Independents in the Senate who campaigned for the New York Governor in the recent election. The senator declined to comment on the visit other than to say he was accepting the invitation.

HOSPITAL CHEERFUL ON FORD'S PROGRESS

Pulse and Respiration Back to Normal After Serious Double Operation.

Detroit, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Henry Ford, a source close to his family said, was making "remarkable progress" tonight as he lay in his hospital bed convalescing from the emergency operation Saturday that brought him the first serious illness of his 69 years.

A man connected with the Ford organization who visited the patient in his two-room suite at Ford Hospital said he "looked like a million dollars." Other sources said the after-effects of the surgery, in which a strangulated hernia was repaired and the appendix removed, had worn off and the motor magnate is able to joke with attendants, and to read newspaper accounts of his illness.

The consensus of physicians, members of the Ford organization and hospital attendants tonight was that the most famous patient ever to be brought to Ford Hospital is well past the critical period, with recovery only a matter of rest and quiet.

Leadership of Congress His Aim, Roosevelt Writes

"Degree" of Direction Provided by Constitution for Varied Points of View, Magazine Article Says; Hopes of Liberals for Achievements High.

New York, Nov. 30 (U.P.).—President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt proposes to make the furnishing of a "degree of leadership" to Congress his "primary purpose" while President, he writes in an article released today in Liberty magazine.

"The Constitution clearly contemplated that the Presidency might provide a degree of leadership for the varied points of view represented in Congress," Roosevelt said.

On the question of his Cabinet, he writes that "those whom I shall call to join with me in bearing the responsibilities of this administration will, as a matter of course, be devoted to the spirit of the Democratic platform and the principles of action which I have set forth."

"The wealth of competence and liberalism which the Democratic cause this year has enlisted affords a bright prospect for the future of the public service."

"It goes without saying that the most urgent of all measures must be the immediate relief of unemployment," Roosevelt writes.

"The most immediate of the problems relating to agriculture will be the relief of the farmer from the burden of his debts. Immediately related to this is the necessity of getting under way a national agricultural plan. The rehabilitation and consolidation of the railways, the establishment of a national transport policy, proper regulation of security and commodity exchanges, are also problems that require immediate consideration.

"Foremost, too, comes the task of bringing to the consumer electric power rates at a fair cost and, primarily in order that the rate charges may be determined by scientific accuracy, the development by the National Government, under Government ownership and control, of the four great power resources in the four corners of the country—Muscle Shoals, the St. Lawrence, Boulder Dam and Columbia River.

"As to the tariff the main purpose to be kept in mind is the restoration of normal foreign trade," which Roosevelt owuld pursue through reciprocal tariff agreements with other countries.

"It goes without saying that the repeal of the eighteenth amendment will be recommended to the Congress," he adds.

New Trial Is Ordered In Killing of Teachers

Oklahoma City, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—A new lease on life was accorded Earl Quinn, condemned to death for the brutal slaying of two sisters, today when the State Criminal Court of Appeals reversed his Kay County conviction and ordered a new trial with a change of venue. Date for the new trial has not been set.

Quinn, former convict and Kansas City underworld character, was convicted more than a year ago of slaying Jessie and Zexia Griffith, schoolteachers, whose bodies were found along the highway near Tonkawa December 28, 1930, a few miles south of Blackwell, their home. The Appellate Court ruled that District Judge John S. Burger, trial judge, erred in denying Quinn a change of venue.

DEALING WITH THE AGITATORS.

The District Commissioners correctly interpret public sentiment when they reject the impudent demands of leaders of the hunger marchers for free food, free lodging and a free assembly hall for propaganda purposes. The attempt of the marchers to parade in Washington should be prevented.

Although the number of marchers may not reach the formidable proportions that were threatened some weeks ago, a horde of several hundreds is expected to appear by next week. The authorities are facing a situation in which they must adopt a new policy to cope with an entirely new problem. The right of assembly and petition has been seized upon by public enemies to precipitate conflicts between mobs and the police, for the purpose of stirring up hatred, riots, and revolution. The abuse, and not the proper use, of a constitutional right is invoked in the hunger march.

It is now the duty of the authorities to frustrate those who would abuse a right. Safety is a right to which the public is entitled. Public order is a primary necessity, without which the right of assembly and petition would be worthless. The District of Columbia, and if necessary the Federal Government, must hold all comers to observance of the peace. The hunger marchers are known to be intent upon disturbing the peace. Failure to prevent outbreaks would be dereliction of duty by the authorities, in view of the general knowledge of the lawbreakers' intentions.

The hunger marchers can not be permitted to mass in the streets of Washington, or to invade the Capitol grounds. A delegation of two or three individuals can present a petition to Congress. The presentation of a petition by a mob is not a constitutional right, and there need be no apprehension by the authorities that refusal to permit a mob to appear at the Capitof would be rebuked by any court.

Aside from the attempt to present a mass petition, the marchers intend to stir up strife by pretending that police officers are treating them "brutally." This is a frayed-out falsehood which should not deter the police from doing their duty. A parade would be a disturbance of the peace. It should not be permitted.

If hundreds of marchers should be allowed to roam through the streets, holding up citizens and householders, the public peace will be endangered and violence will occur. Hence the authorities should keep the marchers off the streets. If the Police Department is unable to herd the marchers in one place and hold them there, the Army should be called upon to do the job.

It may be impossible under the law to bar the marchers from the District. If such a course is not unlawful it should be adopted. No doubt the Federal and District authorities have formed plans to deal with this new form of public disturbance, but the public can not but hope that these plans do not contemplate waiting until disorder and rioting have actually begun.

SHORTER WORKING TIME.

William Green's fighting speech before the American Federation of Labor, of which he is President, was somewhat out of harmony with the report of its committee on a shorter work week. The report sets forth in clear and forceful language the necessity for shorter working hours. It is persuasive in tone. Mr. Green indulged in threats which obscure the logic of the committee's position.

"We will not be denied the realization of this great reform," Mr. Green said. "It will be given to us in response to reason, or we will secure it through force of some kind." Belligerent sentiments of this kind may draw applause from a labor convention, but they do not aid in the practical establishment of the five-day week and the six-hour day. Mr. Green is undoubtedly aware of the fact that the shorter working week can be inaugurated only through cooperation between industry and labor. There is no excuse for antagonizing industry from the start and building up unnecessary prejudice against shorter working hours.

The urgency of adopting shorter working hours and of maintaining wages is no longer open to question. Most practical observers agree with the conclusion of the shorter-week committee that "there must be a balance achieved between the increase in productive efficiency and average labor hours so as to provide a wider and an adequate diffusion of work opportunities, as well as to grant the workers larger leisure as a condition precedent to enhancing consuming power." The machine age demands less human labor and a higher standard of living for the people in general. That is not the point at issue. The real question is: How can greater distribution of the present-day overproduction be brought about in this critical period?

An attempt to force industry into granting shorter hours without reducing the weekly wage might defeat its own purpose. With 11,000,000 men unemployed, organized labor could not expect to coerce industry by the strike method, which is the only means of coercion in its power. Furthermore, hundreds of industries are now operating at a loss. If they were confronted with the necessity of suddenly increasing their payrolls they might prefer to close their plants entirely, thus creating more unemployment. The need of the hour is for cooperation in extending work opportunities and in sharing the employment which is available.

CONFIRMATION POLITICS.

It is customary for the Senate to withhold confirmation of appointees when a change of administration is impending. Senator Robinson has announced that such a policy will be followed by the Democrats of the Senate this year, so that vacancies in the Government service may not be filled until after President-elect Roosevelt takes office.

To a certain extent this practice is justified. Any administration is entitled to choose its captains and lieutenants in strategic positions that are administrative or political in nature. But the practice of withholding confirmation may be carried to ridiculous extremes. Senator Robinson announces that the Senate Democrats will fight against confirmation of judicial appointees as well as postmasters, United States attorneys, marshals, etc. Does he contend that the new administration is entitled to a Democratic judiciary? The courts are nonpartisan and should remain so. Refusal to confirm judicial nominees merely on the ground that they have been appointed by a Republican President would impugn the independence of the judiciary.

In some cases recess appointments have been made. Such officials may continue to serve while their nominations are pending in the Senate. After Congress assembles, however, vacancies will remain unfilled unless President Hoover's nominations are confirmed. If the Democrats are able to carry out their plans, quite a number of important posts will remain vacant and the work of the Government must necessarily lag. In the case of the courts, which are already overworked and far behind their calendars, the nonconfirmation policy might be a serious handicap.

Some controversial nominations will undoubtedly be held over. At least part of the nominations will command support of the insurgents, and others will have Democratic support. Several of the most important posts in question are now held by distinguished Democrats, including former Representative Charles B. Crisp, of Georgia, appointed to the Tariff Commission, and former Senator Atlee Pomerene, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. These nominations will doubtless have wide support in Democratic ranks and little opposition from the Republicans. An attempt to withhold confirmation in such cases would benefit no one, least of all the new administration. When appointments are nonpartisan and based solely on merit politics ought not to be the test applied to their confirmation.

FOR A BEER INTERLUDE.

The Voluntary Committee of Lawyers is an incorporated body of attorneys in New York that takes an interest in general legal matters and public welfare. It apparently feels big enough to change its opinion. Last October it issued a statement favoring outright repeal, with qualified remission of liquor control to the States. Now it has decided that it would be a good thing to get back to hard liquor gradually, with an interim of beer while the Constitution is being modified. A committee headed by Joseph H. Choate, Jr., has made a lengthy report which advocates legalization by Congress of beer as formerly manufactured.

The committee believes that as Congress is charged with the duty of determining alcoholic content it could decide that the beers and ales of preprohibition days were not "intoxicating in fact" and that the Supreme Court would hold that Congress had not acted unreasonably, although some of those beverages formerly contained as high as 8 per cent of alcohol. As to a veto the lawyers hold, that, in view of the overwhelming sentiment expressed in recent elections, it "would be improper."

In recommending beer, excluding wines because of the difficulty of determining their alcoholic content, the lawyers feel the foaming beverage would afford opportunity to taper off from bootleg products and that many would become permanently addicted to the malt mixtures before repeal restored legal hard drinks. During this interlude the barristers vision a growth of beer gardens in which free lunch would be supplemented by good music, where drinking would be accompanied by relaxation and conversation, with commendable elimination of "the American desire to drink quickly for the sake of sensation."

As to other results the lawyers agree with the President-elect that a Federal revenue of $300,000,000 might be expected and that thousands would be given employment. As to the fate of those now engaged in the illegal manufacture and sale of beer the attorneys are quite hard-hearted; it doesn't matter what becomes of them and, anyhow, they have had ample time to line their pockets. As a final summary of their position the committee of legal lights, denouncing illicit liquor, declares, "We believe that the alternative of good beer at a reasonable price will be accepted with alacrity by vast numbers of people."

GROUP MEDICAL CARE.

After five years of study the Committee on the Cost of Medical Care, headed by Secretary Ray Lyman Wilbur and Dr. Harry H. Moore, as director of study, has made its complete report. As was to be anticipated from the various studies that were issued from time to time, investigation of the problem of giving adequate, scientific medical care to all the people, at costs which can be reasonably met by them, has resulted in recommendations for the establishment of medical centers with group organization of medical service and group payment of the costs.

The recommendations are based largely on existing organizations. It is proposed that medical care be furnished by physicians, dentists, nurses and pharmacists centered around a hospital; giving home, office and hospital care to individuals and families, the costs to be placed on a group payment basis of minimum monthly fees, supplemented or superseded in some cases through the use of insurance or taxation. The first suggestion is for the formation of State and community organizations for the "study, evaluation and coordination of medical service." The development in each city of one or more hospitals into a "Community Medical Center" is called the keynote of the committee's recommendations, which are being published in a document of 236 pages.

Interesting facts are disclosed by the committee's investigations. The Nation's annual medical bill is $3,656,000,000, and the "medical dollar," indicated by cents, is divided as follows: Physicians in private practice, 29.8; hospitals, 23.4; dentists, 12.2; medicines, 18.2; public health, 3.3; nurses, 5.5; cultists, 3.4; all others, 4.2. Altogether, 1,084,500 persons in the United States are engaged in the work of medical care and the sale of medical commodities. Of this number, 121,000 are physicians; 56,800 dentists, and 118,000 nurses, all in private practice. The per capita expenditure for medicines is $5.49, and all expenditures for public health only $1 per capita.

Dr. Wilbur expresses the hope that when the committee goes out of existence the first of the year another organization will be formed to promote further research in the field of medical economics, and also a continuing organization to provide demonstrations in local communities along lines proposed in the committee's recommendations.

DISTRICT COMMITTEE HEAD.

The District of Columbia finds cause for gratification in the fact that the House committee in charge of its affairs will continue to be under the chairmanship of Representative Mary T. Norton. The ability and devotion displayed by Mrs. Norton with regard to important District measures in the closing weeks of the last session entitled her to the thanks of all Capital residents. Notwithstanding the crush of vital national issues, thirty-nine bills of great importance locally were passed at the last session, due to the persistent championship of the chairman of the House committee.

Representative Norton has qualified herself by a study of District needs to be of real service to the National Capital. This service requires not only prestige and energy in the halls of Congress, but adaptability to cooperate with District officials. With harmonious relations existing between an understanding District committee head and the District Commissioners an ideal combination is secured which will make for the best interest of the Capital and its residents.

The British plan to pay the debt and yet hold the gold in London is attributed to Montagu Norman, but we insist that Prof. Clarence Skinner furnished the idea.

The fact that Britain's prime minister is a Scotchman may not be the sole reason why the tight little isle is tight.

If Congress goes too far with beer and the Supreme Court sets it right it will have no kick coming.

FUTILE 'HUNGER MARCHES'

From the Houston Post.

That is a timely warning that Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania issues to all groups planning "marches" on Washington this winter seeking subsidies of one sort or another from the public Treasury, when he informs them that they must not expect any assistance from Pennsylvania while passing through the State, because that commonwealth is taxed to its capacity to care for its own unemployed.

It would not be a bad idea if State officials throughout the country would do what they can to discourage these treks to the National Capital by unemployed people. As with Pennsylvania, so with nearly every other State, all have their hands full caring for their own needy idle, and they are not prepared to minister to the needs of transients.

"Hunger marches" and "jobless marches" on Washington should be discouraged, too, because of the very futility of such concentrations. Participants in them are wasting their time. The Federal Government isn't going to be intimidated into meeting any unreasonable demands for aid. It will do what it can, taking into consideration the taxpayers' plight, and the fact that every dollar appropriated by the Government has to be taken from taxpayers somewhere to provide relief. It will do that just as well without the presence in the Capital of hordes of idle and hungry men, every one of whom would be better off if he stayed in his home community and sought every means possible of employment, and failing in that, secured assistance from his home relief agencies.

A group of men planning a "hunger march" on the Capital appeared before Gov. Roosevelt the other day. What they asked of the governor was utterly unreasonable, and only disclosed the ignorance and irresponsibility of those making the demands. These are stressful times, and idle men have had their emotions profoundly stirred. That is all the more reason why the more fortunately situated, and the responsible officials in every State, should seek to discourage rash and futile attempts to secure help.

Regard must be had not only for the welfare of the unemployed, but for the security and welfare of the rest of the country.

Here They Come!

POST HASTE

With everybody favoring it, Bill Green rends the atmosphere and his shirt unnecessarily, shouting about force to force the shorter working week.

This is a good time to establish the fact that it is not necessary for several thousand persons to invade and sponge on the Capital in order to present a petition to Congress.

For all intents and purposes a committee of three is just as good a representation of 120,000,000 as 3,000.

"French to echo British debt reply." It will be a twisted echo, since the British payment position has become more than 80 per cent harder while France's has improved 30 per cent.

With all this talk about overproduction, why not consider a curb on the machines that are causing it until we can get the other end fixed up?

As the schedule now seems to be arranged, Bolivia and Paraguay claim battles won three days each a week, alternating with denials of the other's victories.

At least the battle of the beer content is going to teach many of us more about percentage than we ever knew before.

Slav simile: As suspicious as Moscow is of Exile Trotzky asking aid for the Soviet.

Italy's December debt quota is 1½ per cent of her national budget; France's, 3 per cent, and England's, 6½ per cent. Business of invoking the last straw theory.

It is particularly hard on France to pay next month, because she requires seven times the amount due for her military bills.

And can you blame a lot of private debtors for watching to see how far nations can get away with the alibi of "ability to pay?"

The effrontery, to use a polite term, of Communist joy-riders might just as well be confronted by the Capital now as later.

Latvia, almost as large and populous as Virginia—sure, it's a country!—has demonstrated its eligibility to belong to the European family of nations by declining to pay its debt to America.

At least England was not surprised that there was no cancellation cheer in the debt talk of the next chairman of the Senate finance committee, named Pat.

Allowing seven years for the ratification of the repeal amendment somehow doesn't sound optimistic.

The Bicentennial celebration is over and George Washington will have to worry along like a Japanese cherry tree, without any Bloom.

Possibly Papa Hindenburg is getting around gradually to giving the crown prince a try at amalgamating a Reichstag majority—or something.

PAUL HUDSON.

STILL PLANTING TREES.

Tree plantings registered on the honor roll of the American Tree Association in Washington now approach the 20,000,000 mark and there is every evidence, says Charles Lathrop Pack, the president, that the registrations will go beyond that mark before the end of 1932. From every section of the country, says the American Tree Planting Bulletin, he is receiving requests for tree planting suggestions and registration blanks in anticipation of the tree-planting season in honor of George Washington.

Darkness Has No Terrors for the Child in Its Father's Arms

By ROBERT QUILLEN

VICTOR HUGO says of the good bishop in "Les Miserables:" "He believed as much as he could."

The great tragedy of civilization is man's inability to believe in his God.

The little learning that is a dangerous thing destroys faith and gives no understanding to take its place. It leaves the mind adrift on a sea of doubt, without an anchor and without a compass.

Only the very simple and the very wise can believe without reservation.

The ordinary individual can believe little. His beliefs are products of text books, not of reason, and his too-literal mind cannot find new paths for itself. He can not believe in a God he can not see.

More fortunate men believe as the scientist does. The scientist can not see an atom, yet he accepts it as a fact because he sees the effect of its existence. Other men, unable to see God, believe in Him because they see innumerable evidences of His handiwork. Their belief is not mere faith, but the acceptance of a fact that seems self-evident.

Such belief is not a product of will. One whose faith was great still prayed, "Help thou my unbelief!" and thousands have echoed that plea.

One believes or one does not. There is no profit in pretending. The ordinary religionist, being afraid to doubt, assures himself that he believes everything; but he is afraid to examine his faith or measure it. In reality, his belief is merely an unwillingness to think lest it cause him to doubt.

The true believer is the most fortunate of men. One such is in America now after 29 years of service in China. He has never been paid more than $50 a month, but he cares nothing for money. Steamships carry him as an honored guest. Crowds flock to see and hear him, for there is some strange radiance in his countenance and his voice is a benediction.

Yet he has no natural endowment denied other men. He believes in God and serves unselfishly, and his reward is freedom from all anxieties.

Any one else might live as happily if he could believe. It would be impossible to worry if you knew beyond all doubting that a divine Father had you in His care.

But few can believe. They hurt themselves and cry, "How can He be cruel enough to permit it!" And thus they destroy their faith in God by imputing to Him the faults in themselves.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Debtors Tied Together.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The British, it seems, are beginning to realize that the necessity of maintaining a united front with the French as to the war debts is rather onerous. This front was established at the Lausanne conference last summer. It rests upon a "gentlemen's agreement" that neither government will make any move on the war-debt and reparations situation without consultation with the other. Consultation implies at least a certain measure of agreement on any action taken.

The British at Lausanne sold their independence of action for some diplomatic mess of pottage or other. They did it on the understanding that if Europe wiped its own slate clean of intergovernment accounts the United States would cancel also. But in their current moves the clank of the chains which bind them to France can be plainly heard.

Those Terrible Lobbies.

Winthrop (Mass.) Review.

There are a number of large, influential and respected organizations whose members, not content with taking part in choosing senators and representatives in their own districts, think it consistent with our scheme of Government to establish lobbies in Washington to work directly on the legislative and executive branches of our national Government.

They build, under the shadow of the Capitol or the White House, marble palaces, impressive edifices reflecting wealth and power, or maintain sumptuous offices where they can feel the official pulse. From them emanate paid lobbyists who invade every department, crying their demands into the ears of officials and congressmen and seeking to dominate legislation and to obtain special privileges.

Strange Similarities.

Detroit News.

And now, what do you make of this?

The popular vote in the recent presidential election gave Hoover 15,091,259 and Roosevelt 21,357,057.

In 1928 Hoover received 21,392,190 and Smith, 15,016,443.

The similarity of the Smith vote in 1928 with that of Hoover in 1932 and that of Hoover in 1928 with that of Roosevelt in 1932 will give the political dopesters something to figure out.

Expert Advice.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

When President-elect Roosevelt took Prof. Raymond Moley to the White House for his conference with President Hoover he introduced a factor into national affairs that may prove to be of considerable importance during the next four years.

It is utterly impossible for any one man, no matter what his mental capacity, to have full knowledge of all the problems that confront the Chief Executive of this country. The incident of Prof. Moley's visit to Washington indicates that Franklin Roosevelt will seek advice on technical questions from disinterested experts, men whose knowledge of certain subjects is of the exhaustive quality that can only come with highly specialized study.

Wet or Dry.

Akron Beacon-Journal.

No End.

Ohio State Journal.

As unending as arguments about prohibition. Also as tiresome.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Urges Adoption of Metric System to Supersede Clumsy and Time-Eating Methods.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is to be noted with grateful interest that the Amateur Athletic Union has adopted the metric system of measurements for all track and field events and that authorities from our larger colleges are prophesying: "Sooner or later we are coming to a universal system of measurement."

At this time of enforced economy it is well to consider that nearly 10 per cent of the time required for statistical computation is used in this country in changing and adapting fractions to our decimal notation. Then add to this the time required to compute the irregular tables of our weights and measures and some idea may be gained of the saving possible in governmental departments.

It is also well to remember that in the early years of the present century a bill was introduced in Congress to include the United States among the progressive nations using the metric system of weights and measures. At that time the change to the metric system was backed by all of the educational and commercial groups of this country, but it was defeated in Congress by the political activities of a group of elderly clerks who refused to learn the new system.

The same progressive groups are still in favor of the efficient, scientific and universal system of weights and measures. The inefficient clerks are now retired on account of age; so now, among other "new deals," we may look forward to liberation from our present cumbersome system and the emancipation of our children in school from a long term of useless mathematical gymnastics.

W. F. FLETCHER.

World War Veteran Asks Questions—Readers Can Form Their Own Answers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I would like to ask a few questions. Why does the American Government take orders from England? Why are certain Americans of high political standing always fighting for England? Is there any worse enemy to this country than a born United States tory? Why not clean house of all foreign workers from within, including our own? How can an individual be an American and work for other countries when there are millions of his own people starving? Why are the veterans the backbone of America? Do veterans of all wars control 20,000,000 votes? Who was the balance of power in this last election?

WORLD WAR VET.

Oakland, Calif.

"Union Square" Held to Be Inappropriate Name for Area Near Capitol.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The selection of the name of Union Square for the area being developed between the Capitol grounds and Sixth street northwest as a part of the new public buildings and public parks plan is unfortunate. When completed this square will be one of the most imposing and beautiful of the National Capital. It is inappropriate that it bear the name of famous Union Square, New York.

Constitution avenue will in time become world-famous as a Washington thoroughfare. Union Square, Washington, is destined to rank in stateliness if not in history with the magnificent Place de la Concorde, Paris, perhaps the world's finest plaza, and it should have a distinctive name.

Independence Square would be appropriate were it not that Philadelphia's most famous square is known by that name. Could not a better and more appropriate name than Union Square be adopted?

LEWIS L. YOUNG.

Old Republican Tells Why He Will Help New Administration.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Franklin D. Roosevelt has the chance of a century. He has the Senate with him. He has the House with him. He can not be held back by discontented renegades acting under false colors. He will be helped by all honest men, and there are many of them, and can therefore disregard threats, and the "I helped your election" reminders. For it was the will of the people that elected him. Politics had nothing to do with it.

I am a Republican and have voted the Republican ticket for more than 50 years. But now it is a time to lay aside party and work for the good of the country, and help, even the little one can, to get out of the mire—which we have already begun to do—forgetting at the same time what we think was the cause of the depression.

THE COST OF LIFE.

Not always life is gentle; wind and rain
And the gray fog and the cold white snow
Beset the paths whereon mankind must go.
Never it seems the end of toil is plain
Hopes the most certain futile prove and vain.
All who grow old must disappointment know
Sorrow and heartache. Age will these bestow
On all her children: Care and tears and pain.

But down the years will come remembered days—
Laughter and song and pleasure sweet to claim
In spite of grievous burdens men will praise
And hold in reverence their Creator's name.
Mothers with agony will gladly buy

On the Air Today

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, who went on the air Monday twice in one night (WJZ, 7:30, and WJSV, 10:30 o'clock), thus reaching the people of the country over two different networks, sets a record for feminine radio speakers. It likewise foreshadows a radio-minded First Lady of the Land.

The sponsors of "The Rise of the Goldbergs" are holding auditions for two youngsters to take the place of Alfred Corn and Roslyn Silber, who play the juvenile roles in the sketches. Their contracts were cancelled after their parents objected to a second broadcast for the West Coast network without extra remuneration, according to a representative of the National Broadcasting Co.

Repeat pick-ups of each episode were inaugurated about ten days ago. The children's parents asserted that there was nothing in their contracts calling for more than one broadcast a night, and they put in a bid for extra pay.

THE National Light Opera Company was topnotch in the tabloid version of "The Mikado." A remarkable thing was the way the words of the songs came over. Not even in a front seat at the theater could you hear words more distinctly.

In fact, we enjoyed this studio performance more than the pretentious presentation of "Lucia di Lammermoor" by the Metropolitan Opera Co. last Saturday afternoon. This criticism, however, refers specifically to that opera, because the stage pick-up at the Metropolitan is marvelously improved over last year. The new "velocity" microphones used this season are effective from both sides.

One is hidden on each side of the stage and another suspended above the orchestral pit. The result is an almost perfect balance between orchestra and singers. Gone are the cavernous echoes.

Speaking of the Metropolitan, listeners have something to look forward to when the premiere of Richard Strauss' "Elektra" will be broadcast in entirety from the stage of the New York Opera House next Saturday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. "Elektra" is a long one-act opera which has never been presented at the Metropolitan. It has not been sung in the United States since 1911.

MISCHA LEVITSKI, one of the greatest of the younger pianists, will perform in concert with a symphony orchestra (WRC, 10:30 p. m.). Levitski will play the Liszt "Concerto in E Flat" for piano and orchestra during the Artists Service half-hour.

Rex Beach's short story, "Cool Waters," especially adapted for the radio, will begin a Wednesday evening series in the Five Star Theater (WJZ network, 7:30 p. m.). Other writers who will participate in this series include Fannie Hurst, Ben Ames Williams and Ursula Parrott.

The formal resumption of athletic relations between the Army and Navy will be the occasion for a special broadcast by athletic officials of the two service schools over the WEAF network, but not WRC, at 6:30 p. m. Capt. John W. Wilcox, jr., and Maj. Philip B. Fleming will be the speakers.

Otis Skinner, veteran actor, will head the all-star cast of players who will pay tribute to the celebrated American author and humorist, Mark Twain, on the ninety-seventh anniversary of his birth (WJZ network, 10:30 p. m.).

A new series of sketches, "Yvonne in Paree," will be inaugurated over WMAL at 9:15 o'clock tonight.

The "Covered Wagon" Suite, by W. H. Woodin, president of the American Car & Foundry Co., will have its world premiere during the Symphony Concert, Erno Rapee conducting (WRC, 9 o'clock) tonight. Woodin has attracted considerable interest with his musical interpretations of the American scene. His work is one of the features of the all-American program of symphonic compositions by Guion, Shilkret, Hadley and Grisselle.

THE problem of "What's in a name?" is a very distressing one to Jack Benny.

In his earlier days as a vaudevillian his official tag was Ben Benny, very confusing with one Ben Bernie. Audiences often found it difficult to distinguish the two apart; so Benny obligingly changed his first name to Jack.

All was well until Jack and the microphone became friends. There was an orchestra leader, Jack Denny by name, who was very popular on the air waves—and Jack Benny and Jack Denny sound very much alike through the loud speakers.

Jack Benny (the comedian), upon being introduced to folks, would be greeted with a "Why, Mr. Benny, I'm so glad to know you. I think you have a great band." And probably at the same moment elsewhere Jack Denny (the orchestra leader) was being told: "Mr. Denny, you're-the funniest person on the air."

To make matters more complex, it so happens that on Thursday evenings Jack Denny's music is heard immediately following Jack Benny's ginger ale program.

Ruth Etting will offer "Some Happy Day," "Just A-Wearyin' for You" and "Old Folks at Home" during the Music that Satisfies period (WJSV, 10 p. m.).

BARON MUNCHAUSEN had unexpected visitors one night at his Lucky Strike broadcast. Chico and Groucho, of the Marx Brothers, now starred in Five Star Theater. As might be expected of the pair, they showed up without warning and accosted a page who was taking tickets at the Times Square studio.

"We," said Groucho, "are friends of Mr. Pearl's, and we'd like to see the show. Unfortunately we have no tickets."

"Sorry, very sorry," said the page, "but it is impossible to pass you in without tickets."

"But," said both Chico and Groucho, "we're the Marx brothers, and we want to get in."

And before the boy had recovered in they were, and settled comfortably watching the show and getting radio pointers. The comedians later slipped out as easily as in, wholly unobserved.

Fauquier Medical Group Will Meet at Manassas

Special to The Washington Post.

Manassas, Va., Nov. 29.—Members of the Fauquier County Medical Society will journey to Manassas on Thursday night where they will be the guests of Dr. Stewart McBryde at a dinner following the discussions on medical and surgical topics.

Maj. Gen. Robert U. Patterson, surgeon general of the Army, will be the guest of honor and during the course of the evening will tell something of the work being done in the Army hospitals, while Mayor Harry P. Davis of Manassas will welcome the visitors.

BRIDGE PAIR TITLE PLAY BEGUN BY 200.

New York Group Is Winner of Mixed Team Contest in Brilliant Match.

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Nearly 200 bridge players started a four-day contract marathon tonight in an effort to oust P. Hal Sims and Willard Karn from the national pair championship.

Many of them had competed this afternoon in the first session of a three-day championship tournament for the national team-of-four title.

The two competitions were the principal events on the six-day program of the American Bridge League's sixth annual tournament and the prospect of the long grind had no effect on the entry list.

The first championship at stake in the tournament was decided in two sessions which ended early today. H. Huber Boscowitz, Mrs. S. B. Black, Samuel Fry, jr., and Mrs. Olga Hillare, of the Cavendish Club, New York, won the Shepard Barclay trophy for mixed teams.

Marked by Brilliant Play.

The Cavendish Club presented the trophy for the pair championship which Sims and Karn now hold. His event will not be decided until Friday night after five sessions have been held.

The trophy for the team championship, presented by the Auction Bridge Club of Chicago, is now held by Commander Winfield Liggett, jr., Mrs. Norman Newman, George Unger and Mrs. Elizabeth Banfield, of New York.

Two sessions will be held in this event in addition to the one played this afternoon, and the championship will be decided Thursday.

Noted Players Lead.

Fourteen of the 21 teams in this event played 28 boards this afternoon, and the other 7 teams played 24. In the first group a quartet composed of Hugh Jackson, Oswald Jacoby, Theodore A. Lightner and Michael T. Gottlieb, all of New York, was in front with 20 points.

The lead in the other section was held by Waldemar von Zedtwitz, S. Gaston Churchill and George Reith, of New York, and B. J. Becker, of Philadelphia. They had 14½ points.

Contestants in the mixed team event played with new partners for the most part, but the competition produced some brilliant play.

Grand Slam Contract Made.

J. B. Fried and Mrs. Ann Rosenfeld, of Cleveland, playing the following hand as East and West, bid and made a grand slam in diamonds by an astute application of the "one over one" system:

North.
S.—K J 9 7 6 4
H.—9 8 6
D.—J 5
C.—K 8

| West. | East. |

East dealt and bid a diamond, South passed, West bid two clubs, North two spades, East a forcing bid of three diamonds and South three spades. West, blank in the opponents' suit, then bid four spades to show no losing cards of that suit, North passed and East bid five notrump, showing the ace of spades. With South and North passing, West then went on to six diamonds and East bid seven, which was made with ease.

First "Roll-Proof" Liner On Maiden Trip Today

Genoa, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The world's first "roll-proof" liner, designed to prevent seasickness, will sail tomorrow on her maiden voyage to New York. She is the 48,000-ton Conte di Savoia and she was built to keep an even keel in the roughest sea.

Three 100-ton rotors whirling in the hold at 910 revolutions a minute are counted on to keep her decks straight. When waves start the ship rolling the gyroscopes begin spinning, and this process develops a stabilizing force which tends to keep the vessel on an even keel.

Flannagan Begins Survey in His District With View to Slashes.

Norton, Va. Nov. 29 (A.P.).—A survey of political offices in his district for the avowed purpose of determining where eliminations and reductions in salary can be made has been started by Representative John W. Flannagan.

In a questionnaire sent to every precinct chairman in the district, Mr. Flannagan said that if other members of Congress will join him in the movement, "I believe we can aid materially in reducing the cost of Government." He urged that the surveys be made "honestly and intelligently."

In addition to determining which Federal offices might be abolished, which might be consolidated and in which salaries might be reduced, Mr. Flannagan said he proposed to investigate whether rents paid on Federal buildings are in keeping with the prevailing rates.

IRON FOR BABIES.

THERE is a common understanding that children may grow too fast for their own good. There is scientific basis for this commonly accepted opinion. In periods of rapid growth things are happening day and night and the machine may go wrong in more ways than one. This article deals particularly with some of the plans that may go wrong when nature is trying to make bricks without straw; when the frame is put up so rapidly that the stock of raw material is overdrawn.

Infancy is a period of very rapid growth. There is no other time in life when the percentage increase in length, breadth, and weight is so great as in the first twelve months. To take care of the anticipated demand, the baby comes into the world with considerable stores of raw material. In addition, the amount of food consumed daily is enormous in comparison with body weight. It is good food, rich in calories, fats, proteins, minerals and vitamins, and easily digested. But there is one mineral in which the food is deficient and that is iron. Children of older age and larger size require about one-half a grain of metallic iron a day, and baby needs a considerable fraction of that amount. Since the good food on which babies are fed principally—milk—is poor in iron, they presently show evidence of lack of that mineral.

The mother does her part as well as she can. Before she launches the little body on its life journey she stocks the lockers full of reserve iron. The newly born baby is as red as a pale beet, and if he were assayed by a chemist the report would read: Too much iron. Then come months of subsistence on no food except iron-poor milk. Presently the baby begins to fade. The red turns to a pink, then to a pale pink, then to a dead white, then to a flabby, chalky appearance. A medical man would say the baby has a nutritional anemia. When this is the case the baby has used daily more iron than his food supplied and the lockers have been drawn on steadily to make up the deficit. At last the store has been used up and the soft, flabby, white appearance is the consequence.

Fortunately, by this time many babies are ready to eat eggs, soups, cereals, and thus restock themselves with iron. Many are brought to the doctors for help. The physician may do nothing more than have the baby given less milk and more eggs, cereals and soups. If something further is required, he probably will advise an iron tonic and daily exposure to sunlight or to ultraviolet. If he gives iron he probably will prescribe some old-fashioned iron tonic, for these are now recognized as being the best, and he will add a minute trace of copper to the combination.

In some instances the baby will not pick up as fast as he was expected to do on this tonic and diet and the medicine will be changed to some preparation for liver or stomach. There are some places where the need for red blood cells to carry iron is greater than that of iron itself.

In addition to infancy there are later periods of rapid growth in which the child becomes pale and flabby. Then, too, iron and copper and iron-rich foods are given. Some cases need liver and stomach preparations instead.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

IN spite of its ultrasmartness, you'll find this stunning dress decidedly practical.

Two surfaces of wine-red crinkly crepe satin are introduced with a most pleasing result.

The bateau neck is youthfully flattering.

The sleeves, set into deep armholes, make it extremely easy for the home seamstress to fashion it.

Style No. 3218 is designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material, with 1⅜ yards of 39-inch contrasting.

Soft woolens and rough crepe silks would make up charmingly in this model. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

Our Fall and Winter Fashion Magazine contains the most attractive selection of new patterns for women and children; a three-lesson Beauty Course, fashion hints and also Christmas gift suggestions that you can make and stretch your Christmas budget. WHAT modern woman still does not know that the essence of chic is simplicity? Ah, but it takes a clever woman to know what not to wear! Not only is it chic to be simply and quietly dressed, but also it is a matter of good taste and attractiveness. Street costumes, more than anything else, must have this simplicity, both in color and line and in accessories. It is never modish nor in good taste to be flashily dressed on the street or overburdened with an assortment of accessories, including a corsage, a scarf, bracelets, beads and earrings and a multitude of mesh bangles hanging from the wrist.

Even the moving picture actresses of my acquaintance—and many of them allow lavishness to take the place of good taste—are becoming accustomed to simplicity in street attire.

If you wear a corsage—and this whim of fashion is such a pleasing one—see that it is the keynote of your costume. A good way to test this is to know that without it your costume is not complete, for if it were complete without it the corsage would be one accessory too many. Very often a clever costume has for its feature a single ornament or bit of trimming, and the right shoes and hat with this bring us back to the Grecian idea of beauty in simplicity.

If you would be chic—
If you would be in good taste—
If you would be attractive—
If you would be beautiful—

If you would be charming and smart and the center of well-bred admiration, then affect simplicity in your clothes.

* * * *

The new sleeves have to be just so—or they aren't so good, as you certainly know by now. And in the "just so" business one has to consider so many things. Gracefulness in appearance and feeling, balance with the rest of the silhouette—neither too top heavy nor too skimpy. Then their particular becomingness to the wearer. And when you have gone that far, if you have achieved a sleeve like the one Mirande makes on the black crepe afternoon gown I have sketched for you today, you are good. The sleeve drape is all in one with the bodice line, you see.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

IT is quite the natural thing to cut down on water, fresh air and exercise intake during the winter months. Yet, that is exactly what we women in quest of loveliness should not do.

During the summer we naturally include more liquids in our daily diet. Water, milk, fruit juices. No reason to stop drinking these valuable liquids during the winter.

When you realize what an important factor drinking water is to the body, when you know that it aids digestion, relieves constipation, flushes the kidneys and helps to remove waste material regularly, you surely must be convinced that it is important to drink plenty of water. And when you are told that enough water will help to preserve the youthful, humid, dewy quality of the complexion that personifies youth—well, how can you resist the water wagon?

One of the contributing causes to extreme dryness of the skin in the winter is insufficient drinking water and milk. If your skin smarts and stings and feels like a parched throat, actually hurts almost, treat it to a good creaming and treat your system to more water. If you are underweight, treat yourself to more oil within and without, too. Plenty of cream, butter, oil in your dressings. It will all help.

Fresh Air.

Fresh air is another thing we seem to cut down during the cold weather. Which is a mistake, to say the least. An acquaintance once said, "During the winter I feel old and dull; no life, no bubble, no enthusiasm, no joy in just being alive." That's a confession of lack of fresh air. Because if you get out in the open, breathe deeply, walk briskly or skate or exercise, you won't feel dull or old. You'll feel invigorated, "peppy." The biting cold weather will make your body tingle and your cheeks glow with health and natural color.

Sleep with windows wide open, and don't pull your covers over your head, whatever you do!

We can't go to sleep like the flowers do, and wake up in spring a-bloom, a-fresh. Beauty has to be kept wide-eyed and high pitched. Else the waking is a too difficult job.

My list of health rules are beauty rules for the entire year for every season and every individual. You should have a copy. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for it.

BREAKING THE RULES.

RULES for correct bidding of hands will work most of the time. The good Bridge player is one who knows when to break the rules and by so doing reach a makable contract which he ordinarily would be unable to attain. For instance, one of the accepted rules is that a five-card suit should always be bid in preference to a four-card suit, provided both are biddable. However, if the holder of the North cards on the hand below had seen fit to break this rule, he and his partner would probably have reached the makable Slam contract, which they did not do.

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| | ♠ A J 10 6♡ 8 6 4◇ A J 9 3 2♣ 5 | |
| ♠ 9 5 4♡ K 9◇ Q 7 6 4♣ Q J 7 3 | NW ES | ♠ 8 7 3 2♡ 7 5 2◇ K 10 8♣ K 9 4 |
| | ♠ K Q♡ A Q J 10 3◇ 5♣ A 10 8 6 2 | |

The bidding (as it actually occurred):

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1♡ | Pass | 2◇ | Pass |
| 3♣ | Pass | 3NT(1) | Pass |
| Pass(2) | Pass | | |

1—North has bid the hand quite normally up to this point. On the first round of bidding he bid his five-card diamond suit in preference to his four-card spade suit. Now that South bid three clubs, he is on the spot. He does not know whether his partner's suits are of five-card length or whether they are only four-card suits. He does not know if they are rebiddable. In fact, he knows very little about his partner's hand. He fears that if he bids three spades, South may conceivably pass or, for want of a better bid, may raise his spades on only three, or may bring him back to four diamonds, and he does not want to play the hand at five diamonds. The three notrump bid seems to be making the best of a bad situation.

2—South has no choice but to pass. His hand contains only 3½ honor-tricks, and his partner's bidding has not been particularly strong. It appears dangerous to take the hand beyond the level of three notrump into a doubtful club or heart game, as his partner may not have a fit in either of the suits. Here was an opportunity for North to break a rule. If he had done so he and his partner would have pretty surely reached a Slam contract in hearts. It is my opinion that on the first round of bidding, North's proper response was one spade. The reason for this is that on hands of this type—that is, with unbalanced distribution, containing 2 or more biddable suits—as many rounds of bidding should be preserved as possible. The one spade bid, besides being 99 per cent Forcing, will keep the bidding considerably lower than the two diamond bid. Assuming North to have responded with one spade, the bidding would probably have proceeded as follows:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1♡ | Pass | 1♠ | Pass |
| 2♣ | Pass | 2◇ | Pass |
| 2♡ | Pass | 4♡(1) | Pass |
| 5♡(2) | Pass | 6♡(3) | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

1—By now North knows the true nature of South's hand—in other words, that his heart suit is rebiddable and of at least five cards. Holding a singleton club and control of the other two suits, he immediately contracts for game in hearts.

2—Holding a strong two-suiter and a fit with one of North's suits, South sees hope for a Slam after North's double Raise. His five heart bid asks North to bid six on any slight additional values.

3—North is quite convinced of the solidity of South's hearts, and raises to six. He believes that if a heart trick is lost there is a good chance no others will be, while there is a fair chance that not even 1 trump trick will be lost, and thus a loser in another suit will still permit the Slam to be made.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

CONTRACT SCORE CARDS.

The new values for suits, tricks overbook, undertrick penalties and overtrick values, when vulnerable or not vulnerable, are all contained upon a handy-sized card now being distributed by The Washington Post. . . . Ask for these cards at The Washington Post business office or they will be mailed to you upon receipt of your address accompanied by a 3-cent stamp.

Bride in Albemarle Wears 1872 Dress

Miss Emma P. Gimbert Is Wed to C. E. Harris, of Norfolk.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 29.—Clarence Ervine Harris, of Norfolk, Va., and Miss Emma Pearl Gimbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gimbert, of Ivy, this county, were married yesterday at the home of the bride's parents, the ceremony being performed by Dr. Henry Alford Porter, pastor of the First Baptist Church, this city.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was attired in a silver brocaded beige dress in the Martha Washington style, which had been her grandmother's wedding dress 60 years ago. She also carried the ivory fan and lace handkerchief which her grandmother had used, and wore an old-fashioned necklace and earrings, which were heirlooms. Her grandmother, Mrs. George Washington Reader, of Lynhaven, attended the wedding.

Taylor Gimbert, brother of the bride, came from Fork Union Military Academy to act as best man. During the ceremony, "Because" was sung by a sister of the bride, Miss Mary Gimbert. Another sister, Miss Catherine Gimbert, played Lohengrin's wedding march as the bride entered. The wedding was followed by reception. Mr. and Mrs. Harris will make their home in Norfolk.

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF November 30 is the date of your birth, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:30 a. m. to 7:15 a. m., from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 7:45 p. m. to 8:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12 a. m. and from 5:30 p. m. to 6:30 p. m.

Influences astir on this November 30 will make it a very oppressive day. People generally will be physically and mentally sluggish. Time will hang heavily and little will seem to be accomplished. Those engaged in creative pursuits will find a great dearth of ideas. Affairs of the heart will fare badly, for both parties will seem unresponsive.

The child born on this November 30 will be physically active and mentally alert. It will love to rough house and will be most playful. At school it will do unusually well not because it enjoys the studies, but because it will thrive on the acclaim that comes to those who lead their classes. Guard it against conceit. These children will not make friends easily, for they are of a too critical nature.

Born on November 30, in all probability you have a very wholesome outlook on life. Your health is very good and you love the outdoors.

You have a great many friends if your birthday is on November 30. Yours is a very easy-going nature. You are inclined to be too sensitive and retiring at times. You are very artistic and you love the beautiful. You should do well for yourself in some line of creative endeavor. You are inclined to be at times too idealistic, but usually you are brought back to earth by a very decided practical side of yourself which makes itself apparent on occasions.

As a parent, you are inclined to be too lenient with your children, though never to the point of allowing them to become spoiled. You will find a good deal of friction in your marital affairs, but nothing of a serious sort. You are too sensible to allow any petty differences or difficulties to magnify themselves.

Successful people born on November 30:

Cyrus W. Field, merchant.
Samuel L. Clemens, humorist and author.
Henry P. Wright, educator.
Jefferson De Angelis, actor.
William L. La Follette, United States senator.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

Greta Garbo

THE season of the year now arrived—and yesterday was the day—when Jack Alicoate, formerly of this journal, but now the astute and enterprising editor of the widely consulted and generously quoted "Film Daily," petitions the motion picture editors of the Nation to commit themselves to the folly of selecting the "ten best pictures of the year" out of a total list of between 400 and 500 subjects, released between the dates of November 1, 1931 and October 31, 1932.

While a pleasant and invigorating pastime, this has always appealed to this column as futility at its apex. To begin with, I doubt if it lies within the physical capability of any motion picture editor to view more than a comparatively small fraction of the total number of pictures Mr. Alicoate so thoughtfully arranges in alphabetical order for his contemplation. As I say, there are about 500 on the list. If one is to make a judicious, or even sane, selection of the "ten best"—meaning, of course, the best ten—he should have seen them all. That would mean the negligible chore of seeing a feature picture every day in the year, with 135 left over for odd moments! It can't be done.

In the second place, who knows definitely what constitutes a best picture? Anyone who, with any infallibility whatever, could approximate the correct answer could displace Will H. Hays, the heads of all the production departments and be a Croesus, not to say a Solomon, overnight!

However, sales resistance being especially low at the moment—what with Community Chest drives, the impending Christmas shoplifting season and the pertinacity of an army of bill collectors who ought by now to be discouraged, but seemingly are not—this is probably as good a time as any to break down and stick a pin through the back of the card ten times!

So, of such of the 500 as we have seen during the past year, we deem these best:

1. GRAND HOTEL.
2. LOVE ME TONIGHT.
3. SCARFACE.
4. BACK STREET.
5. ONCE IN A LIFETIME.
6. ARROWSMITH.
7. SMILIN' THROUGH.
8. EMMA.
9. THE PHANTOM PRESIDENT.
10. RESERVED FOR LADIES.

If defense were needed for thus surrendering to Master Alicoate's sugary seductions, it would be something to the effect that "Grand Hotel" is placed first on the list not because Garbo was in it, but because of the sum total of its manifold excellences which placed it fairly in a class by itself; "Love Me Tonight," high on the list in spite of its tawdry denouement and because of its skill in humor and satire and the deftness of its employment of music; "Scarface," for the frank realism with which it treated a brutally frank story and for the acting of Paul Muni and George Raft; "Back Street," for its fidelity to many of the quaint aspects of life in those gay '90's, the acting of Irene Dunne and, in lesser degree, that of John Boles; "Once in a Lifetime," because it had the courage unmercifully to burlesque its own medium and be better than the original stage play.

"Arrowsmith" seems to justify itself on the list through a conscientious adherence to the spirit of the Sinclair Lewis novel, from which it was adapted, and "Smilin' Through" by the imaginative beauty and clarity with which it revivified a gossamer and saccharine romance that might understandably have been dead from overwork long before this production ever found its way into being. "Emma" was rescued from mediocrity by one of Marie Dressler's most poignant studies in genre comedy and homely simplicity. "The Phantom President" I cherish for its rejuvenation of George M. Cohan, the further aggrandizement of Mr. Jimmy Schnozzola Durante and its superb willingness to pillory political methods that were already getting a bit irksome by the time it was released.

"Reserved for Ladies" you probably do not even remember. It is not surprising, if the title is your only guide, because the title bore no more relation to what the screen disclosed than this column bears to Deuteronomy. Nevertheless, as a dialogue and sound version of "The Grand Duchess and the Waiter," in the silent version of which Adolphe Menjou had starred, it afforded Leslie Howard a splendid vehicle and his audiences splendid entertainment.

So that's my story, even if I'm stuck with it, as I doubtless am!

Now if you are wondering why it took so long to get all that concession to the suppliant Mr. Alicoate written, it was because right in the midst of it who should pop in at the door but old Jim Lundy, the peripatetic publicist formerly in charge of Loew's symbal-whanging here in the Capital. In charge of it up to last April, as a matter of fact. Jim, now a tub-thumper-at-large, is just passing through on his way to Pittsburgh on a professional errand, there, no doubt, to pass the time of day—or maybe a couple of times—with Mike Cullen, with whom he was associated while formerly engaged in taking the Palace and Columbia Theaters to market every week. In case you were worried about it, Jim looks fine, Jim looks.

A little earlier in the day, the unexpected caller was Vince McKnight, avant couriering on behalf of an attraction in which Washington will be particularly interested — "There's Always Juliet," the second of the subscription plays of the American Theater Society's season at the National Theater.

"There's Always Juliet" was written by John Van Druten and was first played in this country by Edna Best and Herbert Marshall in the Empire Theater, New York, last season. Their roles will be played here by Violet Heming and Roger Pryor, for whom the piece has been revived with great success. It is in these two that Washington's interest will center.

Comparative oldsters in the local theater will recall when Miss Heming was a popular and bewitchingly lovely ingenue with the old Columbia Theater Players, one of the most beloved stock organizations in the theatrical annals of the National Capital.

Roger Pryor's last outstanding local success, of course, was in the role of Alvin Roberts, the columnist, in "Blessed Events," before that, he, too, will be pleasantly remembered as a leading man with the good Doctor Stephen E. Cochran's National Theater Players, the present-day counterpart of the Columbia Players of a score of years ago.

"There's Always Juliet" is scheduled for the National the week of December 12, following the engagement of the Abbey Theater Players from Dublin, opening next Monday night.

As this is being written, not too far ahead of Tuesday, midnight, word comes from Cleveland that a capacity audience filled the Hanna Theater in that city for Katharine Cornell's premiere performance of "Lucrece" last evening and applauded enthusiastically and appreciatively when a string quartet rendered the overture especially composed by Deems Taylor as part of the musical setting of Thornton Wilder's translation of the Andre Obey play. Both Mr. Taylor and Mr. Wilder were present at the opening.

Backstage gossip last night was to the effect that the play was ready to open Monday night, but Miss Cornell insisted upon waiting for Tuesday, the 29th, the same day of the month upon which she had opened so successfully in the same theater in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," one of her greatest triumphs.

Will Fyffe, the famous Scotch comedian, imported by Earl Carroll for his "Vanities," will not headline next week's vaudeville bill at Loew's Fox as originally announced. Word was received yesterday by the management that Fyffe is canceled, for the time being at least, and that his place on the bill will be taken by Bob Hope, late of "Ballyhoo."

If he had to cancel, I wonder why Fyffe had to piccolo house?

Christmas Savings Clubs

Open Today—

Join Without Delay!

Regular deposits of small amounts in a Christmas Savings Club accumulate money with astonishing ease without appreciable sacrifice.

This year the banks of this city will distribute over eight million dollars to the members of their clubs. Imagination can not picture all the happiness that this stupendous sum will spell to the givers and the getters of the generosity thus made possible by the wise foresight of those who joined the clubs last December.

It is all accomplished by systematic deposits. Call today at one of the banks listed below and choose the plan that suits you best.

SHUTE WINS $10,000 MIAMI OPEN BY ONE STROKE

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE bangtails bid bye-bye to Bowie yesterday . . . Until April 1, 1933, or thereabouts . . . But they left a trail of prices that almost knocked the mutuel board loose from its moorings . . . Favorites burned up the money after the first race . . . Fifteen thousand fans at the track to get in their final lick at Eastern racing and were licked . . . The entry of Prince Abbott and the first-time starter Bromo is the paddock tip in the first race and never figures . . . Stable connections sunk the ship on Alantee and he wins like Man o' War by five lengths . . . Gabbo is the good thing in the second . . . Was a tip in town last night and pays off at $56.80 in the $2 mutuels General Lejeune and General Court, heavily played, finish in the rear rank . . . Marooned is the prerace standout in the third, with the clever E. Steffen up . . . But last-minute odds send Character down to $3.70 to 1 and it proves to be the wise money . . . Silk Flag flatters the long-shot players by leading to the far turn, where Marooned picks up the pace . . . But Leishman outs Character to a drive and the faint-hearted Maroon falters while Knight's Gal comes from seventh to gain second place by a head, beaten a neck for all the money . . . And Johnny Gilbert, seeking one more winner to tie Hank Mills at 182 for the session's riding honors, finishes last, absolutely, when left at the post with Adolph Pons' Snaplock . . . Halcyon gets the big play in the fourth . . . And goes the way of six of the seven favorites . . . First odds show Pairbypair and Halcyon the choices at 2 to 1, but Pairbypair recedes to 5 and Novelist is the second choice at 3 to 1 . . . The best-looking horse on the track, this Novelist, with the gray coat of most Stefan the Great get . . . And a fancy figure in his red blinkers, acting up throughout the parade to the post . . . Halcyon shows in front at the break . . . But Novelist is in close company . . . And has more speed than the favorite . . . Around the bend and into the stretch with Novelist showing the way by a length and Pairbypair second, well in hand . . . A sixteenth out, three horses surge past the failing Novelist, with Pairbypair a good length ahead at the finish and Merrily On and Gold Step taking the place and show . . . They parade to the post in the Bryan and O'Hara Memorial, the $15,000 feature . . . Mate is installed the prohibitive favorite at 8 to 5, with the Burch entry of White Clover II and Tambour the second choice . . . St. Brideaux is 8 to 1 despite his Thanksgiving Day Handicap win over Mate . . . And there is support for Jack High at 4 to 1 . . . The old renegade Reveille Boy delays the start and is shunted to the outside with a twitch in his nose . . . As is Late Date . . . Then they are off . . . Jack High has the early foot of the party, accompanied by the speedy Blenheim . . . Mate is laying well in the third spot . . . Jack High is making motions as if he will stick it out . . . But he can't shake Mate . . . And then something from out of the ruck moves up to the leaders . . . It is Danny Mead, "Long Shot" Danny, with the underrated Kincsen . . . A field horse held at 16 to 1 with Late Date . . . But Kincsen is winging . . . A game mare she is . . . And a sixteenth out she has passed Mate . . . And then staves off the closing rush of the favorite to win by a nose . . . Just another long shot . . . And Action steps down in the sixth at $22.30, another field shot . . . And as a parting gesture, Tuffy G breezes home at $32.70 in the seventh . . . Bye-bye Bowie.

Carnegie Has Bright Star In Kavel

G. U. Coaches Also Laud Coulter in Tech Back Field.

Versatile and Tricky Team Will Invade City Saturday.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

DISTRICT football fans will see one of the most versatile football teams in the country Saturday when the cordon of magicians known to the trade as Carnegie Tech come to Washington to end their season, Georgetown's season and the District college season in one fell swoop.

Carnegie Tech, which was scouted by Coaches Jack Hagerty and Mush Dubofsky last week when the Scots led N. Y. U. for 50 minutes, only to collapse in the final ten minutes, is securely astride the football fence. It has taken the Notre Dame and the Warner systems and extracted what its coaches believe are the best features of both, which makes the game one of those Slav meet Slav affairs for Georgetown is now Warnerized, but the insidious root of an attack of Notre Dameitis is still rampant.

Kavel Named On A. P. All-Eastern.

Kavel, a kicking, running, passing, end-skirting, line-plunging back, was mentioned for All-Eastern honors yesterday by the Associated Press, but Coach Dubofsky says that Coulter is even better. It will be the final game for a number of Carnegie laborers, chiefly Kaval, Coulter, Sample, Jones, Croissant, McCurdy, Kebe and Seigel.

Carnegie's lone drawback this year has been inconsistency, brought on perhaps when half the team began to play Warner and half Notre Dame. Suffice to say that the Scots have turned in two beautiful performances, the Pittsburgh and N. Y. U. games.

The Scots, according to word to The Post from their camp, spent all day yesterday brushing up on their passing attack, which augurs well the fact that they will show much of their aerial tendencies Saturday. Against N. Y. U. their passing game was outstanding. The team leaves tomorrow night and will practice at Griffith Stadium Friday afternoon.

Up at Georgetown yesterday the Hoyas continued their stern workouts and were heartened by the return to uniform of Charlie Parcells, sophomore flash, who has been out of the last two games because of an ankle injury. Parcells fitted in well with Kennedy, Kelly and Bradley in the first back field, giving the Hoyas two 10-second men in the back field.

Trojans Are Named For Rose Bowl Date

Southern California Would Prefer Michigan as Jan. 2 Opponent.

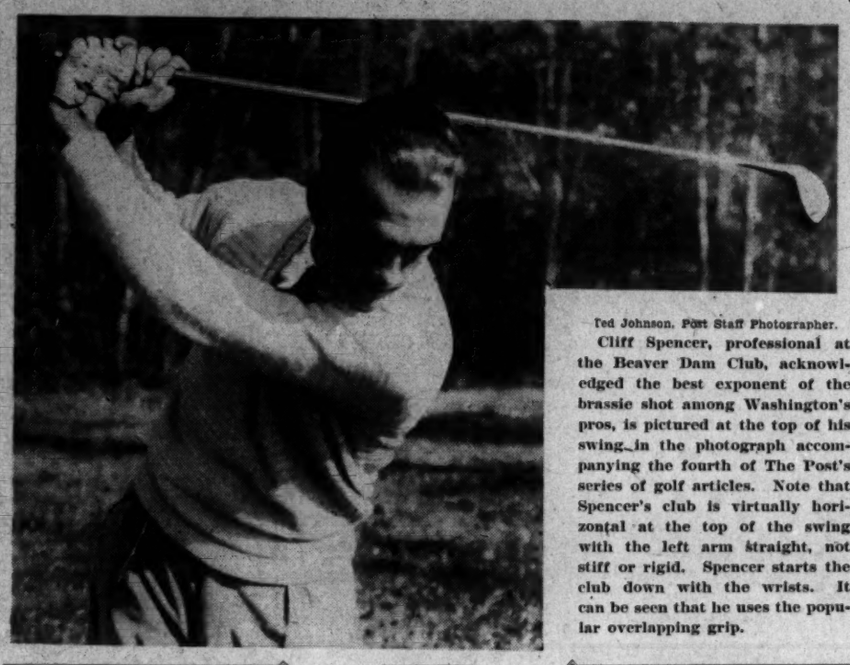
Los Angeles, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Officials of the Rose Bowl Association tonight extended to the University of Southern California an invitation to represent the West again on January 2, in the annual Tournament of Roses football game, and Trojan officials accepted "It was the third time in the last four years that Southern California has been chosen to represent the West in the game. The Trojans appeared at the Rose Bowl in 1930, and 1932 and previously had played in 1923, winning each game.

As acceptance of the invitation was announced, it was observed unofficially by Trojan leaders that Southern California would prefer to play against Michigan, winner of the Big Ten Conference title. Michigan representatives have indicated a desire to come to Pasadena, but a conference rule prohibits post-season games.

If Michigan is unable to accept an invitation, the Trojans probably would ask Colgate, with an unbeaten, untied and unscored upon record, to come West. Pittsburgh, also unbeaten but twice tied, once by Nebraska and again by Ohio State, would be a third choice.

Shot From Gutter of Roof Recalled by Cliff Spencer

Beaver Dam Pro Tells of Saving Strokes With Help of Ladder and Left-Handed Club When Drive Landed on House.



Ted Johnson, Post Staff Photographer.

By CLIFF SPENCER
(Beaver Dam Club Pro),
As told to Dave Herman, Post Staff Golf Writer.

I HAVE always contended that confidence and determination are two factors that will help a golfer in playing a shot that seems impossible.

Back in September of 1931 I played in the Philadelphia Open at the Manufacturers Club. In this tournament I was confronted with the task of making a shot that would have discouraged any world's champion. I was leading the field by two strokes in the afternoon when a terrific rainstorm broke, the committee decided to postpone the tournament until the next day, and all scores reported were washed out.

The next day there was a steady rain, but not hard enough to ruin our game. Going to the tenth hole, 440 yards, a slight dog-leg, and a very tough hole. I sliced my drive. The ball hit on top of a farmhouse three stories high and planted itself in a gutter about 1 foot wide on the slanting roof. The tee was elevated and the ball was discernible from where I drove off, but to attempt to play from that point and hope to get it out safely was another question. However, there was no out-of-bounds. I had decided to forget the first ball and try my luck with a second one.

Well, I played a provisional ball, which made me lie three from the tee. Luck again was against me. The slicing did not subside. My provisional ball bounded into the shrubbery against the same farmhouse, and in an unplayable lie. Instead of returning to the tee to hit a third ball, which would make me five strokes to start, I elected to take a big chance.

Borrows Ladder To Play Shot.

Borrowing a ladder nearby, I climbed to the top of the roof, and my caddy followed me. When I looked at my ball in the gutter, which had a ledge half an inch high, I noted that it was not going to be any easy shot and that there was a chance of missing it completely.

To get it out meant a great job, since I had to exercise utmost care in the swing. Furthermore, I was forced to play left-handed, and the only left-handed club I had was a No. 5. It began to rain harder, and this merely added to my troubles. Also, I had to stand on a slanting roof.

Well, I put my left foot in the gutter, and planted my spikes of the right foot upon the shingles of the slanting roof. My right knee was bent, almost doubled. Also, my left foot was no more than 12 inches in back of the ball.

What a predicament!

I knew that the clubhead had to pass over the left foot in order to come in contact with the ball. I studied the shot carefully before making the swing. It had to be hit hard if I hoped to get any distance, and since I was not accustomed to playing left-handed, I could not hope to get very far. But keeping my eyes fixed on the ball, I unlimbered my club a good half swing, and cut under the ball. The sphere sailed out 100 yards, much to my astonishment, and I finished the hole in par.

GIANTS GIVE RELEASE TO HOYT

Clarence Mitchell Is Cut Adrift After Long Career.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Clarence Mitchell, last of the southpaw spitball pitchers, and Waite Hoyt, the "boy wonder" of fifteen years ago, today were cast adrift by the New York Giants as a part of Manager Bill Terry's rebuilding program.

Given their unconditional release under the ten-year rule, the two veteran moundsmen will be free to negotiate with any club for their services.

Mitchell has pitched for six major league clubs since joining the Detroit Tigers in 1911. He spent this year coaching the Giant pitchers. The 42-year-old hurler was traded to the Giants by the St. Louis Cardinals for Ralph Judd in May, 1930. His all-time major league record shows 123 victories against 133 defeats.

Hoyt Lost Effectiveness.

Hoyt's major league career during the past two years had been one of ups and downs. Following ten years of brilliant pitching for the New York Yankees, during which he won six and lost three world series games, Hoyt was traded to the Tigers in May, 1930. A year later he was released to the Athletics on waivers in time to appear in his seventh world series.

After being given his unconditional release by the Athletics, Hoyt signed a contract with Brooklyn last spring and made unusual efforts to get back into condition. He reduced 30 pounds by dieting but failed to recover his former effectiveness in the box. He won only one game before the Dodgers released him in June. He joined the Giants soon afterward, winning five and losing seven. His complete major league record shows 196 victories and 141 defeats.

NO DECREASE IN FOOTBALL PATRONAGE

G. W. Among Leaders in Percentage of Increase.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (U.P.).—Just as many football fans attended games this year as last, but they didn't pay as much to see them. A majority of colleges slashed their prices, a United Press survey from representative schools in all parts of the country shows.

Huge losses in attendance were shown by many teams this year, but to offset these losses other colleges showed gains almost as large.

With an astounding increase of more than 200 per cent in attendance, George Washington University, once an obscure school in the Washington district, takes its place among the leaders on the credit side of the year's football ledger.

Pitt, Penn and Temple Show Gains.

Gains for the most part were due to winning teams, while losses were attributed to poor showings.

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania and Temple, all winners, have shown marked increases in patronage.

Tulane, undefeated a year ago, showed an increase this year of 44,000, but it played in more home games than in 1931, when it attracted 39,700 spectators.

Colleges in the East were the chief losers in attendance—Fordham, New York University, Yale and Harvard, to mention a few.

On the Pacific Coast, Stanford was the chief loser with a drop of 40,000 from last year's mark of 165,000.

The following table shows attendance at representative college football games in four or five home games for each season:

| College. | 1932 | 1931. | Increase or Decrease. |
|---|---|---|---|
| N.Y. University | 155,000 | 190,000 | —35,000 |

Defense for Army's Aerials Also Part of Tars' Drill.

Slack, Borries, Chung Hoon and Campbell in Back Field.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 29.—Deviating from the program previously mapped out for the final practice drives in preparation for the Army game, Head Coach Rip Miller drove the Navy football players through a fairly brisk scrimmage session this afternoon.

The purpose of the scrimmage was to polish further their own passing game, as well as bolster the defense against Army's passing attack, as it is generally felt that the overhead game will dominate the play of the traditional rivals when they come to grips on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, on Saturday.

All of the back field men, as well as pass-receiving ends who are likely to see service against the Cadets, participated in the workout, and plays were reeled off at a gratifying clip. The full varsity strength was in the line-up at the start, Bud Slack, directing the team at quarter back, with Chung-Hoon and Borries as the halves and Campbell, full back.

Second-Stringers In Hard Drill.

These in turn gave way to the second back-field group, with Larry Becht at quarter; Clark and Walkup, half backs, and Erck and Larson, alternating at full back. Baumberger, Samuels, Sellers and other ball carriers were used.

Even at this late stage the squad received another acquisition in the person of Dave Miller, end, who may or may not be used against Army. He replaced Pray during part of the scrimmage, although Dornin and Camerno hitherto have been the first-call subs. Miller loomed as a good prospect for an end berth at the start of the season, but suffered a leg injury and has done little work except during the last few days. Meanwhile he assisted in coaching the Plebe eleven, but the desire to again get into real action overcame him and he rejoined the squad. Miller is a second classman and hails from Royal Oak, Mich.

Fields, Kilday Return To Army Grid Practices

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The return of two back field aces, Ken Fields and Tom Kilday, to the first-string line-up was the only bright spot in Army's football practice today as the Cadets continued preparations for the Navy game.

Frozen fields, with a biting wind sweeping down the Hudson, prevented Maj. Ralph I. Sasse from going through with a scheduled workout, kicking and passing practice occupying most of the session.

Vidal Kopcsak and Lincoln still were under the care of Capt. W. F. Dewitt and, even if they are physically able to play Saturday, they will be unfamiliar with the offensive plays which "Red" Blaik, back-field coach, has developed for the final game of Army's season.

Only the pass receivers and kickers were called upon for intensive work. Lieut. Bill Wood had Fields, Buckler, Broshous and MacWilliam out for a long punting drill in an effort to improve upon the form shown in that department against Notre Dame. Burlingame, Lawlor, Edwards and Kenerick worked with Fields, receiving passes.

Big Six Basket Ball Ace To Join Staff at G. W.

Lawrence, Kans., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Ted O'Leary, high-scoring star of last season's Big Six Conference champion basket ball team at the University of Kansas, announced tonight acceptance of the position of assistant basket ball coach at George Washington University, Washington D. C.

He plans to leave Kansas City tomorrow night by plane for the East. Since his graduation from Kansas last spring he has been assistant freshman basket ball coach.

Public Links Concessions In City Draw 11 Bidders

BIDS for operation of the public golf courses were opened yesterday for a three-year period, beginning January 1, 1933. It is understood that eleven firms are interested in securing control of the four courses, including development companies from Baltimore, Philadelphia and Richmond.

Chief among the bidders, however, is likely to be Severine G. Leoffler, roly-poly golf promoter of Washington, who took command of the city's municipal links on July 20, 1921, when East Potomac had 9 holes, West Potomac, 3, and Rock Creek, 9. East Potomac now has 36 holes, West Potomac, 9, and Rock Creek, 18. In addition to this, the Park Amusement Association, of which Leoffler is president, has built a 9-hole course for colored near the Lincoln Memorial.

There is now no more Government-owned land available for further expansion of municipal golf.

Leoffler, who first gained prominence in Washington as originator of Leoffler's Liberty Lunch, a lunch box which was popular in the days when war workers blackened the streets during lunch hours, faces his first test of holding his local golf domains since taking office eleven years ago. At no time during that period have the Public Buildings and Parks Association, which is headed by Col. U. S. Grant 3d, placed the concession upon the open market.

Clauses in the new Government economy act have motivated the bidding campaign.

In the event that Leoffler is underbid, the person or firm which secures control of local public golf will be presented with a bill of $50,000 by the Park Amusement Co., it was learned from an authoritative source yesterday, that amount representing the improvements placed on the Government-owned lands upon which the courses are built. Listed among the Clubhouse, and the valuable greens of East Potomac.

The name of the Welfare and Recreation Association, a subsidiary of the Office of Public Buildings and Parks, has been mentioned frequently of late as a possible next lessee of the courses, but with the opening of bids it appears unlikely that the Government will go into the golfing business.

P. G. A. FINDS REVOLT ON HANDS

Harlow Is Organizing Independent Tourney Bureau.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Albert R. Gates, business administrator of the Professional Golfers Association of America, just puffed away on his big cigar today as he heard reports of "rebellion" within the ranks of his organization. The administrator was appointed to gain better working conditions for professionals as well as to promote tournaments.

The "rebellion" consisted of a movement by a score of the leading money players of American golf under Robert Harlow to form an independent tournament bureau for promotion of bigger and better shows in the United States and Canada. Harlow, tournament manager for the P. G. A. until last May, said many golfers were not satisfied with the schedule offered by the P. G. A. and were merely looking for new business.

More Tourneys, the Better, Says Gates.

"Naturally, we believe it is better to have all golf tournaments involving professionals under one jurisdiction to eliminate confusion," Gates said. "That's why we have the P. G. A. Tournament Bureau. But if Harlow and the boys can promote some more tournaments in these times, I'll be tickled. The money players need what they can get.

"This so-called revolt, or rump organization, is largely the work of one man, Bob Harlow, our former tournament manager," he said calmly as he blew circles of smoke. "He was released from that job last May for what we believed to be good and sufficient reasons. Since then, he has been trying to get the job back, writing a letter only recently to a P. G. A. official, suggesting he be reemployed as tournament manager and editor of our official magazine. Failing in his quest, he has lured away many of the best golfers into an independent tournament bureau.

Many Stars Join New Association.

"I don't doubt the loyalty of the playing professionals to our organization. We appreciate their value and know that they realize these are tough times. Prize money of tournaments has fallen from the boom years of $90,000 seasons to around $43,000 this season and that isn't bad at all. Last year, the prize money for the winter program totaled $62,000."

John Revolta Runner-Up With 292

Pace-Setter Scores 76 on Last Round to Shute's 73.

Ed Dudley Is Third; First Prize Money Is $2,500.

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Nov. 29. (U. P.).—Shooting a 73 on his final 18-hole round, Densmore Shute, of Cleveland, Ohio, won the $10,000 Miami Biltmore open golf tournament today with a 72-hole total of 291.

John Revolta, sensational young pro from Menominee, Mich., finished 1 stroke behind the Cleveland pro with 292. Jock Cattell, professional from Jacksonville, Fla., who set a furious pace when the tournament opened Sunday, slipped back and wound up with a total of 305.

Revolta, Dudley Real Threats.

Shute, who has been playing professional golf for four years and has made a rapid rise in that time, had to stave off threats of Revolta and tall, quiet Ed Dudley, from Wilmington, Del.

At the end of the morning 18, Revolta and Dudley were tied for the lead, having 63-hole totals of 216, and Shute was 1 stroke behind.

In the afternoon Shute kept up his consistent golf, while Dudley and Revolta encountered trouble. Shute 3-putted the thirteenth and his second shot on the long fifteenth was in the rough. Otherwise, he hovered around par and came home under wraps to win the $2,500 first money.

Revolta picked up 2 strokes on Shute on the fifteenth, but failed to get a par on the next and was 1 stroke behind Shute when he got in. With a round of 76 to Shute's 73 Dudley, on his last nine, was short with his iron on the thirteenth, chipped 6 feet over the pin and was short on the putt. He 3-putted on 14; on 15 hooked his second into the rough, tried to carry the canal on the third and went into the water and took a 7, 2 over par. He landed third place with a 293 total.

Runyan in Fourth Place With 294.

Paul Runyan, of West Chester, N. Y., holding up the judges' final decision as to third place until darkness fell over the difficult course, was in fourth place with a 294, while Gene Sarazen, unable to score his second Miami Biltmore victory in succession, and Al Espinosa, of Akron, Ohio, were in fifth place with 296 each.

CLEMSON NAMES HEINEMANN.

Clemson College, S. C., Nov. 29 (A. P.).—John Heinemann, unanimous choice for guard on the All-South Carolina Football Team, compiled today by the Associated Press, was elected captain of the 1933 Tiger Team last night. W. C. Dozier, a tackle, was elected alternate captain.

107-Yard Run on Kick-Off Longest 1932 Scoring Play

By PARKE H. DAVIS
(National Football Statistician).
(Written for the Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Honors for the longest scoring run of the waning 1932 football season go to Robert Gibb, Nebraska Wesleyan back, who took a kick-off by Oklahoma City 7 yards behind his own goal line and ran 107 yards for a touchdown.

Gibb's run was the highlight statistically of an interesting season which saw Thomas Cashill, of Nevada, drop-kick a 55-yard field goal against California Agricultural College, Michael Schemick, of Thiel, run back a punt exactly 100 yards for a touchdown against Bethany and Herbert McAnly, of Florida, run 105 yards from scrimmage for a touchdown against Sewanee.

Gibb's 107-yard touchdown dash was only one of many long, scoring runs from kick-off. George Melinkovich, Notre Dame's big full back, ran back a kick-off 98 yards in the "Irish" rout of Northwestern, and Ralph McClure, the Colorado College back, who later was fatally injured, ran back a kick-off 96 yards against Utah for his team's only score of the game. There were no less than 11 scoring run-backs of kick-offs from more than 80 yards.

KINCSEN, OUTSIDER, WINS CLOSING HANDICAP AT BOWIE

16-to-1 Shot First Home By Nose

Mate's Closing Rush Barely Fails to Catch Winner.

Jack High, Blenheim Set Pace in $15,000 Memorial Race.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

LITTLE DANNY MEADE left last night for the sunny Southland and new riding experiences, but he left his mark deeply imprinted on the minds of the 15,000 who were present yesterday at Bowie's little farewell party. It was aboard Kinscen, a 5-year-old mare, which hovers on the border line of the plater class, that Meade added further prestige to his reputation of "Longshot Danny."

It was only fitting that a boy who has brought them home at boxcar figures all fall should have the mount on Kinscen when she was to hand the aristocrats of turfdom still in training a beating. And those looking for a hunch on Kinscen found it in the fact that Meade rode to one of his longest priced victories on Hot Cake at Laurel. Yesterday the keen observer found Kinscen was by Cudgel and Buckwheat.

Kinscen Beats Mate And Robertson.

The majority of betting drawn by the field, in which Kinscen was coupled with Late Date, came through the medium of the light weight on those horses. Late Date was carrying only 96 and Kinscen an even 100. The field paid a $35.20 mutuel.

It was no slouch of a horse that Kinscen beat by a nose and it was no slouch of a rider who was forced to be satisfied with second money. It was the great Mate and the great Alfred Robertson. Two lengths behind Mate came St. Brideaux, a stake winner last week.

Seldom have turf fans witnessed a closing rush to match that of Kinscen, especially in as large a field. The mare was a good tenth entering the stretch and waded through the field as if it was tied to the quarter pole. And it was a mighty busy little Meade doing the engineering. Kinscen, with ears laid back, seemed to have a lot of personal pride in the job she was doing.

There was the usual delay at the post, this time with Reveille Boy the offender. When they broke, Jack High bounded to the front followed by Blenheim and Mate. As the field passed the press box, Meade and Kinscen were next to last. The boy was fixing his reins and getting comfortable. There was no move from Kinscen as the field started up the back stretch. The speedsters of the party were having their innings.

Jack High, Blenheim Pace-Makers.

Jack High and Blenheim were still waging war for the lead. Mate was clinging to his position, while St. Brideaux was laying a snug sixth. It was on the turn for the stretch that the field seemed alive with possible winners. Kinscen, finally let out a few notches, began to lengthen her stride and the pea green and old rose on the back of Meade could be seen swinging up to the first group. At the turn into the stretch, Kinscen was rushing for the leaders and St. Brideaux far on the outside was also moving up rapidly.

Male's backers were beginning to believe the big horse home as Jack High and Blenheim slid back. But the mare showed no desire to stop that rush down the stretch. It carried her through the leaders and to the head of the parade.

Robertson went to work, but the mare's courage was not to be denied. Her nose was in front as they crossed the wire. St. Brideaux's closing effort was futile except for third money.

Alantee was a good thing sent to the post by the Quincy Stable, and Jockey T. Malley certainly made no mistakes with the maiden son of Hourless and Lady Algy. Alantee was hustled along and held the lead. When the field straightened out in the back stretch Lower Ten was second, Crapshooter third.

Atlantee, Made Choice, Easy Winner.

Alantee held the advantage to the stretch and then pulled away to win by five lengths. Judge Judy, well up from the start, cut for the rail and outfooted Standout for the second money. Alantee was backed into favoritism and paid off with a $6.70 mutuel.

Gabbo supplied a surprise and a $58.60 mutuel in the second race. Under the handling of H. L. Fischer, this gelding came out of he leading group to take the race by a length from General Court and Good and Hot. Good and Hot, General Court and Lucky Racket all had the lead at some stage of the race.

Character, star gelded 2-year-old, from the B. B. Stable, defeated, the juveniles that sought the purse in the third race. Leishman had the mount on Character and kept with the first flight to take a half length lead with a quarter to go but Character had to be ridden out to stall off the closing rush of Knights Gal. Marooned, the favorite, was third. The well-played Snaplock was practically left at the post.

Mrs. Hertz's Pairbypair proved entirely capable of carrying the 121 pounds that many in the crowd thought he would falter under. Steffen brought the Noah colt first to the wire, with Merrily On second and Gold Step third. Halcyon failed to get off well and was a beaten favorite. Pairbypair paid the nice mutuel of $12.90.

The field made it twe in a row when Action proved worthy of his name to win the sixth at a $22.30 mutuel. The seventh went to Tuffy G.

Western Ball Players To Get Letters Tonight

Members of the 1932 Western High School football squad will be formally awarded their "W's" tonight at a meeting of the Home and School Association of that school.

Music will be furnished by the Western High School Orchestra; a typical class exercise will be enacted by the department of oral English; the department of physical training will present a group of girl tumblers and a group learning the elementals of basket ball; the department of military training will give an exhibition drill.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: EN ROUTE TO JEFFERSON PARK.

One of the Nation's leading turf writers threw his last 9 cents on the floor of the Bowie press box yesterday as the chart makers were lighting matches to finish their work on the seventh. A dozen other "experts" made a flying dive to scramble for the change.

"Good-by, Bowie!" he shouted, "you certainly have wrecked everybody who has looked at a form sheet these last few days."

Well boy, I hung on to my supper money and my ticket to New Orleans. You can expect a good thing or two just as soon as I get a line on them. In the meanwhile, I'm doing a little long distance selecting. If you must get down, try these. BILL.

FIRST RACE—PLAYBILL seems to have an edge over the field that faces the barrier in the opener. Believe he has BLIGHTER to beat at the sprint route. BOUNDING DEEP can take it all if the top ones make any mistakes.

SECOND RACE—MASTER OGDEN would prefer soft footing, but is dangerous if the course remains fast. THE OKAH and TIMEKEEPER look like the ones to beat.

THIRD RACE—POLAIRE must break from the outside but may overcome that disadvantage to hand the boys a surprise package. SWEEP RUSH is cheap but will be ready to make the top one hustle. GET READY to take care of the show end.

FOURTH RACE—ELKHART will have a lot of speed to match in this mile and 70-yard affair. Likes the distance and will lead HAL RILEY and SKIDMORE at the finish, I do believe.

FIFTH RACE—LASALLE picks up top weight in this, but is the class. Came down from Maryland to get the jump on other Eastern stables. INDICATIVE and MORSUN for the rest.

SIXTH RACE—PORTAM gets in this with light weight and may step to the front at the start and never be headed. HASOLA comes off a winning effort and should be second. BARITONE would be dangerous but is far down the list.

SEVENTH RACE—THE ORLEANIAN is a pretty fair plater over a distance and may appreciate the mile and a quarter in this. STARCH and ALLEGRETTO for the rest.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ALANTEE, $6.70, $4.00, $3.30; JUDGE JUDY, $5.10, $3.70; STANDOUT, $3.90.

ALANTEE saved ground at the first turn, moved into command readily when approaching the final turn opened up a safe lead and had speed in reserve at the end. JUDGE JUDY, unable to stay with the early leaders, was placed to severe punishment and closed determinedly on the inside to outfinish STANDOUT. Latter improved his position when put to a drive, swung to the outside and held on gamely. CRAPSHOOTER strongly handled the entire trip, continued willingly for the final drive. LOWER TEN was hard urged to hold a forward position and he faltered in the final test. XANDRA was outrun. WILD MONEY saved a lot of ground at the first turn and showed a good effort.

SECOND RACE—One and three-sixteenths miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 1:39. Off at 1:41. Winner, Jersey Stable's b. g. (4), by Bonhomme—Peggy Madison. Trained by J. Jones. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GABBO, $58.60, $23.10, $16.40; GENERAL COURT, $8.90, $6.10; GOOD AND HOT, $8.20.

GABBO, kept in the thick of contention and saving ground in the final stages, came through a wide opening at the stretch turn and came out slowly after taking command. GENERAL COURT worked his way up on outside, assumed a brief lead midway of the final turn, but could not resist the winner. GOOD AND HOT, a keen factor and saving ground, came again in the closing furlong. GENERAL LEJEUNE was squeezed back when racing between GOOD AND HOT and GENERAL COURT approaching the home stretch. LUCKY RACKET raced in contention.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; allowances. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates for all but Snaplock. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:15. Off at 2:17½. Winner, B. B. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHARACTER, $9.40, $7.00, $4.20; KNIGHT'S GAL, $9.40, $5.20; MAROONED, $3.20.

CHARACTER, away quickly and racing close to the leaders while on the outside, gained command when straightened into the home stretch and under strong urging outstayed KNIGHT'S GAL. Latter, outrun for the first half mile, swung to the outside of the leaders and was racing resolutely at the end. MAROONED, prominent throughout, came stoutly when placed to punishment in the final drive. SILK FLAG rushed hard while saving ground, held on well. ACAUTAW and STEALING AWAY were badly blocked all during the stretch run when finishing on the outside. NITUMA was racing strongly at the end. ORAL tired. SNAPLOCK was as good as left. He made up a lot of ground.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:52. Off at 2:53. Winner, Mrs. J. D. Hertz's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PAIRBYPAIR, $12.90, $9.50, $6.40; MERRILY ON, $12.70, $8.40; GOLD STEP, $4.30.

PAIRBYPAIR, in close attendance of NOVELIST and improved handling, took command when entering the home stretch and had enough in reserve to withstand MERRILY ON. Latter, securing racing room on the inside from the start, saved a lot of ground and responded courageously. GOLD STEP was taken wide in the final half mile, finished with good energy. HALCYON steadied along early, was unable to threaten the leaders when put to a drive. NOVELIST had keen speed in the first five furlongs. REHOBOTH and ENGLISH KNIGHT were outrun.

FIFTH RACE—One and three-sixteenths miles. Purse, $15,000 added. Bryan and O'Hara Memorial Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:23. Two-dollar mutuels paid—KINCSEN (field), $35.20, $14.20, $8.00; MATE, $5.00, $3.30; ST. BRIDEAUX, $5.30.

KINCSEN, racing in startling improved fashion, trailed far back for the first six furlongs as the leaders raced from on the inside half mile worn by the leaders down rapidly and holding on with rare courage just lasted long enough. MATE, closer up than usual, was forced out entering the home stretch but closed full of run under punishment. ST. BRIDEAUX, taken to the outside when interfering contention, finished with good speed. JACK HIGH, rated under stiff restraint while alternating in setting the pace, weakened during the final drive. TAMBOUR showed a good effort all the way. WHITE CLOVER II could not make up any ground when called upon. PURSUIT was badly shut off by the winner in the first turn and appeared to sulk part of the way. CANRON was used up in the first mile.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:16. Off at 4:24. Winner, N. E. ACTION, taken to the outside for the break, was not hurried until reaching full stride, wore the leaders down when ready and drew out at will. His rider finished with both feet out of the stirrups which broke. THE POINT gained willingly when put to a drive, closed gamely but could not reach the winner. BUTTER BEANS put her way up gradually and finished well. CHATTY saved ground and finished gamely in the final test. FOXIANA and SUN TEATIME were used up setting the early pace. STORM was never a forward factor. CHU CHU broke very slowly.

SEVENTH RACE—One and three-sixteenths miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:55. Off at 4:59. Winner, J. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TUFFY G., $32.70, $11.50, $7.60; BRANDON ROSE, $3.70, $2.70; THE CRANE, $4.20.

TUFFY G. began slowly, moved up with a rush when reaching the back stretch wore the leaders down with good speed and was strongly ridden to stall off BRANDON ROSE. Latter, a keen factor from the start, came strongly in the final drive. THE CRANE went well placed and held on well. PRIZE DAY was rushed and weakened during the stretch run. PRIMEVAL, shuffled back going to the first turn, closed fast when clear. VANDAL was rushed off his feet.

MARYLAND U. TO "SHOOT WORKS"

Full Offensive to Be Thrown at Western Maryland.

REALIZING that there is little to do that will improve the Maryland defense, Coach Curly Byrd has been experimenting this week with a number of new back field plays with a view to "shooting the works" offensively when the Old Liners meet Western Maryland Saturday in Baltimore.

It should be a free scoring game, for rumors are that Coach Dick Harlow has announced his complete satisfaction with the Terror line and also is experimenting with his back field, particularly Reds Shepherd, sophomore, one of the best ball-carrying prospects in the East. Maryland has no back in his class, nor any linemen to compare with Koppe and Sadousky.

"Rubber" Game Between Coaches.

Although Maryland and Western Maryland have been meeting for two generations, the boys seemed to look upon this as the "rubber" game. Since Dick Harlow came to Western Maryland the schools have met four times, each club winning twice. In 1928 Maryland won 13-6. The Old Liners lost by scores of 12-0 and 7-0 in 1929 and 1930 and then last year got a hot hand and ran up a 41-6 victory.

Maryland stands with five wins and five losses at this late stage of its football year, and the fates seem to decree that it shall end up its season a bit on the carmine side of the ledger. Western Maryland has won six out of seven games, and has not seen action since November 11, while Maryland has been active on successive weeks, and meeting the toughest foes of its schedule.

G. U. Quintet Facing 18-Game Schedule

An 18-game schedule, four of whose games are part of the newly formed Intercollegiate Basket Ball Conference, faces the ambitious Georgetown University court team, which begins operations December 10 against Pittsburgh, at Pitt.

The Hoya squad, once again coached by Freddy Mesmer, a basket ball immortal at the Hilltop, will be captained this year by John J. Crowley, of Elmira, N. Y. As usual, all home games will be played at Tech High Gymnasium.

Choice spots on the schedule are Army and St. John's, of Brooklyn, the latter to be played in Washington.

The schedule:

December 10, University of Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh; 16, Duke University at Washington.

January 5, Canisius College at Buffalo; 6, Colgate University at Hamilton; 7, New York University at New York; 13, Knights of Columbus at Brooklyn; 14, U. S. Military Academy at West Point; 20, St. John's College (Brooklyn) at Washington; 21, Temple University at Philadelphia.

February 1, Temple University at Washington; 4, Loyola College at Baltimore; 6, West Virginia University at Morgantown; 8, Mount St. Mary's College at Washington; 17, West Virginia University at Morgantown; 18, Carnegie at Pittsburgh; 24, University of Pittsburgh at Washington.

March 7, University of Baltimore at Washington; 11, Carnegie Tech at Washington.

Stocks Continue Declines After Failure of Early Rally

Bullish Mining Issues Hold Spotlight in Sale of 526,775 Shares.

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Security markets drifted along smoothly today, but foreign exchanges, particularly those of leading nations whose debt installments fall due December 15, were sharply agitated.

Stocks rallied for a while in the morning, but lost spirit later and closed with a mixture of minor gains and losses.

Although sterling lacked support, Wall street noted especially the break in French francs. The latter currency had been holding well, but today stumbled into a sinking spell that sent it to a new low for the year, the minimum quotation being only a short distance from the point at which gold imports by the United States would be profitable. The Belga dipped under its gold level.

This strength of dollars was the most tangible development of the day in the foreign debt situation, although it was reported in London that Britain was considering a proposal for part payment of her forthcoming bill. The exact status of the negotiations remained, during market hours, the property of Prime Minister MacDonald and his cabinet. Meanwhile Wall street still marked time.

Bullish activity in mining stocks provided most of the color in the share market. This rise, occurring toward the close, covered the retreat of other groups, some members of which had been up a point around noon. Enthusiasm for a rally, however, had been noticeably lacking and the eventual sag was quite in keeping with recent precedent. Transactions totaled only 526,775 shares.

Fractional net losses ruled for U. S. Steel, General Electric, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Harvester, Case, Westinghouse and Woolworth. Tobaccos lurched downward toward the close, American Tobacco "B" losing around 2 points. International Business Machines softened considerably when the directors voted against continuing the 5 per cent payment in stock declared last year, even though the regular cash disbursement was ordered and an interim earnings statement showed the dividend well covered. Loew's, which also omitted the stock bonus, was steady. Seaboard Oil bubbled up hearly a point. American Telephone closed unchanged. Coppers were dull coincident with the first session of the international conference.

THE METAL MARKETS.

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—COPPER—Quiet; electrolytic, spot and future, 5⅛@5⅜.

TIN—Weak; spot and nearby, 22.15; future, 22.20.

IRON—Quiet; unchanged.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

| | Tue. | Mon. |
|---|---|---|
| Advances | 120 | 113 |
| Declines | 232 | 232 |
| Unchanged | 178 | 153 |
| Total issues traded | 530 | 498 |

Stocks.

An early rally was defeated and the list declined two-tenths of a point. Foreign exchange depression and uncertainties over debt problems caused the street to mark time. Sales volume was still light, totaling only 526,775 shares. Fractional losses prevailed. The exception was in mining shares, in which bullish activity and advances marked trading.

Bonds.

Backing and filling distinguished dealing in bonds. The average loss was only one-tenth of a point. Sales picked up to $7,511,000. Narrow fluctuations were the rule. United States issues remained firm and active. British 5½s provided the principal turnover in the foreign group, and rallied to 102, a gain of ¼ point. Rails were quiet.

Curb.

Quiet trading persisted, but leading curb stocks recorded fractional net advances. The turnover mounted to 140,000 shares, compared with 120,000 Monday. Utilities were steady. Oils attracted a better demand. Mining shares improved in price and activity, aided by the copper conference. Aluminum and Atlantic & Pacific both gained a point. Swift issues declined.

Wheat.

Low foreign exchange rates had a momentary unsettling effect on wheat prices, but the market rallied and gained strength. The closing was ⅜ off to ⅜ up. Domestic demand improved. Reports from Kansas, revealing undergrowth in fields, contributed to strength. Corn and oats refused to follow wheat and closed down. Provisions were unchanged to 10 cents lower. December wheat sold at 41 to 41⅞ cents.

Cotton.

Trade buying steadied cotton and prices advanced 11 to 18 points. March closed at 5.95. Some selling was attributed to England and the continent, but houses with foreign connections seemed to have buying as well as selling orders. Liverpool reported scattered continental and Egyptian buying. The estimate on the Chinese crop was reduced to 2,000,000 bales.

Dried Fruits Unchanged.

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Dried fruits steady, unchanged.

BOND MARKET SAGS IN LISTLESS TRADING

Government Issues Holding Firm; Sales Rise to $7,511,000.

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The bond market backed and filled over a narrow range today and finished a rather indifferent session with a relatively steady tone.

The United States Government section was fairly firm and active throughout, but net changes generally were fractional and unimportant, with the exception of a few specialties and some foreign obligations, pressure and support were about evenly divided.

Sales totaled $7,511,000, par value, while the average for 60 domestic corporate bonds eased one-tenth of a point.

The market was able to withstand another sharp break in the British pound sterling to a new record low rate, further heated arguments regarding the foreign war debt situation and estimates that freight car loadings for the past week, with the Thanksgiving holiday included, would show a decline.

In the foreign department British 5½s provided the principal turnover with an early weakness and subsequent rally to 102, a net gain of ¼ of a point. While some issues of Poland, Italy, Japan, Austria and Germany were firm, a heavy tone was displayed by bonds of Argentina, Australia, Canada, Denmark and France.

Railway lines were generally quiet. Great Northern 7s rallied, but other issues of this road were off fractions to more than 4 points. Along with Northern Pacific, Great Northern is a heavy holder of Burlington common stock. There was some discussion regarding the Burlington's regular dividend which the company's directors will consider at their meeting tomorrow. Issues of Southern Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Southern and Canadian Pacific were heavy. Union Pacific refunding 4s dropped 1½ points.

American Telephones held around their year's high marks, and loans of Detroit Edison, Armour & Co., Lehigh Valley Coal, Portland General Electric, Postal Telegraph, Studebaker and Youngstown Sheet & Tube advanced. Shell Union and Sinclair Oil bonds were up a point or more. Loans of Otis Steel were off 2, Union Drug 2, Vanadium 1 and Warner Bros. 1¼ points.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Trading on the stock exchange was more cheerful on the belief that the decline in gilt-edged securities had been overdone. This induced covering and a hardening of prices which synchronized with a slight recovery in sterling from its new low. Transatlantic issues, gold mining shares and German bonds were in good demand, but oil shares were overshadowed by the Anglo-Persian development. The closing was steadier.

Paris—Prices remained hesitant on the bourse in the absence of encouraging news on the international situation. Fluctuations kept within a narrow limit and the closing was resistant.

Berlin—Prices were generally weaker owing to internal political uncertainty and the closing was unsettled.

By THOMAS EWING DABNEY,
Financial Editor New Orleans States.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 29.—"Make the Teagle committee's share-the-work principles permanent in American industry; put the enforcement of the United States Government behind it."

That is the proposal of S. Odenheimer, New Orleans manufacturer, for permanent unemployment relief. It is the only solution of a situation that is threatening American civilization, he says.

He proposes that the Federal Government be given the power, by Constitutional amendment, to make the work-week long or short, in order to balance production with consumption and provide work for everybody.

If the plan were put into effect now, he says, employers would be justified in immediately increasing wages 10 per cent.

Mr. Odenheimer is not a theorist, not a dreamer, but a hard-headed business man. He is president of the Lane Cotton Mills in New Orleans, capitalized at two and a quarter million dollars and spinning 50,000 bales of cotton a year. Since 1885, he has developed an insignificant spinning plant into one of the most successful operations in the country. Within the last few weeks, he has completed an addition that doubles his output, and he is working full-time, with orders far ahead.

He belongs to a class that has always been fiercely resentful of the Government's interfering in business, but he says there is no way out of the economic complications of the world, except through governmental regulation of the work-week. He has submitted his plan to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; to President Hoover; to President-elect Roosevelt; to the Secretary of Commerce; to the Secretary of Labor; and to the senators and congressmen of the United States.

Unemployment problems are going to be bitter even after the depression, he says, because of the increased use of labor-saving machinery, to which added impetus has been given in recent months as manufacturers have sought to reduce producing costs. Hence, relief must look to the future as well as to the present.

The Odenheimer plan, in brief, is as follows: Passage of an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, empowering Congress to legislate on hours of labor through the establishment of an Hours of Labor Commission. Members of the commission would be appointed by the President.

The law would make it mandatory, one week after the commission is appointed, that it issue a proclamation that the hours of labor of all industries, workshops, stores &c. should not exceed a certain number of hours a week. Twenty-five hours is suggested as a start to provide employment for every one at once.

Enforcement of the law would be vested in the President. Violation would be punished by imprisonment of the employer of not more than two days and a fine of not more than $500 for the first offense; for the second, 30 days' imprisonment and a fine not to exceed $10,000.

CURB RECORDS GAINS AS TONE IMPROVES

Leading Issues Stage Rise in Quiet Trading; Sales, 140,000 Shares.

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The curb market continued quiet today, but a better tone was evident and a majority of leading stocks recording fractional net advances. Transfers totaled 140,000 shares against 120,000 shares yesterday.

The utilities, which had been under light but fairly steady pressure for the past few sessions, offered better resistance. American Gas & Electric was a soft spot, declining more than a point further in a fairly active turnover. Electric Bond & Share dipped a scant fraction, but American Superpower, Cities Service and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore closed unchanged, while Niagara Hudson Power and United Light & Power "A" gained substantial fractions.

Although the day's oil news was somewhat mixed in tenor, the East Texas area lowering its allowable figure for crude production, while gasoline prices in the Pacific Northwest showed some weakening, oil shares were in somewhat better demand. Humble declined a small fraction, but Gulf was steady and Standard of Indiana and Standard of Kentucky made small gains. The smaller independents were also a shade higher.

The international copper conference created some fresh interest in Newmont Mining shares, because of that company's ownership of interests in American and African copper-producing companies. The stock was unchanged at the close.

Aluminum and Great Atlantic & Pacific both gained a point. Ford issues were steady. A. O. Smith was up a fraction. The Swift issues receded slightly.

GOLD MOVEMENT.

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Gold stocks of the United States gained $5,902,900 today. Imports totaled $2,323,300, of which $1,321,800 came from Holland and $1,001,500 from Canada. Releases from earmarked stocks amounted to $3,279,600.

Sheep Men May Grow Sweeter Lamb Chops

Chicago, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Lamb chops promise to be sweeter than usual this season.

A number of growers of lambs, with flocks numbering as high as 12,000 head each, have rented sugar beet lands, and it is announced today, will move into western Nebraska, where cheap sugar beet pulp in large quantities is available.

The quantity of feeder lambs in sight is lower than a year ago, and finished stock is bringing prices that offer a profit to feeders.

YEAR-END STOCK TAX TO OFFER NO THREAT

Wall Street Expects Prices to Weather Selling on Income Accounts.

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Leading Wall street brokers appear to agree that year-end tax selling, which in every year from 1929 to the present has fallen on a weak market, and in 1930 and 1931 drove it to new lows, offers no serious market threat this year.

As a result of a change in Federal income tax laws there is less inducement than before for investors and speculators to "take their losses." Under the 1932 revenue, a man can deduct as a capital loss an amount equal only to some capital gain that he experienced during the year.

In effect, so tax experts say, a man with a $10,000 loss on one stock transaction and a $5,000 gain on another transaction, can deduct only half of his loss—or an amount equal to his capital gain. In order to do this, he must sell his shares in which he has the $5,000 profit and then erase that profit through realizing an equivalent $5,000 loss through sale of those securities which have gone against his fortunes.

Under the law, the investor may carry over into the following year a portion of his undeductible capital loss, but it can be utilized only in the event that he later makes a capital gain.

In view of this fact, Wall street looks for little tax selling this year. In previous year-ends of the bear market there had been considerable.

Cotton Growers Agree To Hold Crop for Rise

St. Matthews, S. C., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—J. Skottowe Wannamaker, president of the American Cotton Association, announced here today that a questionnaire sent out by his organization to interested persons in 880 cotton-growing counties of the Nation asking that cotton be held off the market after December 1 until it reaches 10 cents a pound and that none be planted in 1933 has been "answered affirmatively."

Light Store Earnings Predicted.

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Dow, Jones & Co. says that New York department stores as a group probably will show the poorest earnings reports this year in their history.

WHEAT VALUES FIRM IN IRREGULAR SALES

Prices Close 3-8 Off to 3-8 Up on Exchange News; Other Grains Decline.

Chicago, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Lowest rates in history for British exchange and acute weakness of French francs had only a momentary unsettling influence on wheat values today.

The moment, however, saw wheat dip to within one-eighth of a cent of the bottommost price ever reached on any organized grain exchange, and pulled all deliveries of corn down to a new low-priced record for the season. Then the grain markets promptly rallied. Domestic demand for wheat was excellent, and the world's wheat visible supply showed 7,415,000 bushels decrease.

Extreme fluctuations in wheat prices today amounted to only five-eighths of a cent a bushel, an unusually narrow limit, indicating apparently that war-debt complications had lost force as a grain market factor, at least for the time being.

Wheat closed irregular, ⅜ off to ⅜ up, compared with yesterday's finish; corn, ⅜ to 1 down; oats at ⅜ to ⅝ decline, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents lower.

Aid to Wheat's Strength.

Contributing decidedly to the relative strength displayed by the wheat market was an official report from Kansas showing the wheat fields of the western third of the State had a growth stage of but 36 per cent, against 52 per cent at this time last year.

There were also trade predictions current that December unofficial estimates for the United States as a whole would indicate reduced winter wheat acreage and the lowest winter wheat condition on record. Curtailment of 1932 spring wheat estimates of production were likewise suggested. Most of the day's business in wheat consisted of transactions to readjust December accounts.

Operations just about balanced as between buyers and sellers. A slight widening of the spread between December and May resulted, with July showing strength as compared with nearby deliveries. Increasingly bullish crop reports from the Southwest were in the main responsible for the action of July.

Corn and oats showed less rallying power than wheat did. Rural offerings of corn were of larger volume than of late, with fully 50 per cent new grain.

Provisions responded to hog quotations about the lowest level of the season.

Wool Prices Firm.

London Nov. 29 (A.P.).—There were 11,127 bales of wool offered at the auction today, of which 9,327 were sold. The excellent selection offered met an animated demand at firm prices for all grades except superior sorts, which were rather dearer.

Foreign News in Brief

Nanking, China, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Dispatches from Kweiyang, capital of Kweichow Province, today said the provincial government was fighting for its existence against an army of irregulars seeking to set up an independent administration. The governor was reported to have fled before an attack on the capital.

Nairobi, Kenya, Africa, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The prosecution, in the trial of Charles William Ross for the murder of Winifred Stevenson, presented an alleged voluntary confession today in which the defendant was quoted as admitting that he killed this girl and another "for nothing." The bodies of Miss Stevenson and Miss Margaret Kepple were found last month, shot to death, near the extinct Menacai volcano.

Asuncion, Paraguay, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The war office announced today that the northern Paraguayan army had captured the Bolivian Fort Florida in the Gran Cracao without resistance.

Copenhagen, Denmark, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Leon Trotzky, the exiled Russian Bolshevik, who came here from Turkey to lecture on the Russian revolution, is trying to obtain an extension of his visa so that Mme. Trotzky may remain here for medical attention. The newspapers are hostile, but the government has not indicated its attitude.

Paris, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Premier Herriot and Ambassador Dovgalevsky, of Soviet Russia, today signed the new Franco-Russian pact of nonagression and conciliation. This is the first such treaty which Russia has completed with one of the great powers.

Paris, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The International Oil Conference, which adjourned last July, resumed its sessions today, seeking to complete an agreement on production and marketing, especially as affecting the Roumanian companies. This meeting probably will last several days.

Mexico City, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The cold wave which has pushed the mercury on the high Mexican plateau to extreme low levels this week, still sent its winds through the capital today. During the night the thermometer stood at 19 degrees above zero. Since the capital has few heated homes or offices, the residents sat about their offices or residences in overcoats.

Santiago, Chile, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—A number of persons were injured and there was considerable damage early today when an earthquake struck the province of Coquimbo. The town of Illapel apparently was in the center of the disturbance. The shock was felt here in the capital and in the mountain villages, but there was no report of serious damage at these points.

Brussels, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Sunday's general election left the strength of the Catholic Liberal coalition practically undisturbed in the Chamber of Deputies. The coalition still has 103 votes against 84 for the opposition. The Liberals, however, divided on the question of remaining in the coalition, and the resignation of Count Charles de Brouqueville's cabinet was predicted. The coalition government was formed last month.

Havana, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Col. Carlos Mendieta and Col. Mendez Penate, two of the oppostion leaders who were imprisoned for participation in the revolution of August, 1931, were released today.

Sienna, Italy, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Agide Jacchia, director of the Boston Conservatory of Music, died at a hospital today. He was 57.

AUCTION SALES

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1932—
THOMAS J. OWEN & SON, Auctioneers,
1431 Eye Street N. W.
Washington, D. C.

Trustee's Sale of the Valuable Nine Story and Basement Brick and Limestone Building, Known as the Smith Building, Located at 815-817 Fifteenth Street Northwest, Suitable for Banking and Office Purposes.

Because of default in the terms and conditions of and by virtue of a certain deed of trust executed by The F. H. Smith Building, Inc., a Delaware Corporation (formerly The F. H. Smith Building Corporation), dated April 14, 1927, recorded among the land records of the District of Columbia in Liber 6073 at folio 27 et seq., and at the request of over twenty-five per centum of the holders of the bonds secured thereby, the undersigned substituted trustees, by appointment of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in Equity Cause No. 52494, will offer for sale at public auction, in front of the premises on WEDNESDAY, THE THIRTIETH DAY OF NOVEMBER, A. D. 1932, AT FOUR O'CLOCK P. M., the following described land and premises, situate in the District of Columbia:

Lot 62 in The F. H. Smith Building Corporation's combination in Square 220, as per plat recorded in Liber No. 66 folio 84 of the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District of Columbia. Also, part of Lot 78 in S. P. Brown's subdivision of lots in said square, as per plat recorded in Liber R. W., folio 136 of the aforesaid surveyor's office records; said part of lot being described as follows: Beginning for the same on the north side of a 20-foot wide alley, 20 feet west of the southeast corner of said lot and running thence north 39.23 feet, thence west 5 feet to a 10-foot wide alley, thence south, along said last mentioned alley 34.33 feet to an angle therein, thence southeasterly 7.07 feet to the place of beginning; together with the improvements, consisting of "The Smith Building," and all furnishings, fittings and fixtures which the said substituted trustee under said deed of trust is authorized to sell and convey.

TERMS OF SALE: One-third of the purchase price to be paid in cash on or before the 31st day of December, 1932, balance in two equal installments, payable on or before one and two years from date of sale, respectively, with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from day of sale, said interest payable semiannually, and to be secured by first deed of trust on the property sold; or all cash at the option of the purchaser. The said trustee will receive no bid from any one offering to bid who shall not at or before the hour of sale, or any adjournment thereof, deposit with said trustee, as a pledge that such bidder will make good his bid in case of its acceptance, a deposit of $15,000, either in cash or certified check on a local bank or trust company, made or indorsed payable to the undersigned trustee, or in lieu thereof bonds of the par value of $30,000, in form transferable by delivery, secured by said deed of trust, said bonds to have all unpaid coupons attached thereto. The deposit of any unsuccessful bidder will be returned to him immediately after the sale. In case any successful bidder shall fail to complete his purchase by December 31, 1932, in accordance with the said terms of sale, said deposit may be forfeited at the option of the said trustee. Said trustee reserves the right to reject any and all bids and withdraw the property from sale. Adjustments with respect to taxes, assessments, insurance, rentals, income from operation of property, interest and all other adjustments shall be made as of the date of sale. The trustee, however, will continue to manage and operate said property and collect the income therefrom from date of sale to date of transfer upon existing terms as set forth in said deed of trust. After settlement of sale said trustee will not be responsible for any bills or expenses incurred in the management or operation of said property. All conveyancing, recording, examination of title, and notarial fees at the cost of the purchaser. Terms of sale to be complied with by the 31st day of December, 1932, otherwise the trustee reserves the right to resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser, upon the foregoing terms, after advertisement of such resale to be published three times per week for two successive weeks in two newspapers published in Washington, D. C.

(Seal.) AMERICAN SECURITY AND TRUST COMPANY.

By CORCORAN THOM, President. Substituted trustee under said deed of trust of The F. H. Smith Building, Inc., appointed in Equity Cause No. 52494, Supreme Court, District of Columbia.

THE ONCE OVER

—H. I. PHILLIPS—

CUBA LEADS THE WAY.

Havana, Cuba.—Drug stores must confine themselves to the sale of pharmaceutical supplies. Notions, foods, books, toys and general merchandise must not be handled, says an order from the Cuban health department.—News item.

* * * *

LEND an ear to news from Cuba!
Through the cyclone and the storm
Comes an order and an edict
To which common sense conforms;
It's announced that Cuban drug stores
Must be drug stores first and last,
And not merchandising depots
With assorted products vast.

Though beset by many troubles
And with plenty on its mind,
Cuba finds the drug store problem
Of a very pressing kind;
Uncle Sam was long its model,
But Havana calls a stop
When the little corner drug store
Gets to be a junkman's shop.

It believes that when a druggist
Opens up a druggist's store
He should deal in druggist products
And in very little more;
It concludes apothecaries
Are a very special group
And should handle pills and tonics,
Never golf balls, dolls and soup.

It announces the conviction
Drug stores ought to deal in drugs,
Never omelettes and pastries,
Novels, clocks and Turkish rugs;
Pharmaceutical supplies are
What a pharmacist should sell—
Never coffee cakes, umbrellas,
Chowder, etchings, jam and jell.

When a man runs to a drug store,
To the Cuban point of view,
He should never have to linger
While the druggists cook a stew;
He should get his pills directly
And departure quickly take Without any chance of getting
Sugar crullers by mistake.

For a drug store is a drug store
To the Cuban civic eye,
And a clerk should not be bothered
By the care of cakes and pie;
Pills are pills and capsules capsules—
To this view Havana clings—
And a druggist serves us better
When he's not a merchant king!

INQUEST SET TODAY IN JANITOR'S DEATH IN APARTMENT FIRE

Foul Play Feared After Body Is Found in Ruins of Burned Building.

The theory that William M. Scott, 30-year-old colored janitor, whose body was found in the ruins of the burned Alzarado Apartments, might have met with foul play, has prompted authorities to call an inquest today at the District Morgue.

His body, which had been the object of a search since early Sunday when the building at 70 Rhode Island avenue northwest burned and rendered 40 families homeless, was found by firemen yesterday stuffed into a dumb waiter shaft in the cellar.

Autopsy Performed.

How and why the man got into the shaft remained a mystery. The only way he could have got in was through an aperture in the shaft which measured 3 by 3 feet, and which was about 3 feet above the cellar floor. There were similar openings on the four other floors.

The legs, head and chest of the body were badly burned, according to Assistant Coroner Christopher J. Murphy, who performed an autopsy. However, there were no indications of any foul play. Examinations of the stomach will be made to determine whether he had been drinking.

Companions Sought.

Homicide squad detectives were attempting to learn last night the identity of the men with whom Scott had been seen an hour before the blaze broke out.

The only explanation that police could offer for his presence in the shaft is that, having been trapped in the cellar by the blaze and his escape through a door prevented, he sought refuge in the shaft, which was protected by metal covering. In order to remove the body, the firemen had to cut through the shaft.

Worker Badly Injured In Plunge of 26 Feet

Lewis Patriarca, 34, of 1312 H street northwest, employed in the ground construction work of the new Interstate Commerce Building, Fourteenth street and Constitution avenue northwest, fell into a 25-foot excavation and suffered serious injuries while working yesterday.

Removed to Emergency Hospital, he was treated for possible fracture of the skull, right arm and left shoulder.

Book Review Is Slated At Mt. Pleasant Library

A book review by Mrs. Helen Taylor Steinbarger will be given at the Mount Pleasant Branch of the Public Library, Sixteenth and Lamont streets, tomorrow at 8 p. m.

Among the books which Mrs. Steinbarger will review are Mary Austin's autobiographical "Earth Horizon" and Frederick Philip Stieff's "Eat, Drink, and Be Merry in Maryland." Mrs. Steinbarger is readers' adviser at the branch.

Hit-Run Car Overturns Another Auto on Driver

A hit-and-run driver sideswiped a car operated by Donald Hatch, 19, of 308 E street northwest, yesterday afternoon at Seventh and B streets southwest, overturning the vehicle on Hatch and leaving the scene.

The injured man, extricated from beneath his car by bystanders, was taken to Providence Hospital and treated for a strained back and a fractured shoulder. A lookout was sent for the striking vehicle.

Grocery Robbed Twice in Month

Man Believed Same One in Both Cases Flees in Cab With $20.

Using identical methods, a colored robber held up Virgil Atwood, manager of a Sanitary Grocery Store, at 1211 Fourth street northeast, yesterday afternoon, for the second time this month. According to Atwood the intruder was the same in both robberies. Yesterday the robber escaped with $20. Earlier in the month the loot totaled $50.

Police were told that the robber arrived about 2 o'clock in a taxicab. While the cab waited, the robber entered the store. Finding the manager alone, he flashed a gun, ordering him to hand over the receipts of the cash register. When the manager complied, the man then left the store and departed in the taxicab.

Officials of the company said the daily collection of receipts had been made at the store shortly before the robber appeared.

Loon Caught

Rare Bird Is Captured in Reflecting Pool; Is Given to Zoo.

A loon, member of a family of water fowl seldom seen in this section of the country, was rescued from the Lincoln Memorial reflecting pool Monday afternoon.

The bird was discovered in the partly frozen pool and was captured with a net by Irvin N. Hoffman, naturalist, parks division. It was presented to the National Zoological Gardens and will be kept there in the new large avary. There are no other specimens of this species in the zoo at the present time.

The common loon is a northern bird, usually living at distances up to 50 miles offshore, and seldom, if ever, comes to shore. This fact adds to the unusual circumstances surrounding its appearance here.

The bird is young, measuring about 3 feet in length, and is in good health, according to Zoo officials. The loon requires long stretches of water to "take off" in flight and was thwarted in its attempt by the frozen sections of the pool.

LABORER IS CRUSHED TO DEATH BY TRAIN

Witnesses Say Victim Was Suicide; Inquest Is Set for Today.

An elderly Italian stone-mason was crushed beneath the wheels of the Capitol Limited, bound out of Washington for Chicago, shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon about a half mile south of University Station and near Ninth and Evarts streets northeast.

Rushed to Casualty Hospital by the fire rescue squad, the man, Libero Naselli, 59, died about an hour later. Physicians said both legs had been severed at the hip. Police established the man's identity by papers in his pocket. He lived at 2105 Fourth street northeast with a married sister.

Several members of the crew of a train being switched in the yards and near the point where the B. & O. flier struck the man, said they were sure they saw him take off his coat and deliberately lie down on the tracks. Their shouts as they ran toward him failed to dissuade Naselli from his action, police were told.

A Negro watchman, Fred Estridge, said he had seen the man a few minutes before sitting down and writing. Several notes in Italian were found by police. Coroner Joseph D. Rogers ordered an inquest in the death for 11 o'clock this morning and homicide squad detectives were making a further investigation.

Window Cleaner Hurt In Three-Story Plunge

Clarence Jackson, 16, colored, suffered a posible fracture of the pelvis and internal injuries yesterday afternoon when he fell from a third story window he was cleaning at 1862 Mintwood place northwest. He was given first aid treatment at Emergency Hospital and later removed to Gallinger Hospital.

Witnesses said the boy lost his footing and fell about 30 feet to the ground.

Safe Robbers Get $106.

Fred Stroud, manager of the Western Auto Supply Co., 911 H street northeast, reported to police yesterday that a small brown paper bundle containing $106 in bills, was stolen from a safe on the second floor of the premises.

SEVERAL ARRESTED IN CAB STAND 'WAR'

Four Hack Inspectors Are Detailed to Quiz Disorder of Rivals.

Hack stand areas in front of downtown hotels which Sunday were taken from special concession and opened to all have become a "no man's land."

Taxicab drivers yesterday fought for the spaces. Operators of rival companies banged fenders with each other. The disorder caused police to make more than a dozen arrests.

Hack Inspectors H. F. Skinner, W. H. Hiason, D. McCutcheon and J. L. Mavars were detailed until late last night in quelling the "war" which began Sunday.

Police said drivers of the same company would park their cars in such a manner that room for another cab of a different company would not be apparent on the stand. But, however, when a driver of their own "side" appeared he would be allowed to park.

Although many cabs were scarred and battered, no accident reports were made. The new regulation set aside 192 stands for taxis and nullified concessions made by hotels to certain companies.

Chamber Unit Prepares Rail Referendum Report

A report on a referendum of the United States Chamber of Commerce, dealing with the railway situation, was prepared by a special committee of the local chamber yesterday.

The report will be presented to the board of directors of the chamber at its next meeting on December 6. Members of the committee, appointed by President Thomas P. Littlepage, are A. Julian Brylawski, chairman; D. L. Moorman, Alan B. Smith, M. T. Hill, F. L. Marshall, jr., John H. Hanna and Mr. Littlepage, ex officio.

Poison Dose Is Fatal To Wife of Policeman

Swallowing a quantity of poison, Mrs. Esther Maud Allen, 42, 1525 Trinidad avenue northeast, was pronounced dead on arrival last night at Casualty Hospital.

Her husband, Private Oscar Allen, of the Fourth Precinct, who took her to the hospital, could assign no reason for her act.

25 NEW RECREATION CENTERS PROPOSED BY PLANNING GROUP

Sweeping Clean-up in Housing Status Also Sought in Annual Report.

The proposed establishment of 25 community recreation centers in the District ranging in size from 10 to 20 acres is revealed in the annual report of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission released yesterday.

Under the plan of the commission the recreation centers serving all-age groups would be spaced at intervals of approximately 2 miles.

The commission in reporting on the local housing and zoning situation says:

"There are in Washington today more than 250 inhabited alleys in which there are approximately 2,400 dwellings containing a population estimated at from 11,000 to 13,000 persons.

Revolving Fund Urged.

"The commission believes that a revolving fund to be administered by the United States Housing Corporation would make possible the elimination of alley dwellings in Washington within ten years with the conversion of the property to more appropriate or more economic uses."

In discussing the park system of the District the commission says in its report:

"The park program upon which the city is now embarked has been forced upon it by the lack of any orderly and economical policy of park acquisitions during the past generation and by the new needs of the present generation.

Declared Falling Short.

"The program falls short of overcoming the neglect of the past by the commission of desirable tracts in localities where the present cost of acquisition, if not prohibitive, would at least be very high and where postponement to a still later generation will not vastly increase the relative cost, as would be the case with nearly all the projects here included."

The commission urges action of several bodies on 23 different matters in drawing up its conclusions. It requests the passage of a number of bills by Congress and further action by the Commissioners of the District, the National Commission of Fine Arts, the Attorney General and the Zoning Commission.

Recommended for Passage.

The commission recommends the passage of bills affecting District residents which deal with:

"Permitting the closing of streets which have not yet been constructed, although dedicated, when made useless or unnecessary by changes in the highway plan or purchase of lands for park, school or other public purposes;

"Elimination of offsets to provide a through street connecting with the new Michigan avenue as part of a crosstown major thoroughfare;

"An amendment to the terminal act to provide two highway crossings at an early date in place of three at an undetermined date;

"To clarify language and provide for immediate acquisition of key properties on the George Washington Memorial Parkway;

"Sale or exchange of fractional parcels of real estate;

Gasoline Tax Provision.

"Provision in connection with increase in the gasoline tax for authority to use such funds for construction of park roads by amendment;

"Settlement of jurisdiction over lands along the Virginia shore by amendment safeguarding the interest of the United States;

"The widening of Thirteenth street with suitable amendment concerning assessments;

"Use of corner of Fort Myer Reservation for Lee boulevard;

"Merger of street railways and provision of a suitable airport."

The commission requests the Attorney General to continue proceedings to determine the District of Columbia-Virginia boundary line and the adjustment of title of certain lands along Anacostia River at Buzzards Point.

The Zoning Commission is asked to restrict the height of buildings to a height no greater than the width of the street.

In addition the Commissioners and the Fine Arts Commission are requested to take action on a number of other less important items.

Water Front Policy.

As a basis for a sound water front policy, the commission has suggested that all water front on the Potomac and Anacostia Rivers within the District, should be secured and held in public ownership and a single administrative agency for control of the commercial water front should be created.

In speaking of street widths the commission says in its report:

"The paving of streets within the District has until recently had little or no relation to the development of a major thoroughfare system. A more consistent policy is now being worked out in cooperation with District officials.

The remainder of the report reviews the commission's action on various other matters during the past fiscal year, including the purchase of Analostan Island by the Roosevelt Memorial Association, the acquisition of the home of Francis Scott Key, and routine work.

Two D. C. Marines Get Medals From Nicaragua

The Medal of Merit of Nicaragua has been awarded to two Washingtonians, who have served in that country with the Marines, according to an announcement at the Navy Department.

Chief Pharmacist's Mates Boyce Oren Salley, of 3033 Sixteenth street, and John Quincy Williams, of 437 Twelfth street southeast, were the local men honored. The former is on duty at the Parris Island base of the Marines and the latter is stationed at Hampton Roads, Va.

Fire Damages School Slightly.

Fire of unknown origin broke out late yesterday in the book room of Wilson Normal School, Eleventh and Harvard streets northwest. It was discovered by the janitor, but had been practically extinguished by the time the fire fighters arrived. The damage was slight.

Ask Rubber-Tired Trolleys

Five-Cent Fare and "Universal" Transfers Also Suggested by Southeast Citizens; Declare New Program Would Mean Big Profits.

Rubber tires for street cars, a five-cent fare and "universal" transfers to all sections of the city, were suggestions of the Southeast Citizens Association adopted last night at its meeting held in the Buchanan School, Thirteenth and D streets southeast.

Voicing disapproval of street railway conditions in their section, the citizens combined their likes and dislikes in one resolution, and voted to send it to Richmond B. Keech, the peoples' counsel.

The plan to equip all street railway vehicles with rubber tires came after members of the organization loudly condemned "the noise and racket of modern street cars."

But not only noise came to the attention of the meeting. One member of the association cited a certain portion of street car tracks on Pennsylvania avenue southeast, where "passengers are thrown from their feet by the unsteady motion of the cars."

Another member told the meeting how a section of track along the same thoroughfare had "sunk 4 inches."

"Why," he declared, "I thought they were going to let it sink all the way and build a subway over the top."

If the street car companies will launch a new program, install new equipment, place rubber tires on the cars and reduce the fare to 5 cents, they will profit "in big, round figures," the association averred.

MERCHANTS TO URGE GREATER INAUGURAL

Capital Association Wants Parade and Ball; to Ask Roosevelt's Aid.

What this country needs is a real old-fashioned inaugural celebration with a big parade and ball, the board of governors of the Washington Merchants and Manufactures Association decided at a meeting yesterday afternoon, on the eve of the departure of Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman of the inaugural committee, for Warm Springs, Ga., to confer with the President-elect on plans for the event.

Following the meeting, Mark Lansburgh, president of the association, announced that he would write immediately to Admiral Grayson advising him of the recommendation of the governing board. Mr. Lansburgh expressed hope that the sentiment of the association will be brought to the attention of Gov. Roosevelt at the forthcoming conference.

Members of the board of governors were emphatic in the belief that an elaborate inaugural would have a vivifying effect on the country, tending to speed the restoration of optimism and better trade conditions.

Tentative plans for the inauguration are expected to be placed before the Democratic advisory committee of the District at a meeting next Tuesday, it was announced yesterday by Chairman John P. Bramhall, following a luncheon at the University Club.

As soon as Gov. Roosevelt's wishes are definitely ascertained, Admiral Grayson will designate his committee in conjunction with the recommendaton of the advisory committee, and active preparations for the inaugural will be started, it was announced.

'Fox' Under $500 Bond On Bad Check Charge

On a charge of passing a worthless check for $125 in Virginia several months ago, Norman T. Whitaker, known as "The Fox" in the plot of Gaston B. Means to mulct $104,000 from Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, yesterday was released in a bond of $500 in Police Court to guarantee his appearance next month when a hearing is held on his extradition to Virginia.

Whitaker was released on $10,000 bond Monday on the charge that sent Means to jail for 15 years. He was named in the same indictment, but he and Means were granted a severance in their trials.

Traffic Conditions At Intersection Hit

Delay in Action to Remedy Situation at Twelfth and P Scored.

A reunion dinner, attended by 40 persons, preceded a business meeting of the Logan-Thomas Circle Citizens Association last night at the Northminster Presbyterian Church at which traffic conditions at Twelfth and P streets northwest, were severely criticized.

Mrs. Ella M. Thompson, president of the association, expressed resentment over the fact that although complaint has been made over the situation at the intersection that no action has been taken to remedy it. She declared that there are an average of three accidents a week at the crossing and that she has witnessed a number of them. Mrs. Thompson and Edward A. Young were delegated to confer with William A. Van Duzer, traffic director, in regard to the matter.

A talk on the operations and growth of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., was given by John A. Remon, general manager of the company. Mrs. Fred Haig was in charge of the dinner.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

Of 1,495 persons injured in automobile accidents in 1931, not one was struck by vehicles because of a physical deformity. Persons handicapped physically escape the dangers of traffic by being cautious in crossing the street.

Two hundred and three of the automobiles involved in collisions last year had mechanical defects. Wise motorists take proper precautions and insure themselves and others by maintaining their vehicles in good condition.

There have been 44 more deaths and 230 more injuries to date than during the corresponding period of 1931. The number of accidents has decreased by 400. The figures are:

| | 1931. | 1932. |
|---|---|---|
| Deaths | 70 | 114 |
| Injuries | 3,248 | 3,478 |
| Accidents | 7,565 | 7,156 |

"Be Careful!"

THIRD DOCTOR FALLS ILL IN TYPHUS TESTS

Dr. W. G. Workman Bitten by Flea, Is Belief at U. S. Health Institute.

Typhus fever experiments at the National Institute of Health yesterday caused the third infection of a worker there with the dread disease. Dr. William G. Workman was reported seriously ill at the Naval Hospital.

Dr. Rolla E. Dyer, assistant director of the institute, last month recovered from a virulent typhus infection. It was Dr. Workman, Dr. Dyer's assistant, who experimented with Dr. Dyer during his illness.

It is thought that he contracted the disease when bitten by a flea which Dr. Dyer had ordered placed upon his body in an effort to clear up an obscure point in the progress of the disease.

The disease, "endemic typhus," is carried by the bite of rat fleas. Dr. Dyer is thought to have been bitten during his work in an effort to produce a vaccine.

The experiments of the National Institute of Health and the Public Health Service, during a period of two years, have brought about some of the most important medical discoveries of this generation.

The first experimenter to contract the disease was Dr. W. E. Cedar. He recovered.

Dr. Dyer, though still weak, is able to work a few hours a day, and it is thought that he will attempt to determine whether a rat flea can transmit the disease from Dr. Workman to experimental animal. It was this point that Dr. Workman tried to prove with indifferent results, when Dr. Dyer was ill.

Hecht Announces Personnel Changes

Harry Ullman Leaves and Benjamin Levinson Is His Successor.

Harry Ullman, for the last fifteen years with the Hecht Co., has resigned as merchandise manager of the main floor departments to take over the post of general merchandise manager of Goldenberg's. He is succeeded by Benjamin Levinson, formerly with the Kirby, Block & Fischer and Hahn department stores.

David Linker, formerly buyer of men's furnishings, has been appointed as assistant to Mr. Levinson. His position has been taken by Willard Nalls, formerly buyer for the men's sport shop, who, in turn, was succeeded by Alfred Bennett.

Jack Garrett, furniture buyer for 10 years, has resigned to take over the post of sales manager of a furniture manufacturing concern in North Carolina.

WELFARE UNIT ASKS $1,500,000 FUND FOR UNEMPLOYMENT AID

Amount Urged on City Heads Would Include Relief to Additional List.

The Board of Public Welfare yesterday recommended to the District Commissioners that appropriations totaling $1,500,000 be asked of Congress for the relief of the unemployed in Washington during the calendar year 1933. An additional $180,000 over the $1,320,000 estimated to meet the needs of relief cases now being carried was asked to provide for 500 families now under the care of private charity organizations and for 500 single men now being denied aid.

After a prolonged conference with welfare officials and Auditor Daniel J. Donovan, Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the board, said the Commissioners had not reached a decision on the estimate to be transmitted to Congress via the Budget Bureau.

Classification of Budget.

The estimate submitted by the welfare board allowed for the appropriation of $750,000 in the urgency deficiency bill to cover the period from January 1 to June 30, and an equal amount, to be included in the District act, for the second half of the year. The half year's budget was classified as follows:

(1) To continue caring for 5,550 families at an average allowance of $20 a month, $660,000;

(2) To aid 500 families now being cared for by private relief agencies at the same average rate, $60,000;

(3) To care for 500 single men, now being denied aid, at $10 a month, $30,000.

Copies of Reports Attached.

Copies of reports previously made public by Leroy A. Halbert, director of emergency unemployment relief, on the special committee of the welfare board, were attached to the estimates.

"In proposing this large estimate," the main report read, "the Board of Public Welfare has had in mind the distress that exists in the District of Columbia. It has, however, not been unmindful of the problem of providing sufficient funds to meet the expenses of the District government.

"The board feels, however, that it is bound to submit this estimate for $1,500,000 for the calendar year 1933 as its minimum estimate. If conditions shall improve during the coming year, as we may hope they will, every effort will be made to conserve a portion of the appropriation."

Cites Number of Idle.

The report reiterates that only $108,313.91 of the original $350,000 relief fund appropriated by the last Congress remained on November 19. Expenditures since August 1 were classified as $223,925.46 for relief and $17,760.63 for administration.

It also points out that surveys of private industry and the Federal and District governments indicate that there are 45,000 unemployed in the District.

Referring to the last weekly report of the director, showing that $251-208.19 was spent for 5,469 families, the board stated:

"It is assumed, therefore, that making no allowance for increase in the number of families under care, and making no allowance for increase in expenditures due to the need of winter fuel, the monthly rate of expenditure must be approximately $110-000, or for the six-month period, $660,000."

Bazaar at St. Paul's Academy.

The annual bazaar of St. Paul's Academy will be held tomorrow and Friday in the social hall at 1421 V street northwest. Proceeds will go for relief of the needy. Arrangements are being completed by Miss Lillian Marshall, Miss Charlotte Knapp, Miss Ruth Jaskson and Miss Anna Ghilkes.
